Heard by City Council

BY HUGH REYNOLDS

A resident of the Fifth Ward, armed with a bag of cement dust from window sills in his ward, charged the Common Council with complacency for failing to take action against alleged air pollution caused by the Hudson Cement Plant on North Street at the aldermen's monthly meeting last night.

Alfred P. Marquart of 72 Crane Street addressed the council and said he was speaking for residents of Kingston, East Kingston and Rhinecliff.

There were 23 persons present when he spoke.

Holding aloft what he described as a bag of cement dust, Marquart said that exhibits of pollution in the Fifth Ward had fallen on the bemused ears of the aldermen in the past.

He referred to the July meeting in which Alderman Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-Fifth Ward) displayed a basket of dirt which he (Sinsabaugh) claimed was cement dust scooped out of the gutters of the Fifth Ward. During the recess some other alderman went out in the rain and came back with twigs which they planted in Sinsabaugh's basket.

Marquart called for a lowering of the assessments in the Fifth Ward because, in his opinion, the residents were not getting full value of their property since the air was often choked with dust and foul odors.

He called upon the council to enact ordinances with "teeth in them" similar to Cleveland which fines polluters $500 per day for violations.

In conclusion Marquart said,

"Let us know where you stand so we know how to vote and can contact people in your wards to guide their voting. It is the men who will help us who will get our support."

Urban Renewal and matters related to it took up quite a bit of the meeting. Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's appointees to the Urban Renewal Agency were duly read with no verbal opposition from the aldermen.

However, Alderman John Naccarato (R-Third Ward) in a radio interview questioned the

Assail McNamara
In Row Over Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan charged today that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's claimed $1 billion savings on a controversial warplane has become "a multibillion-dollar blunder."

And the shaggy-browed Arkansas Democrat predicted that unless the Pentagon chief makes drastic changes in the program, the cost of supplying the Air Force and Navy with a fleet of the multiservice F111s, commonly called the TFX, could top original estimates by $6 billion.

McClellan is chairman of the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee which is continuing its 5-year-old inquiry into the TFX program. His comments came in an interview as a Senate Appropriations subcommittee prepared to release the censored transcript of a hearing at which, sources report, Pentagon officials conceded the Navy version of the F111 still is unsuitable for service.

The controversy dates back to late 1962, when McNamara awarded General Dynamics Corp. a contract to develop a supersonic swing-wing combat aircraft that would satisfy the combined needs of the Air Force and Navy.

By using identical parts, McNamara contended he could save $1 billion in building the all-purpose craft. Research and development costs originally were estimated at $711 million, but McClellan says they now will exceed $2 billion.

"That's no billion-dollar savings," he added. "That's a multibillion-dollar blunder in itself." McClellan declined to give a more specific figure.

McClellan also said the initial estimate for producing 1,700 of the planes was $5.8 billion but "now we are told that to produce 1,300 planes, or 400 less, it is going to cost $10 billion to $12 billion. In other words, we are going to get fewer planes and we are going to pay double."

Five years ago, it was estimated that each F111 would cost about $2.8 million. Now officials say each F111A Air Force tactical fighter will cost $5 million while each Navy F111B will cost $8 million.

Defense Department officials attribute the higher unit cost to program changes, reduced quantities, changes in deployment concepts, and added fire-power capabilities.

McClellan places the blame "on the fact that the engineering has been done in the Defense Department rather than being left to competent technical engineers."

FRANKIE — Singer Frank Sinatra reportedly was punched in the mouth and lost two teeth during a weekend ruckus at Las Vegas' Sands Hotel, it was disclosed yesterday. Witnesses said Carl Cohen, 54, a vice president of the hotel, was called to calm Sinatra, who allegedly was shouting obscenities in the gambling casino. Sinatra threw betting chips in Cohen's face, the witness said, and Cohen retaliated by punching the singer in the mouth. (EXCLUSIVE UPI TELEPHOTO)

Vietnam Flag Raising Honors Joy

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

An American flag was flown over the 3rd Marine Division Command Post located at the Phu Bai Marine Combat Base, Republic of Vietnam on Friday, Aug. 18 in honor of Corporal Chester J. Joy, 19, of Kingston.

Corporal Joy was killed in action while serving with F Company, Second Battalion, 26th Marines in the vicinity of the demilitarized zone in Quang Tri Province on May 16.

Donated by Vols The flag was donated by Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 and was to have been sent to Corporal Joy in Vietnam to be dedicated at a public service in June. After word was received here of his death, the flag was sent to his company to be flown in his honor.

Edward H. Engelhardt, chairman of the Ulster County Vietnam Servicemen's Committee, received the flag this week with a letter from Lieut. Col. D. Chaplin of the 26th Marines, 3rd Division in Vietnam.

The flag and letter will be presented to the parents of Corporal Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Joy of 49 Harwich Street.

Lieut. Col. Chaplin in the letter to Ulster Hose Co. said the flag was received in Vietnam on Aug. 11 and on Aug. 18 it was flown on the flag pole of the 3rd Division Command Post at Phu Bai Marine Combat Base in honor of Corporal Joy, where his company is presently assigned.

"It was a pleasure to have the flag flown on the flagpole at the Phu Bai Marine Combat Base in Corporal Joy's honor," Lieut. Col. Chaplin said. "Our main duty is to provide security for the Phu Bai Vital Area and to conduct counter-insurgency operations in the Tactical Area of Responsibility."

Chaplin said that the F Company commander and members of Corporal Joy's platoon attended a special memorial chapel service, held at the Battalion Chapel, at which the flag was displayed with honor on the Altar in his memory.

Send Condolences "The fellow Marines of Corporal Joy greatly feel his loss and send their heartfelt condolences to Corporal Joy's family and friends," Chaplin wrote.

Commenting on the package gift movement sponsored by Ulster Hose Co., Chaplin said, "It is with great pleasure to note the splendid support you are giving our servicemen in Vietnam. The Battalion is involved in civic pacification at the District of Phu Loc in which the local population is assisted in the development of better schools, provision of medical assistance, improvement of the market area, construction of fresh water wells and similar projects."

"Clothing is also distributed to the needy through gifts that come to the chaplain's office from concerned friends of the Battalion in the United States."

In conclusion Chaplin expressed his thanks to Ulster Hose Co. 5 "for having brought a little more sunshine into our hearts by your support, concern and interest."

Artillery and Mortar Duels
Rage Across Demilitarized Zone

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) —Thunderous artillery and mortar duels between U.S. Marine and Communist gunners raged today across the demilitarized line dividing Vietnam.

Military reports said six Marines were killed and 109 wounded in the steady gunfire and Communist probes during the past 24 hours. Some South Vietnamese troops were also casualties but their number was not announced.

The bunkered fortress of Con Thien, the key to Marine defenses below the demilitarized zone, threw back an attack by 150 North Vietnamese regulars just before dawn.

The mounting Communist fire and thunderous response from American guns and bombers shook the scarred battle zone around the clock.

With ground fighting light elsewhere and heavy weather curtailing air strikes against North Vietnam, the area around the demilitarized zone was the major concern.

Two Heavy Raids Eight-engine B52s made two more heavy raids on suspected North Vietnamese hideouts in the zone today. In the past 24 hours the big bombers have dropped about 750,000 pounds of bombs in the area.

Smaller jet fighter-bombers also roared over to blast Red gun positions in the zone and to the north where Soviet-made artillery with a range of 15 miles is dotted. Air Force officers said the Communists are also making another effort to bring their big Soviet surface-to-air missiles down to use against the B52s but so far haven't been able to get them into firing positions.

North Vietnamese gunners in the area brought down one Air Force Phantom jet on a photo mission Tuesday. The plane limped out to sea, the two crewmen parachuted into the Tonkin Gulf, and both were rescued.

A U.S. spokesman said the plane was hit by gunners in the southern half of the DMZ and therefore was considered the 204th U.S. combat plane lost in South Vietnam. Initially it was reported downed in North Vietnam, which would have made it the 675th combat plane lost there.

Fort Under Attack The big sandbagged fort at Con Thien, two miles below the DMZ, was the focus of renewed Red attacks. The fortress, largely underground, sits astride the easiest and quickest route south.

Every Red barrage was met with Marine fire directed on the enemy gunpits by radar, spotter planes and ground observers in towers looking for muzzle flashes. Naval destroyers cruised off the coast hurling five-inch shells into the Red positions.

The heavy weather over North Vietnam limited U.S. pilots to 84 attack missions Tuesday, the lowest number since July 3 when only 75 were flown. All the targets were well below the Hanoi-Haiphong area. Most were bridges, radar stations and points along the panhandle supply line to South Vietnam.

U.S. headquarters said weather forecasts indicated a similar pattern of alternate clear and cloudy days in the coming weeks before the monsoon season shifts, sometime in October, and ushers in a long period of rain and clouds.

Glancing Blows A correspondent for the Manila Times who was in the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong

Monday when U.S. Navy planes dropped bombs four-fifths of a mile from the city's center reported today that Haiphong has so far taken only glancing blows from U.S. air raids.

The Filipino newsmen, Amanda Doronilla, said he was told after the raids Monday the U.S. pilots "bombed the Route 5 approaches to Haiphong."

"Route 5, a 105-kilometer highway linking Hanoi and Haiphong, has been bombed and repaired countless times," Doronilla added.

"After the clear siren, people were back in the streets as though nothing happened," he said.

Political Squabble On the political front, informed sources said the winners in South Vietnam's presidential election, President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President-elect Nguyen Cao Ky are squabbling over who will name the key members of the new government.

Ky, the best-known member of the ruling junta, was reported insisting that he choose the premier, the minister of economy and the pacification minister. But Thieu told Ky he could hand out any jobs but these, informants said.

After a bitter argument with Thieu Saturday, Ky threatened to resign from the vice presidency, the sources said, but friends talked him out of it.

Registration of New York City in Tannersville towards noon.

According to a spokesman for the Ulster County Republican Committee, Rockefeller is "going around to a number of cities in the state to explore the bond issue theme."

It is expected that news-men will also query the Governor on a number of other issues including the upcoming 1968 GOP national convention, and the chances for so-called "moderate" Republicans to capture the presidential nomination.

Registration will be conducted tonight from 6 to 9 o'clock by Ulster County Community College at its Stone Ridge campus for evening and extension courses offered by the college.

The registration will be for evening courses offered at the Stone Ridge campus, Kingston Classroom Building, and for extension courses being offered at Ellenville High School, Saugerties Junior-Senior High School and the Woodstock Elementary School.

Send Condolences
The fellow Marines of Corporal Joy greatly feel his loss and send their heartfelt condolences to Corporal Joy's family and friends," Chaplin wrote.

Commenting on the package gift movement sponsored by Ulster Hose Co., Chaplin said, "It is with great pleasure to note the splendid support you are giving our servicemen in Vietnam. The Battalion is involved in civic pacification at the District of Phu Loc in which the local population is assisted in the development of better schools, provision of medical assistance, improvement of the market area, construction of fresh water wells and similar projects."

"Clothing is also distributed to the needy through gifts that come to the chaplain's office from concerned friends of the Battalion in the United States."

In conclusion Chaplin expressed his thanks to Ulster Hose Co. 5 "for having brought a little more sunshine into our hearts by your support, concern and interest."

Artillery and Mortar Duels Rage Across Demilitarized Zone

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) —Thunderous artillery and mortar duels between U.S. Marine and Communist gunners raged today across the demilitarized line dividing Vietnam.

Military reports said six Marines were killed and 109 wounded in the steady gunfire and Communist probes during the past 24 hours. Some South Vietnamese troops were also casualties but their number was not announced.

The bunkered fortress of Con Thien, the key to Marine defenses below the demilitarized zone, threw back an attack by 150 North Vietnamese regulars just before dawn.

The mounting Communist fire and thunderous response from American guns and bombers shook the scarred battle zone around the clock.

With ground fighting light elsewhere and heavy weather curtailing air strikes against North Vietnam, the area around the demilitarized zone was the major concern.

Two Heavy Raids

Eight-engine B52s made two more heavy raids on suspected North Vietnamese hideouts in the zone today. In the past 24 hours the big bombers have dropped about 750,000 pounds of bombs in the area.

Smaller jet fighter-bombers also roared over to blast Red gun positions in the zone and to the north where Soviet-made artillery with a range of 15 miles is dotted. Air Force officers said the Communists are also making another effort to bring their big Soviet surface-to-air missiles down to use against the B52s but so far haven't been able to get them into firing positions.

North Vietnamese gunners in the area brought down one Air Force Phantom jet on a photo mission Tuesday. The plane limped out to sea, the two crewmen parachuted into the Tonkin Gulf, and both were rescued.

A U.S. spokesman said the plane was hit by gunners in the southern half of the DMZ and therefore was considered the 204th U.S. combat plane lost in South Vietnam. Initially it was reported downed in North Vietnam, which would have made it the 675th combat plane lost there.

Fort Under Attack
The big sandbagged fort at Con Thien, two miles below the DMZ, was the focus of renewed Red attacks. The fortress, largely underground, sits astride the easiest and quickest route south.

Every Red barrage was met with Marine fire directed on the enemy gunnys by radar, spotter planes and ground observers in towers looking for muzzle flashes. Naval destroyers cruised off the coast hurling five-inch shells into the Red positions.

The heavy weather over North Vietnam limited U.S. pilots to 84 attack missions Tuesday, the lowest number since July 3 when only 75 were flown. All the targets were well below the Hanoi-Haiphong area. Most were bridges, radar stations and points along the panhandle supply line to South Vietnam.

U.S. headquarters said weather forecasts indicated a similar pattern of alternate clear and cloudy days in the coming weeks before the monsoon season shifts, sometime in October, and ushers in a long period of rain and clouds.

Glancing Blows
A correspondent for the Manila Times who was in the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong

Monday when U.S. Navy planes dropped bombs four-fifths of a mile from the city's center reported today that Haiphong has so far taken only glancing blows from U.S. air raids.

The Filipino newsmen, Amando Doronilla, said he was told after the raids Monday the U.S. pilots "bombed the Route 5 approaches to Haiphong."

"Route 5, a 105-kilometer highway linking Hanoi and Haiphong, has been bombed and repaired countless times," Doronilla added.

"After the clear siren, people were back in the streets as though nothing happened," he said.

Political Squabble

On the political front, informed sources said the winners in South Vietnam's presidential election, President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President-elect Nguyen Cao Ky are squabbling over who will name the key members of the new government.

Ky, the best-known member of the ruling junta, was reported insisting that he choose the premier, the minister of economy and the pacification minister. But Thieu told Ky he could hand out any jobs but these, informants said.

After a bitter argument with Thieu Saturday, Ky threatened to resign from the vice presidency, the sources said, but friends talked him out of it.

Rocky to Visit City on Thursday

At about 2:30 p. m. Thursday, Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller will be brought to the City of Kingston by helicopter. The "chopper" carrying the Governor will land at the Kingston Thruway exit.

Meeting Governor Rockefeller at the Thruway will be Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R-Woodstock), Ulster County Republican, Chairman John E. Sterley, and other GOP leaders.

The Governor will be taken to the Governor Clinton Hotel where he will participate in an informal panel discussion with Ulster County newsmen on the transportation bond issue at 3 p. m.

Rockefeller will visit Poughkeepsie in the morning and will address a convention of the Police Benevolent Association.

Registration will be conducted tonight from 6 to 9 o'clock by Ulster County Community College at its Stone Ridge campus for evening and extension courses offered by the college.

The registration will be for evening courses offered at the Stone Ridge campus, Kingston Classroom Building, and for extension courses being offered at Ellenville High School, Saugerties Junior-Senior High School, and the Woodstock Elementary School.

Milwaukee Turmoil

Demand Priest's Ouster

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — About 400 youths from the virtually all-white South Side marched on the brick mansion of the Roman Catholic archbishop of Milwaukee Tuesday night in a demand for a Church crackdown on a white priest leading Negro open housing marches.

The South Side was the scene of violence Monday night as rocks and bottles cut short a Negro march led by the Rev. James E. Groppi, assistant pastor at St. Boniface church.

Father Groppi again led an open housing march Tuesday night but stayed away from the South Side where police estimated 3,500 whites were awaiting his return.

16th Night
It was the city's 16th straight night of open housing demonstrations.

Before Father Groppi's march had taken to the streets, white marchers, describing themselves as "closed housing" advocates, moved out of the South Side to the residence of Archbishop William E. Cousins.

They carried a black cardboard coffin bearing the inscription, "Father Groppi rest in hell," and, "God is white."

A delegation of the marchers was admitted to the archbishop's residence. The archbishop had no comment on what was said.

Committee Study
However, Harry Lange, 27, a bearded and tattooed Navy veteran, said the archbishop told the delegation that "a committee of priests was taking up matters with Father Groppi."

"We asked him to recall Father Groppi," Lange said.

The archbishop has consistently refused to take any disciplinary steps against the priest.

After the conference, the white youths marched back to any march at this time," police the South Side where the side-told the group. After sporadic walks along 16th Street were rock and bottle throwing at off-lined with people awaiting the cers, police ordered the streets civil rights demonstrators, cleared, and the people left

"We have no knowledge of without serious incident."

Pope Might Have Surgery

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Three doctors who examined Pope Paul VI today said an operation might be necessary to cure his urinary ailment.

The doctors in a statement said the Pope's condition had "improved notably." They said the present treatment for his condition, diagnosed as cystopyelitis, would be continued, but that if necessary surgery might be used.

Beulah's Gone but Here's Chloe

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Tamed from a fearsome hurricane to a simmering tropical storm, Beulah edged her 50-mile-an-hour gales away from land in the Caribbean today while Hurricane Chloe built up steam far out in the Atlantic Ocean.

Beulah left 18 dead. Chloe brewed her strength to 110 m.p.h. Tuesday about 850 miles east southeast of Bermuda.

Ingrid Returns in Triumph

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A star-filled audience cheered Ingrid Bergman's return to the American stage Tuesday night and gave lesser plaudits to her vehicle, Eugene O'Neill's "More Stately Mansions."

The Swedish actress drew immense applause upon her entrance in the tragedy and received a roar of approval at her curtain calls. Among the first-nichters were Rosalind Russell, Gregory Peck, Alfred Hitchcock, Donna Reed, Art Linkletter, Eva Marie Saint, Jim Nabors, Jack Oakie.

Egypt, Israel Reject Proposal

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel will reject a U.N. proposal to keep its ships out of the Gulf of Suez and Egypt is expected to do likewise, official sources said today.

The ban on the gulf between the southern end of the Suez Canal and the Red Sea was proposed by Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the U.N. cease-fire supervisor, after shipping in the gulf touched off a clash between Israeli and Egyptian forces on Sept. 4.

Canal Society Plans Program Of D&H Slides

Barbara White of High Falls will host an open program sponsored by the D and H Canal Historical Society, Inc., Sunday, Sept. 17 at 8 p. m.

High spot of the evening will be a showing of 35mm color slides of the D and H and other canals. Reminiscences of canal days by local old-timers are also scheduled. Society members, their friends, and prospective members may attend.

Miss White's home is on Mohonk Road, 100 yards east of the High Falls firehouse. It is the former St. John's Episcopal Church, and has been refurbished.

Those attending may wish to come to High Falls early to visit the DePew Hostelry near Lock No. 16 at the town's village green. Here, such canal memorabilia as boat equipment, tools, pictures, maps, post cards and models will be displayed. The DePew house dates back to 1797, when it was built as a tavern. It now belongs to John Novi, president of the canal society.

The exhibit will be for the benefit of the Ulster County Historical Society, which, the day before, will have visited the museum as the last stop in a field trip beginning in Phillipsport. For those interested in the UCHS field trip, Dr. Virgil DeWitt, New Paltz, may be contacted.

Donald Ross, chairman of the canal society slide program, requests that anyone having 35mm slides of the canal bring them.

Canal Society Plans Program Of D&H Slides

Barbara White of High Falls will host an open program sponsored by the D and H Canal Historical Society, Inc., Sunday, Sept. 17 at 8 p. m.

High spot of the evening will be a showing of 35mm color slides of the D and H other canals. Reminiscences of canal days by local old-timers are also scheduled. Society members, their friends, and prospective members may attend.

Miss White's home is on Mohawk Road, 100 yards east of the High Falls firehouse. It is the former St. John's Episcopal Church, and has been refurbished.

Those attending may wish to come to High Falls early to visit the DePew Hostelry near Lock No. 16 at the town's village green. Here, such canal memorabilia as boat equipment, tools, pictures, maps, post cards and models will be displayed. The DePew house dates back to 1797, when it was built as a tavern. It now belongs to John Novi, president of the canal society.

The exhibit will be for the benefit of the Ulster County Historical Society, which, the day before, will have visited the museum as the last stop in a field trip beginning in Phillipsport. For those interested in the UCHS field trip, Dr. Virgil DeWitt, New Paltz, may be contacted.

Donald Ross, chairman of the canal society slide program, requests that anyone having 35mm slides of the canal bring them.

Farm Bureau Hearing in Area Has Conditions

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick said today that John J. Gaffney Jr., "has a fine idea in requesting an open hearing on the Farm Bureau in the 28th District." Gaffney, president of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, called for the hearing yesterday.

The Congressman said, "I would be very happy to hold a hearing on the Farm Bureau in the 28th District, on the condition that Mr. William Bensley, president of the New York State Farm Bureau, testify at the hearing. My criticisms of the Farm Bureau have been directed solely at the national organization, not individual members, people who join to buy the insurance, nor even the local county Farm Bureaus. I know that Mr. Gaffney is sincere in his request for a hearing. But, my charges have dealt, not with local Farm Bureaus, but with the national organization which has used the farmers without their knowledge or consent to build a tax-free insurance empire."

"I have asked Mr. Gaffney to arrange for Mr. Bensley's appearance at the hearing because he is president of the Farm Family Mutual Insurance Company, the Farm Bureau owned insurance company in New York State. Bensley is also a director of the American Agricultural Mutual Insurance Company and a director of the Farm Bureau Mutual Fund. As a result of these connections, he would be able to shed light on the insurance dealings of the National Farm Bureau organization."

Chiropractors to Fight Polio Vaccine Program

The New York State Chiropractic Society says it plans to test the constitutionality of a state law that requires anti-polio shots for most school children.

A spokesman for the society said in Brooklyn Tuesday that "If one keeps body resistance high, there is no need for vaccinations."

He said the society, which claims 475 members, would test the law in courts.

The law became effective last January. It provides an exemption for children whose parents are "bonafide members of a recognized religious organization whose teachings are contrary to the practice" of immunization. The law also exempts children whose health would be impaired by inoculation.

The spokesman said the society objects to the exemption for religious reasons. He did not elaborate, but did say "we are a healing art."

Some chiropractors are keeping their children from attending school rather than submit them to inoculation.

A spokesman for a larger chiropractic group said Tuesday, however, that his organization did not take any position in the dispute.

"It's an individual matter," said a spokesman for the Chiropractic Association of New York Inc. The association claims 800 members.

Strike in Third Day

City Seeks to Have Teachers Fined

BY BOB MONROE

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City is seeking to have the teachers union fined $10,000 a day and its leaders jailed as their strike which has snarled classes for 1.1 million public school pupils enters its third day.

More than half of those pupils stayed away from school Tuesday as pickets from the 49,000-member AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers continued to pace sidewalks instead of classrooms.

Court hearings are set for today on an earlier city motion to ban the strike and a federation suit seeking to halt the operation of the schools until the dispute is settled.

City Corporation Council J. Lee Rankin said the move late Tuesday to fine the union marked the first use of the punitive fines provision in the state's new law against strikes by public employees.

Union President Albert Shanker met for an hour with school officials in a new attempt at negotiation on the wage and policy dispute but said there was little progress.

However, Board of Education President Alfred A. Giordano found the session "fruitful."

Many schools, especially high schools, simply took attendance then sent the youngsters home. Where classes were kept going it was with the aid of volunteers and parents.

In Harlem, Negro parents prevented a white teacher and newsmen from entering a school where Black Power leader H. Rap Brown was said to have taught a class in "black history and the movement."

School Supt. Bernard E. Donovan later contended that Brown was heard only by teachers and volunteers at Intermediate School 201 and did not instruct any youngsters.

There was one arrest later outside the school following a scuffle between picketing teachers and counterpickets.

Another volunteer was Floyd McKissick, national chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality. He termed the strike "a classic example of why black communities want to control their own school systems."

The union is demanding smaller classes, more teacher authority over "disruptive children," a stronger program for slum youngsters and higher pay.

By a vote of 12,333 to 2,523 the teachers rejected a mediation-panel-recommended and board-approved contract. The city valued the two-year package at $125 million but Shanker estimated it at only $85 million.

The number who voted on the offer was about a third of the number who stayed out of classes. The union said it was agreed the vote would be binding on all members.

The federation originally demanded a salary scale for its teachers of $7,500 to $18,000 a year. The panel's recommendation was $6,600 to $13,600, while the old contract ranged from $5,400 to $11,950.

Tax Receipts

Ulster County's share of the motor vehicle tax receipts for the three month period ending June 30, is $26,685.04 as compared to $38,953.96 for the same period last year.

Sino-Indian Fight Continues

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian and Red Chinese forces exchanged fire for the third straight day today across the Himalayan border between Tibet and the Indian protectorate of Sikkim.

A spokesman for the Indian Defense Ministry said the Chinese, after a 12-hour lull, began shooting again at 2:30 a.m. across the 14,000-foot Nathu Pass, about 20 miles from Gangtok, the Sikkimese capital.

"This is perhaps the Chinese way of replying to our note suggesting a cease-fire beginning at 5:30 a.m. Wednesday," said the spokesman.

He said the firing was continuing on a "subdued" scale and indicated the Indian forces were shooting back.

There was no word whether the new exchange had caused casualties on either side.

The Defense Ministry had reported its border force suffered light casualties in the previous two days of firing. The Chinese claimed that 36 of their border guards were killed or wounded.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said Tuesday that the clash at Nathu Pass, where Indian forces guard the mountain crossing between Tibet and Sikkim, "is not a new danger."

"The Chinese danger has always been there," Mrs. Gandhi told a news conference at Julunder, 100 miles north of New Delhi.

The Chinese accused the Indians of crossing the frontier and launching the attack on Monday.

The Indians said the Chinese opened fire first with rifles and machine guns and followed this with 76mm artillery. Later, they said, the Chinese reduced their fire to 22mm cannon and grenades until they had destroyed a barbed wire barrier the Indians were erecting along the border.

Newsman in the area reported there was no evidence of any substantial troop buildup along the frontier.

Sikkim, a tiny Himalayan kingdom of 170,000 people with an armed force of 300 palace guards, depends on India for its defense.

"On my honor I will try: to do my duty to God and my Country, to help other people at all times, to obey the Girl Scout Laws."

The first Girl Scout Troop was organized in the Ulster County area in Kingston in 1916, just four years after Juliette Low brought Girl Scouting to the United States from England. By 1917, active troops were formed in Wallkill, New Paltz, Ellenville and Highland, along with several Kingston troops.

Over the years Girl Scouting has continued to grow in the county and at the present time is serving 3,634 girls from seven to seventeen. Additionally the Council has 615 registered adults all of whom received training of various types last year. It might be interesting to note that 2,818 of these girls live in the Community Chest area!

Ulster County was one of the first Girl Scout councils in the country to become incorporated. This came about in 1926 as a direct result of the will of Marion Borden of Wallkill. She bequeathed 56 acres of land to be used for a Girl Scout camp at the site which is now known as Camp Wendy and legal procedures required the Council to be incorporated. We have been using the site at Wendy for 50 years and recently celebrated the anniversary of 50 continual years of camping at the Wallkill site.

At the present time the Council employs an executive director and two full time field advisors which enable us to give better services throughout the county. This is the first time we have had a full staff. Because of this professional help we have been able to introduce a successful day camp into our program this summer and plan to expand it next year.

One of our many goals (both national and local) is to put emphasis on reaching the "Hard to Reach" girls in the county. We are very proud of the fact that we have over 150 girls registered in troops from the Rondout Section in Kingston and recently organized a troop of 21 handicapped children from the Emma Wygant school for trainables.

With an excellent professional staff and so many dedicated adult volunteers Scouting will certainly continue to grow and our program will expand and develop.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 13, 1967

New Urban Renewal Agency

Kingston now has a new five-member urban renewal agency and we congratulate these citizens for accepting the responsibility for this important redevelopment program.

These members while lacking in experience in the workings of an urban renewal program have the necessary experience in business administration and service in community endeavors to see that the projects in this city are successfully completed.

In announcing his appointments, Mayor Garraghan declared "this is my board. It's my responsibility." It is good to hear the mayor so declare himself and also to say that he will take a more active role in urban renewal than previously. Whether urban renewal should have independence from City Hall, after what has happened to the project and to the outstanding citizens who had been serving, should not even be considered. Let the mayor, members of the Common Council, other elected and appointed officials and citizens at large get behind this new group so that some day we will see this job finished.

Members of the new urban renewal agency have a right to expect cooperation and support from everyone in the community.

On his inspection tour of the local projects, James Grossman, legislative aid to Senator Javits, reiterated what has been expressed in The Freeman on numerous occasions: "This rehaphing of past problems has got to stop. The problems of Kingston are in the future, not the past."

Medicare Information

Those who are receiving Social Security payments and are covered by Medicare are not aware of its provisions because of the lack of information. The result of this shortcoming is that Medicare is not accomplishing its prime objective of providing full protection for those who should have help in bearing their burdens.

The Wall Street Journal observes that the Medicare information booklet, containing forms to be used in the event medical services are needed, seems to have been written by people schooled in composing the instructions for filling out Federal income tax returns. Which is to say that much of the Medicare material is hard for most youthful intelligences to understand clearly. To many elderly people, it is beyond comprehension.

Since Congress voted to put Medicare in operation, imperfect as the program is, certainly it ought to see to it that it is understandable to those who have to use it. The House, unfortunately, before passing its amended version of the Social Security Act last month, centered attention almost wholly on public welfare provisions of the act.

However, the Senate Finance Committee, which now is considering the House-passed version, shows interest in correcting the House omissions. It is looking into the problems that arise when the elderly are confused to find that if their doctor refuses to accept "assignment" of their bill, they first have to pay it themselves. Only then can they send a receipted bill to the carrier named by the government to handle their claims and reimburse them. Some are unable to pay without first borrowing the money, if indeed they can.

The Senate committee already has heard from health insurance representatives that Medicare's operations puzzle doctors, hospitals, accountants and insurance firms. So it is small wonder that old people are bewildered as well.

Why the Senators do not call for testimony from some of the elderly who have had to wrestle with Medicare's frustratingly obscure instructions and rules is one of those small mysteries that often befog Congressional proceedings. Maybe hearing from the people Medicare directly affects is just too obvious a way of learning something useful.

The people should be afforded the opportunity of informing themselves reliably on the whole subject of social security.

After a short trial of zoning, licensing and designing tree houses that could be built in backyards, the town of Riverhead at the end of Long Island dropped all restrictions. The kids can build them at will now, but the easement came too late for most, after vacation's end.

American resentment at French President Charles de Gaulle was taken out by tourists who skipped France this year. Returning from European tours, they relate that they discovered new places this year and shunned Paris and the Riviera. Tourists as political pressurists are a new American phenomenon.

Labor Union Demands Profit Sharing Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—The strike now going on in the automobile industry marks the first time that a large labor union has made a demand for a share of the profits of the employer.

The idea is that, during the next three years which the contract would cover, the employer would agree to give the unions a big wage settlement, with cash raises and "fringe" benefits of at least six per cent a year, but on top of all this, each company would, at the end of its fiscal year, make an extra payment to employees based on the company's profit position during the preceding 12 months.

Thus, if an automobile company had a good year of profits, it would have to turn part of the money over to the union's members. If, on the other hand, business was poor that year, the employees still would have the raise guaranteed in the basic contract and would not suffer at all. The stockholders might have to take a cut in dividends and perhaps even get no dividends at all. But the union members would be receiving their annual pay increase just the same, regardless of what a company's profit situation happened to be. What all this amounts to is "heads we win, and tails we win, too."

Profit-sharing plans in the past have not been popular with most labor unions. One reason is that if the gains in wages depended on the profits of the employer, there would not be much need for a union. But, in this instance, the United Auto Workers spokesmen seek to put this profit "frosting" on top of the regular wage cake.

It is being suggested by some observers in the automobile world that the union leadership might run into trouble with its members if they ever got a profit-sharing plan. For workers in a company not making a profit might find their fellow workers getting more through the profit-sharing procedure. These differences in earnings could attract workers from one company to another. Also, employees of a company which didn't make a profit would naturally wish their union to even things up for them by making higher wage demands the next time.

Most of the profit-sharing plans set up in recent years in other industries have been pension plans. Instead of paying out a share of the profit each year, as now is being proposed, the custom has been to put the money away as an added pension for retirement years.

The "Big Three" auto companies are likely to reject the demand for profit-sharing, and it is believed that the UAW will not insist on this plan if they win their demands. The employer viewpoint is that, if the workers do not share in the risks as stockholders do, they ought not to share in the profits. It is also to be noted that, where profit-sharing plans have been set up, they usually do not involve bargaining with unions and are found mostly in companies which do not have union contracts.

The only experience the automobile industry has had with a profit-sharing plan was the one adopted by the American Motors Corporation in 1961, and revised in 1964. Since the company has not earned a profit in the last few years, it has not paid any benefits. What is being proposed now by the United Auto Workers is considerably broader than the plan the American Motors Corporation had adopted.

An analysis of the relationship between employers and employees in large industries would disclose that profit-sharing plans have been successfully introduced in many businesses but that these involve a recognition of management's problems when it faces a bad year. It is hardly likely that large companies would ever agree to a profit-sharing plan which would require a fixed percentage of the profits to be given to employees each year, irrespective of the total earnings. For this would interfere with a company's planning for the future and particularly its accumulation of a surplus, out of which expansion or improvement of plant is financed.

The principle of profit-sharing involves reciprocity—a mutual recognition of the fact that risks are taken in business operations and that, if there is a plan for sharing profits, there must also be some way to share losses, or at least not to increase wages during years in which profits are shrinking.

Rails Face Turbulent Year

WASHINGTON — American railroads are headed for a tough wage decision this week when the Morse Arbitration Board makes its report. Following this report on the operating shop craft unions, the railroads are headed for some additional wage battles with the five operating brotherhoods.

The Morse board finished its hearings on Sept. 8, and met in the office of board member Ted Kheel on the following Saturday and Sunday. It has now reached a decision to be published at the end of this week.

All signs point to the probability that the board will give a more generous settlement to the truly skilled members of the shop craft unions than originally contemplated.

Insiders report that Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the board, has gone along with the argument of his colleague, Ted Kheel, that the machinists, who get a lower wage in the railroad industry than in the aircraft and other industries, should not be penalized because of lower railroad wage standards.

The railroads have argued that if they hike machinists' wages, they will be forced to reopen the wage scale of all the other unions and make comparable increases. Sen. Morse at first was inclined to buy this idea, but now has reversed himself. In the inside discussions of the board, he has favored correcting this inequity for the mechanics and the journeymen, even if it does upset the balance between them and other unions.

Kheel has argued that it's none of the board's business what is happening in the other unions. This is the same argument that was used by the Typographical Union in the New York newspaper strikes and basically the reason why there are only two morning newspapers in that city today.

Brotherhoods Split Up Those who have followed the inside discussions of the board say that Sen. Morse and Kheel have dominated discussions of the board's five members. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, has taken a purely partisan position for labor; while Fred Kappel, retired chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, has taken a partisan position on the side of management.

The fifth member is ex-Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Massachusetts Republican, who is "Mr. Integrity" but is not skilled as a labor negotiator and sometimes has difficulty following the intricate details of this very complicated dispute. He has been inclined to go along with the views of Morse and Kheel, and these three public members are really making the final decision.

It's significant that all three of the wage boards appointed by the President have favored an increase for the non-operating craft unions. The Ginsburg board, headed by Washington attorney David Ginsburg, first came up with a recommended increase.

When this was turned down, Charles Fahy, judge of the U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington, made a second study. He recommended a 6 per cent increase for all shop craft workers through a period of 18 months, with special 5-cent raises for journeymen and mechanics every six months during this 18-month period.

It's reported that the Morse board will extend the 18 months to two years and will recommend more money for both skilled and unskilled workers.

After the decision is published on Friday, either side can get 30 days on consider the finding.

But, even after this, the railroads face trouble from the five operating brotherhoods. In the past these five have been inclined to act together. Recently, however, they have split up. The engineers and firemen, who used to cooperate, are now at odds with each other. The conductors and trainmen, who also used to cooperate, are also at odds. They have already indicated they will ask for a reopening of their agreements with the carriers.

It looks like a turbulent wage year ahead for the railroads.

Castro Attempts Fail

Intelligence reports from Latin America show that Fidel Castro has launched a massive drive, financed by the Chinese, to stir up revolution in various key parts of Latin America.

The intelligence reports also state, however, that in every case so far Castro's Guerrilla attempts have failed. It makes heartwarming news compared with some of the military reports from South Vietnam.

Here is a summary of the latest secret intelligence reports:

In Bolivia, the army captured a batch of passports and signal plans used by used guerrillas, showing beyond any doubt that the revolution was inspired by Cubans and that Che Guevara, once War Minister for Fidel Castro, was originally in command. On Aug. 31, the Bolivian Army ambushed a group of guerrillas, killing several Cubans.

In Venezuela, the government has located a 15-man terrorist unit calling itself "The Strategic Sabotage Command." The captain has been captured and four lieutenants killed.

In Guatemala there have been no insurgent contacts of late. The situation is much better.

Reuther Runs for Cover

Walter Reuther, who has shrugged off the scowls of George Meany, couldn't take the scowls of an irate California Congressman and recently ran for cover. The Congressman was Chet Holifield, D-Calif., the Montebello haberdasher.

The issue was uranium miners in Colorado and the Southwest who have developed lung cancer. Sen. Bobby Kennedy estimates 1,100 miners will die from exposure to radioactive uranium.

Walter Reuther got involved because his Washington representative, Leo Goodman, has been waging a crusade against radioactive hazards, and ten years ago publicly warned that uranium miners would die of radiation unless steps were taken to ventilate the mines. Nobody paid much attention to Goodman's warning — except the uranium miners.

Ten years later, on April 26 of this year, the issue came to a head once again when the Public Health Service stated that 200 uranium miners already have lung cancer, and Goodman publicly testified that Rep. Holifield had blocked him earlier from testifying to this danger. Bobby Kennedy then jumped in to champion the uranium miners. When Bobby moves, the White House listens, and the matter came up at Cabinet meeting next day.

All this made the Congressman from the Los Angeles suburbs sore as blazes. Chet came to Washington twenty years ago a dewy-eyed liberal who ran a struggling haberdashery store just outside Los Angeles. Now he's become one of the staunch conservatives among California Democrats. He denied he had ever blocked Goodman from testifying.

Holifield then demanded Walter Reuther fire Goodman. The demand was not made publicly but through John Conway, who is Reuther's representative on the AFL-CIO. Goodman, believe it or not, has now been suspended. Conway wrote him that his job had been abolished.

Reuther has long been a battler for workers' health in other unions as well as his own but not this time. But he's busy with other matters today.

Goodman, however, is still battling, even though he's lost his forum. He points out that the uranium mines of Colorado and the Southwest could be ventilated for only one per cent of the cost of operating the mines.

Behind the Heroes

You read headlines about the Marine heroism in South Vietnam, but you don't hear much about the man behind the headlines. He is Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, a little fellow about 5 foot 2 inches high, who because of his stature and general belligerency is nicknamed "The Brute."

He got the name at Annapolis where they had to waive the height requirements to get him in. "Brute" Krulak is commander of all the Marines ranging from South Vietnam to South Korea and San Diego. His official title is "Commandant Fleet Marine Pacific," and he has 75,000 Marines to worry about in Vietnam, plus 35,000 in Korea. He has made 49 trips to Vietnam in the last twenty-four months and, while other military and civilian leaders have been getting in the headlines, "Brute" Krulak has been steadily doing his job without headlines.

Krulak has three sons in the Marine Corps, and all have seen service in Vietnam. A former coxswain of the Annapolis crew, Gen. Krulak is the man to watch to become top commander of the Marines, unless the Pentagon politicians elect him to one side.

New Viet Senate

BY RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Hidden behind the fanfare of the presidential election, a quiet political revolution has occurred in South Vietnam.

Regardless of whether the recent elections were well or poorly run or whether the Senate election with 480 candidates for 60 seats was a lottery or a bona fide election, a man-by-man analysis of South Vietnam's newly elected Senate shows an unusual number of extraordinarily high caliber.

Example: Generals Huynh Van Cao, Tran Van Don and Ton That Dinh are army men noted as being incorruptible in a military-political setup in which many high-ranking officers have been openly on the take.

A group of young Vietnam ese army colonels who have been working to end corruption in the army have looked to Cao as their leader. They suffered a major setback when he was removed.

Example: Dr. Dang Van Sung is a courageous Saigon newspaper publisher known both as a sturdy critic of the government and a strong fighter against the Viet Cong.

Sung has stood up to the Viet Cong in the face of several assassination attempts. The VC, in one attempt on Sung's life, killed his top editor. But Sung went ahead with publishing the pieces the Communists wanted suppressed.

In Saigon's seamy politics, Sung is known as an incorruptible man. Example: Tran Huu Phong, as first governor of the National Bank, established a high reputation for honesty in financial matters, a reputation he has held ever since.

Vietnamese contacts of this reporter have gone through the list of men elected and discussed in detail the characteristics of the senators-elect.

Not all men elected are of high caliber of the five listed above. Some of those chosen are corrupt, bumbling and weary men. But taking the 60-man group as a whole, the average standing is markedly high.

The victory of good men is significant. Under the new South Vietnamese constitution—which some of the senators-elect helped write—the chief executive is considerably weaker than under the U. S. constitutional system and the Senate and Lower House stronger.

For example: The Vietnam

ese legislature can do more than censure the prime minister. It can remove him by a three-fourths vote even over the objections of the president.

By and large the new Senate is likely to be neither pro nor con anticomunism. It includes a surprising number of men who are stubbornly independent in their thinking and actions. Sometimes this has hurt their careers.

As did the Constitutional Assembly, the Senate is likely to hold out against pressures brought by President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, providing the senators are backed by U. S. assurances this country will stand for no unconstitutional actions by South Vietnam's president or its military.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Sept. 13, 1947—A meeting of the YWCA Board of Directors set a fund raising goal of $14,000 for the 1948 year.

Elliot Wood, 40, of Florida, was found dead in his car after an accident in Woodstock, the apparent victim of a heart attack.

Sept. 13, 1957—Dr. Francis E. O'Connor, 38, one of Kingston's best known physicians, died at his home at 215 Manor Avenue.

It was reported that the city had saved 341,000 gallons of water in the 24-hour period after strict water conservation rulings were put into effect.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Warning in Czech Manifesto

The poignant, agonized appeal by 300 Czechoslovak intellectuals, which implored the West's intellectuals to wake up, should be nailed on the faculty club bulletin board in every college and university in the United States.

The Prague government's denial of the manifesto is totally unimpressive to me. Smuggled to London, it is addressed: "To you leftist intellectuals who are still subject to dangerous illusions about democracy and freedom in the socialist countries, who protest against American massacres in Vietnam, against Fascism in Spain, against militarism in Greece, against racism in the United States, and tend to overlook what happens where you are pinning your hopes."

This is both a dangerous problem and a remarkable mystery—the number of people in our teaching-talking-writing intelligentsia who remain blind to the reactionary nature of the socialist state.

They are not fighting against communism. They are promoting it by ignoring our Constitution's intentions, by sponsoring our insidious plunge into socialist through political overspending and confiscatory tax laws, and by failing to protest the punitive results against those who try to save their own earnings and thus practice self-reliance.

A true liberal must fear, condemn and fight against the concentration of power from whatever direction it may come. Yet many of our intellectuals do not fear big government. They resent nothing just so long as the words are right.

Let's keep it clear. The appeasers of an all-powerful government are not liberals. The 300 Czech intellectuals told our intellectuals what they should already know, namely, that the end product means not a balance of legal rights, but on confrontation of pure power. Some sort of protection becomes necessary for everybody. Even the little man with no talent, philosophy or ambitions needs help—usually a fixer he can bribe—merely to be left alone. The more activities the state dominates the less room there is for a proud citizen to count on himself.

The Czech manifesto pleads for the abandonment of political censorship, anti-Semitism and racism in the Red government described the victory of terror and sought the humanization of cultural policies for the rescue of the intellectuals' minds and souls.

The Iron Curtain, which embraces all satellites, is both an electrified fence and a frame of mind. In a column I wrote from Prague in 1965 I spoke of the erosion of the human spirit expressed to me by intellectuals there and reflected by the ineffable sadness in so many Czech eyes. Several were professors at Prague's great and ancient Charles University, where Einstein once taught. He had to meet secretly, for Czechs at this level are required to report any Western contacts.

One said: "We sleep with one eye open, waiting for the knock on the door. All for what, for what, for what?"

Another told me of his friend on the faculty who could stand the enforced frame of mind no longer and broke out to Munich. The escapee's brother was a lawyer in Prague. In retaliation, the brother's license to practice was taken from him the next morning. For five years the only job the Central Labor Office assigned him was as a window washer.

If we are muddledheaded about the Communist waves of worldwide terrorism and aggression, who muddles us? Moreover, why is it that the only wars we ever fought in which the objective was not to win have been our two wars against Communist countries —North Korea and North Vietnam?

Out intellectuals are the glory of America, the reservoir for our progress. And, blessings be, we have more intellectuals than the rest of the world combined. But the leftists among them exert great influence on our government; on today's legislation; on our education; on our moral, economic and social viewpoint, and on our foreign policy. Here and elsewhere, the damage they are doing makes the needed warning in the Czech manifesto come like a breath of fresh air.

Example: Tran Huu Phong, as first governor of the National Bank, established a high reputation for honesty in financial matters, a reputation he has held ever since.

Vietnamese contacts of this reporter have gone through the list of men elected and discussed in detail the characteristics of the senators-elect.

Not all men elected are of high caliber of the five listed above. Some of those chosen are corrupt, bumbling and weary men. But taking the 60-man group as a whole, the average standing is markedly high.

The victory of good men is significant. Under the new South Vietnamese constitution—which some of the senators-elect helped write—the chief executive is considerably weaker than under the U. S. constitutional system and the Senate and Lower House stronger.

For example: The Vietnam

ese legislature can do more than censure the prime minister. It can remove him by a three-fourths vote even over the objections of the president.

By and large the new Senate is likely to be neither pro or con antigovernment. It includes a surprising number of men who are stubbornly independent in their thinking and actions. Sometimes this has hurt their careers.

As did the Constitutional Assembly, the Senate is likely to hold out against pressures brought by President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, providing the senators are backed by U. S. assurances this country will stand for no unconstitutional actions by South Vietnam's president or its military.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Sept. 13, 1947—A meeting of the YVCA Board of Directors set a fund raising goal of $14,000 for the 1948 year.

Elliot Wood, 40, of Florida, was found dead in his car after an accident in Woodstock, the apparent victim of a heart attack.

Sept. 13, 1957—Dr. Francis E. O'Connor, 58, one of Kingston's best known physicians, died at his home at 215 Manor Avenue.

It was reported that the city had saved 341,000 gallons of water in the 24-hour period after strict water conservation rulings were put into effect.

Drew Pearson Says Rails Face Turbulent Year

WASHINGTON — American railroads are headed for a tough wage decision this week when the Morse Arbitration Board makes its report. Following this report on the operating shop craft unions, the railroads are headed for some additional wage battles with the five operating brotherhoods.

The Morse board finished its hearings on Sept. 8, and met in the office of board member Ted Kheel on the following Saturday and Sunday. It has now reached a decision to be published at the end of this week.

All signs point to the probability that the board will give a more generous settlement to the truly skilled members of the shop craft unions than originally contemplated.

Insiders report that Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the board, has gone along with the argument of his colleague, Ted Kheel, that the machinists, who get a lower wage in the railroad industry than in the aircraft and other industries, should not be penalized because of lower railroad wage standards.

The railroads have argued that if they hike machinists' wages, they will be forced to reopen the wage scale of all the other unions and make comparable increases. Sen. Morse at first was inclined to buy this idea, but now has reversed himself. In the inside discussions of the board, he has favored correcting this inequity for the mechanics and the journey-men, even if it does upset the balance between them and other unions.

Kheel has argued that it's none of the board's business what is happening in the other unions. This is the same argument that was used by the Typographical Union in the New York newspaper strikes and basically the reason why there are only two morning newspapers in that city today.

Brotherhoods Split Up

Those who have followed the inside discussions of the board say that Sen. Morse and Kheel have dominated discussions of the board's five members. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, has taken a purely partisan position for labor, while Fred Kappel, retired chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, has taken a partisan position on the side of management.

The fifth member is ex-Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Massachusetts Republican, who is "Mr. Integrity" but is not skilled as a labor negotiator and sometimes has difficulty following the intricate details of this very complicated dispute. He has been inclined to go along with the views of Morse and Kheel, and these three public members are really making the final decision.

It's significant that all three of the wage boards appointed by the President have favored an increase for the non-operating craft unions. The Ginsburg board, headed by Washington attorney David Ginsburg, first came up with a recommended increase.

When this was turned down, Charles Fahy, judge of the U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington, made a second study. He recommended a 6 per cent increase for all shop craft workers through a period of 18 months, with special 5-cent raises for journeymen and mechanics every six months during this 18-month period.

It's reported that the Morse board will extend the 18 months to two years and will recommend more money for both skilled and unskilled workers.

After the decision is published on Friday, either side can get 30 days on consideration of the findings.

But, even after this, the railroads face trouble from the five operating brotherhoods. In the past these five have been inclined to act together. Recently, however, they have split up. The engineers and firemen, who used to cooperate, are now at odds with each other. The conductors and trainmen, who also used to cooperate, are also at odds. They have already indicated they will ask for a reopening of their agreements with the carriers.

It looks like a turbulent wage year ahead for the railroads.

Castro Attempts Fail

Intelligence reports from Latin America show that Fidel Castro has launched a massive drive, financed by the Chinese, to stir up revolution in various key parts of Latin America.

The intelligence reports also state, however, that in every case so far, Castro's guerrilla attempts have failed. It makes heartwarming news compared with some of the military reports from South Vietnam.

Here is a summary of the latest secret intelligence reports:

In Bolivia, the army captured a batch of passports and signal plans used by used by guerrillas, showing beyond any doubt that the revolution was inspired by Cubans and that Che Guevara, once War Minister for Fidel Castro, was originally in command. On Aug. 31, the Bolivian Army ambushed a group of guerrillas, killing several Cubans.

In Venezuela, the government has located a 15-man terrorist unit calling itself "The Strategic Sabotage Command." The captain has been captured and four lieutenants killed.

In Guatemala there have been no insurgent contacts of late. The situation is much better.

Despite this, Congress has drastically curtailed development loans under the Alliance for Progress. Even the Scandinavian countries and West Germany are now loaning more money to Latin America than the United States.

Reuther Runs for Cover

Walter Reuther, who has shrugged off the scowls of George Meany, couldn't take the scowls of an irate California Congressman and recently ran for cover. The Congressman was Chet Hollifield, D-Calif., the Montebello haberdasher.

The issue was uranium miners in Colorado and the Southwest who have developed lung cancer. Sen. Bobby Kennedy estimates 1,100 miners will die from exposure to radioactive uranium.

Walter Reuther got involved

because his Washington representative, Leo Goodman, has been waging a crusade against radioactive hazards, and ten years ago publicly warned that uranium miners would die of radiation unless steps were taken to ventilate the mines. Nobody paid much attention to Goodman's warning — except the uranium miners.

Ten years later, on April 26 of this year, the issue came to a head once again when the Public Health Service stated that 200 uranium miners already have lung cancer, and Goodman publicly testified that Rep. Hollifield had blocked him earlier from testifying to this danger. Bobby Kennedy then jumped in to champion the uranium miners. When Bobby moves, the White House listens, and the matter came up at Cabinet meeting next day.

All this made the Congressman from the Los Angeles suburbs sore as blazes. Chet came to Washington twenty years ago a dewy-eyed liberal who ran a struggling haberdashery store just outside Los Angeles. Now he's become one of the stauncher conservatives among California Democrats. He denied he had ever blocked Goodman from testifying. Goodman denied the denial.

Hollifield then demanded Walter Reuther fire Goodman. The demand was not made publicly but through John Conway, who is Reuther's representative on the AFL-CIO. Goodman, believe it or not, has now been suspended. Conway wrote him that his job had been abolished.

Reuther has long been a battler for workers' health in other unions as well as his own but not this time. But he's busy with other matters today.

Goodman, however, is still battling, even though he's lost his forum. He points out that the uranium mines of Colorado and the Southwest could be ventilated for only one per cent of the cost of operating the mines.

Behind the Heroes

You read headlines about the Marine heroism in South Vietnam, but you don't hear much about the man behind the headlines. He is Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, a little fellow about 5 foot 2 inches high, who because of his stature and general belligerency is nicknamed "The Brute."

He got the name at Annapolis where they had to waive the height requirements to get him in.

"Brute" Krulak is commander of all the Marines ranging from South Vietnam to South Korea and San Diego. His official title is "Commandant Fleet Marine Pacific," and he has 75,000 Marines to worry about in Vietnam, plus 35,000 in Korea. He has made 49 trips to Vietnam in the last twenty-four months and, while other military and civilian leaders have been getting in the headlines, "Brute" Krulak has been steadily doing his job without headlines.

Krulak has three sons in the Marine Corps, and all have seen service in Vietnam. A former coxswain of the Annapolis crew, Gen. Krulak is the man to watch to become top commander of the Marines, unless the Pentagon politicians elect him to one side.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Warning in Czech Manifesto

The poignant, agonized appeal by 300 Czechoslovak intellectuals, which implored the West's intellectuals to wake up, should be nailed on the faculty club bulletin board in every college and university in the United States.

The Prague government's denial of the manifesto is totally unimpressive to me. Smuggled to London, it is addressed: "To you intellectuals who are still subject to dangerous illusions about democracy and freedom in the socialist countries, who protest against American massacres in Vietnam, against Fascism in Spain, against racism in the United States, and tend to overlook what happens where you are pinning your hopes."

This is both a dangerous problem and a remarkable mystery—the number of people in our teaching-talking-writing intelligentsia who remain blind to the reactionary nature of the socialist state. They are not fighting against communism. They are promoting it by ignoring our Constitution's intentions, by sponsoring our insidious plunge into socialist through political overspending and confiscatory tax laws, and by failing to protest the punitive results against those who try to save their own earnings and thus practice self-reliance.

A true liberal must fear, condemn and fight against the concentration of power from whatever direction it may come. Yet many of our intellectuals do not fear big government. They resent nothing just so long as the words are right.

Let's keep it clear. The appeasers of an all-powerful government are not liberals. The 300 Czech intellectuals told our intellectuals what they should already know, namely that the end product means not a balance of legal rights, but on confrontation of pure power. Some sort of protection becomes necessary for everybody. Even the little man with no talent, philosophy or ambitions needs help—usually a fixer he can bribe—merely to be left alone. The more activities the state dominates the less room there is for a proud citizen to count on himself.

The Czech manifesto pleads for the abandonment of political censorship, anti-Semitism and racism in the Red government described the victory of terror and sought the humanization of cultural policies for the rescue of the intellectuals' minds and souls.

The Iron Curtain, which embraces all satellites, is both an electrified fence and a frame of mind. In a column I wrote from Prague in 1965 I spoke of the erosion of the human spirit expressed to me by intellectuals there and reflected by the ineffable sadness in so many Czech eyes.

Several were professors at Prague's great and ancient Charles University, where Einstein once taught. We had to meet secretly, for Czechs at this level are required to report any Western contacts.

One said: "We sleep with one eye open, waiting for the knock on the door. All for what, for what, for what?"

Another told me of his friend on the faculty who could stand the enforced frame of mind no longer and broke out to Munich. The escapee's brother was a lawyer in Prague. In retaliation, the brother's license to practice was taken from him the next morning. For five years the only job the Central Labor Office assigned him was as a window washer.

If we are muddled about the Communist waves of worldwide terrorism and aggression, who muddles us? Moreover, why is it that the only wars we ever fought in which the objective was not to win have been our two wars against Communist countries —North Korea and North Vietnam?

Out intellectuals are the glory of America, the reservoir for our progress. And, blessings be, we have more intellectuals than the rest of the world combined. But the leftists among our exert great influence on our government; on today's legislation; on our education; on our moral, economic and social viewpoint, and on our foreign policy. Here and elsewhere, the damage they are doing makes the needed warning in the Czech manifesto come like a breath of fresh air.

Hour of Decision Nears On Anti-Ballistic System

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—High-level U.S. officials are reported to feel that the time is drawing near when a decision will have to be made on construction of a limited network of anti-ballistic missiles (ABMS).

Sec. of State Dean Rusk discussed the problem confronting the United States at his news conference yesterday. Soviet Union officials, he noted, have so far not agreed to any date for holding talks on the problem. The U.S. goal, announced when the defense budget was sent to Congress in January, is to win Soviet agreement to a proposal to delay further deployment of an ABM system, already begun in the Soviet Union.

If the Soviets would agree to this, the United States would not feel that it was necessary to proceed with construction of an ABM system in this country, it was stated.

Growing concern about the Communist Chinese nuclear threat, however, is giving U.S. officials a sense of urgency they did not have last January. Unless the Soviets will agree to start discussing the problem with us, it is said, the United States may reluctantly decide to go ahead with the building of a limited ABM network.

It is estimated that it would cost $4 to $5 billion, in contrast to the $30 to $40 billion required for a network giving full coverage to our cities. The budget contains $377,000,000 earmarked for starting production of the Soviets force us into it.

A limited system would protect our land-based missile sites against a surprise attack from the Soviets. In January, it was said that if the United States did go ahead with this "little ABM network" it would be to meet the need of guarding our minitown. The Red Chinese nuclear threat was discounted at that time. Defense Sec. Robert S. McNamara disclosed that a relatively small number of nuclear warheads detonated over 50 Chinese urban centers "would destroy half of the urban population and more than one-half of the industrial capacity" as well as most of the key government managerial personnel.

"Since Red China's capacity to attack the U.S. with nuclear weapons will be very limited, even during the 1970s, the ability of even a very small portion of our strategic offensive forces to inflict such heavy damage upon them should serve as an effective deterrent to the deliberate initiation of such an attack on their part," he said.

The advantage of the limited ABM network now under consideration is that it would offer protection not only against the Soviets but the Red Chinese. The disadvantage of starting it is that it quite possibly could precipitate a costly new arms race with the Soviet Union.

But if the United States does go ahead with it, it will be largely to provide a defense against Communist China. The China problem has taken on a more sinister tone ever since the Peking scientists exploded a hydrogen bomb on June 17. The speed with which China was able to achieve an H-bomb, coupled with its simultaneous development of a ballistic missile system, was regarded as an indication that the Chinese leaders were determined to acquire an operational nuclear arsenal in the shortest possible time.

On the day the blast was announced, Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), chairman of the military applications subcommittee, expressed the anxiety of many of his fellow senators when he said that it was imperative for the United States to deploy a "light cover" missile defense system as quickly as possible.

Canada's Big Political Job

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

TORONTO, Sept. 9—Eleven candidates—10 men and a woman—make their pitch from Canada's second biggest political job today. They are candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party at its national convention here.

The winner will be the party's candidate for the post of prime minister at the next election, probably within a year. Meantime if he or she has or obtains a seat in the House of Commons he'll be leader of her majesty's loyal opposition, with a salary roughly equal to that of a cabinet minister.

John G. Diefenbaker, who had led the party for the last 10 years was nominated for re-election but may drop out of the race before the vote. He is 72 years old and for a time threatened to split the party on the sensitive issue of relations between Canada's French and English-speaking sectors.

Lately the party has had little success in French-speaking parts of the country, especially in the province of Quebec. Its policy committee set out to find the reason, sought advice from French-speaking intellectuals.

The committee ended by coming up with proposals that Canada's constitution be revised to recognize that the "two founding peoples," French and English-speaking communities had historic rights to the use of their respective languages.

These rights were already guaranteed in Quebec but there was no guarantee for the rights of French-speaking Canadians in the other nine provinces.

Diefenbaker initially threatened to fight for office in order to block the "two nation" proposition but modified his stand last night. He asked the delegates to "unite, unite, unite," advised them to save their recriminations for their opponents in other parties.

Rusk Gets His Dander Up Over Foreign Aid

By PETER LISAGOR
(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who believes in quiet, unobtrusive and even tedious diplomacy, rarely loses his cool.

But he came close to it at a news conference yesterday when he was asked if Congressional cuts in the administration's foreign aid request foreshadow an end to the program altogether in the next couple of years.

His voice taut, and a thin edge of passion showing, President Johnson's chief foreign policy adviser said he "can't imagine that Congress will do away with the foreign aid program."

He said "a deep moral question" was involved.

"Here we are, with an economy which is approaching a gross national product of $800 billions a year, trading with the rest of the world by the tens of billions," he said on a rising note.

"Now, if we, with this extraordinary wealth, act as though we are a voracious economy drawing upon the rest of the world for their goods and raw materials and filling their markets with our goods, indifferent to what happens to their economies and their future, then we are going to be isolated by the choice of the rest of the world, and properly so."

It was a mouthful by any standard, but a tirade of a kind for Rusk, who had only begun to warm up.

He said the United States and other developed countries "have an obligation" to help the developing world with science and technology, capital investment and education, to improve their lot. The "teeming millions" in the emerging areas "have discovered that illiteracy and disease and hunger are not necessarily imposed by providence, but they are burdens which human beings can do something about," he declared.

The total of all American overseas aid, including sales of surplus food commodities, the Peace Corps, technical assistance and loans, he said, amounts to six-tenths of one per cent of the nation's gross national product, or output of goods and services.

Then Rusk drove home his point with this unusually trenchant judgment:

"And if we can't mobilize the will to commit that small proportion of our total resources to the organization of a peace in the world, and some decency in the developing countries, then there is a failure of character in this country that will have the most far-reaching consequences for our future."

The United States has set an example for the rest of the world, and thus is looked to for help and guidance, he suggested, adding that he hoped Congress would give the President "the bulk of the funds" requested. The House and the Senate have lopped off more than half a billion dollars from the $3.2 billion aid request.

The New York Times, Sept. 7, must think it had a scoop on Robert Kennedy's "private enterprise dole," which was printed in the Congressional Record for a certain date last July, and which is duly numbered and on its way by this time. (S. 2068) But an unimportant, local small conservation group, through its chairman, scooped that story here in Kingston over a month ago. The Congressional Record containing the complete bill is now still on Mayor Garraghan's desk. But you wouldn't understand how "private enterprise doles" might come in on any local conservation work.

That crackjack woman-writer on the KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, Mrs. Toby Geertsema, might have believed she had a scoop last May tenth with her "Area-A-Plant Considered" story. But you will find, if you refer back to February 6, KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, in the "Letters to the Editor Column," that the May 10th story was scooped, in the same newspaper, by three months. So don't put me down quite so often?

Again, IRL Group warns the KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN area-readers they might not want to permit Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation to erect their projected atomic power plant at Tivoli. No, you won't be able to recover any damage this plant might possibly cause, on humans or on property. Atomic energy plant explosions and mishaps are not insurable at this time. Get out your householder's policy and read the fine print which may surprise you under "Nuclear Clause." Ask your insurance agent about this, too. As the writer stated in the letter to the editor of February 6, 1967, you could possibly want to obtain the reprint of the "ROTARIAN," An International Magazine, for DECEMBER, 1966, to read the story "Atomic Power and the Problem of Public Safety" by newspaper woman, Helen Matheson. If so, the editorial offices of ROTARY INTERNATIONAL are at 1600 Ridge Avenue, Evanston, Illinois, 60201. This story will really tell you why you would want to put up your dukes to that definitely planned construction of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation atomic energy plant at Tivoli, New York, beginning, as one of their multitudinous press releases stated several months back, NEXT YEAR. You can still stop the laying of the cement. Yes, employment will pick up in Tivoli for the six months the plant is under construction. After that, the plant will be, and can be, operated with a crew of five or six employees.

Suggestion to Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen: Watch that word "pattern" when it is associated with the other dirty word, "progress"—you might not want to progress as far as an atomic energy plant can send you... Private enterprise should not be in the field of atomic energy plants at this time. Research and years of it, are needed before these plants can safely be used in the field of utilities corporations.

(S. 2088) But an unimportant, local small conservation group, through its chairman, scooped that story here in Kingston over a month ago. The Congressional Record containing the complete bill is now still on Mayor Garraghan's desk. But you wouldn't understand how "private enterprise doles" might come in on any local conservation work.

That crackpot woman-writer on the KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, Mrs. Toby Geertsema, might have believed she had a scoop last May tenth with her "Area-A-Plant Considered" story. But you will find, if you refer back to February 6, KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, in the "Letters to the Editor Column," that the May 10th story was scooped, in the same newspaper, by three months. So don't put me down quite so often.

Again, the KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN area-readers they might not want to permit Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation to erect their projected atomic power plant at Tivoli. No, you won't be able to recover any damage this plant might possibly cause, on humans or on property. Atomic energy plant explosions and mishaps are not insurable at this time. Get out your householder's policy and read the fine print which may surprise you under "Nuclear Clause." Ask your insurance agent about this, too. As the writer stated in the letter to the editor of February 6, 1967, you could possibly want to obtain the reprint of the "ROTARIAN," An International Magazine, for DECEMBER, 1966, to read the story "Atomic Power and the Problem of Public Safety" by newspaper woman, Helen Matheson. If so, the editorial offices of ROTARY INTERNATIONAL are at 1600 Ridge Avenue, Evanston, Illinois, 60201. This story will really tell you why you would want to put up your dukes to that definitely planned construction of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation atomic energy plant at Tivoli, New York, beginning, as one of their multitudinous press releases stated several months back, NEXT YEAR. You can still stop the laying of the cement. Yes, employment will pick up in Tivoli for the six months the plant is under construction. After that, the plant will be, and can be, operated with a crew of five or six employees.

Suggestion to Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen: Watch that word "pattern" when it is associated with the other dirty word, "progress"—you might not want to progress as far as an atomic energy plant can send you... Private enterprise should not be in the field of atomic energy plants at this time. Research, and years of it, are needed before these plants can safely be used in the field of utilities corporations.

Held on Four Charges After Collision in City

Apple Pickers Increased Here

Facing four vehicle and traffic charges as the result of a bus-car collision at East Chester and Park Streets shortly after 6 p. m. Tuesday, Leroy Lightfoot, 42, of 1409 NW 29th Avenue, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., appeared in City Court today.

Lightfoot received an adjournment until Thursday. He was charged with driving with unsafe tires, following too closely, driving a bus with a broken windshield and having no registration certificate.

The charges were filed after the bus driven by Lightfoot was in collision with a car operated by Daniel Phelps, of 176 West Chestnut Street.

In other cases before City Judge Hubert A. Richter, John W. Bezemer, 20, of 28 Liberty Street, city, pleaded guilty to three violations. He was fined $10 each on charges of passing a red traffic light and speeding, and $5 for turning without signalling.

Paul Galo, 54, of 40 Liberty Street, charged with three counts of passing fraudulent checks at local business places, received an adjournment until Sept. 20. He was committed in lieu of $200 bail. The arrest was made on three warrants.

Need Planning Along River, Loeks Advises Lions Club

Kingston Lions Club at their meeting today at the Gov. Clinton Hotel heard the executive director of Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress, C. David Loeks, talk on the future of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Loeks stressed the need for community development along the Hudson River not just one town or city. He pointed out that the population of the Mid-Hudson Valley area is expanding rapidly and it is only with private individuals and businessmen working together with government that we can successfully realize the full environmental and economic growth potential.

Loeks continued saying the Mid-Hudson Valley has all the resources for a better living environment and that it is necessary to develop these resources in order to attract investment into the area. He emphasized that we should not bargain away our resources for economic development but rather strike a balance between preservation of resources and economic development.

Mid-Hudson's director has a broad background of community planning as director of the St. Paul City Planning Board in Minnesota, director of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning Commission and chairman of the Urban Action Committee of the Upper Midwest Council. He has also lectured at numerous colleges and universities on urban affairs. For two years he taught city and regional planning at the University of Minnesota. Loeks was introduced to the club by Milton Reynolds.

Driver Injured In Rt. 209 Crash

Two cars were damaged in a collision on Route 209 about two miles north of Route 213 shortly after 5 p. m. Tuesday. State Trooper Thomas Searles said the vehicles were driven by Henry Sauer, 46, of RD 3, Box 64A, Saugerties, and Denise Ostrander, 21, of RD 3, Box 155, Kingston.

Sauer was driving north and attempting left turn into private driveway and the Ostrander vehicle was going in the same direction when the car skidded as the brakes were applied. Denise Ostrander complained of a whiplash of the neck.

B & F Break-in

Burglars broke into the B & F Market at 32 Broadway sometime Tuesday night or early today and stole meat from the case and beer and soda. City detectives are investigating.

James Roberts, owner of the market, said entry was gained through the ventilator window over the door on the side of the building. He reported damage to the interior of the store and merchandise and the articles taken would amount to about $350.

Price Correction

The correct price of the new 20-inch Harwick gas range advertised in yesterday's Kingston Freeman by Standard Furniture is $99.88.

The following morning he will be guest speaker at a Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting at the Gov. Clinton Hotel. His topic will be Current Legislative Activity.

Stolen Weapon

BOSTON (AP) — State police said Tuesday that the pistol used in the slaying of Ashland policeman Charles Cadorette early Monday was one of a pair stolen last June from a St. Albans, Vt., store.

The pistol was found beside the body of Bernard L. Perkins, 21, who was shot to death by another Ashland policeman, Robert Goufrade, who had been wounded by Cadorette's slayer.

Police said Perkins was living in St. Albans last June shortly after completing a four-year jail term in Vermont.

Dormitory Contract

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A. Friederich & Sons, Inc. of Rochester has been granted a $1.5 million contract to build a 200-student dormitory at the State Agricultural and Technical College at Canton, it was announced Tuesday.

The dormitory, fourth of its type at Canton, will be completed by January 1969 under terms of the contract approved by the State Dormitory Authority.

Fire Near Ellenville Damages Zalkin Hotel

Extensive damage was caused by an early morning fire today at the Zalkin Hotel, Greenfield Park, according to Ellenville State Police, who reported the kitchen, office and casino at the summer resort were involved in the flames.

Other fires reported in Ellenville yesterday included a minor fire at the Whipple Home, Greenfield Road; a car fire at Ulster Heights; a brush blaze at Oak Ridge and a heater fire at the residence of 4 Catherine Street, according to police records.

appointment of City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl to the agency on a conflict of interest basis.

Riehl refuted this today, citing the State General Municipal Law which states he can serve both as a city official and urban renewal agency member. However, his term on the board expires on the same date as his term as treasurer, Dec. 31 of this year. Mayor Garraghan had appointed Riehl to serve on the agency until June 30, 1972. Riehl is also running for county legislator from Kingston. If elected, he will occupy only that post, according to state law.

Another controversy arose around a proposed dike from Murphy Street to the overpass behind Kingston Plaza. The Army Corps of Engineers plan to build the $800,000 dike to control flooding of the Esopus Creek.

Alderman John Machione (R-12th Ward) objected for a variety of reasons. First, he said that he, as a member of the Common Council Urban Renewal Committee, had not been informed of the decision of the full committee to recommend participation by the city in the project.

Cites Pump Station

The committee said the city's participation would only involve a minimum of upkeep. Machione maintained that the city would have to build a pumping station.

This morning, City Engineer Thomas Wickman said the city's main responsibility for the dike would be "cutting the grass." Speaking of the pumping station, Wickman said present plans call for a ponding area behind Kingston Plaza for excess flood waters. If Kingston Plaza wants to build in that area they will have to provide a pumping station to com-

Seen As Eyesore

The land was described by Alderman Joseph Epstein (D-Sixth Ward) as an "eyesore, a worthless piece of property and a health hazard." Epstein said the city was lucky to get rid of it for $1,500.

Commenting on that statement, Machione said, "That's an example of the new look in urban renewal. Two months ago Eric Hemphill (former executive director for KURA) couldn't get that measure through this council."

Alderman Sinsabaugh strongly disagreed with Epstein, stating the city shouldn't sell the parcel for a "measly $1,500."

The measure passed, 11-2, with Alderman William G. Davis (L-13th Ward) voting with Sinsabaugh.

In other action, the Council approved revenue anticipation bonds for a total of $280,000, payment for roadwork at the Broadway Underpass for $8,910 and the codification of city laws for $14,000.

The Aldermen also approved the purchase of two snow fighting trucks to replace a pair over 20 years old for $63,522. The trucks were purchased from the Syracuse Truck Corp., of Syracuse.

A variety of traffic ordinances were passed which included a flashing red light at Smith Avenue and Downs Street and a stop sign at Prince and Grand Streets. Also 15-minute parking on Downs at Smith Avenue, Greenkill Avenue at Prospect Street and Lucas Avenue at Washington Avenue. No parking was passed for Green and Pearl Streets from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.

The rezoning petition to allow Byrne Chevrolet an access to Prospect Street was withdrawn.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market mounted a vigorous rally early Wednesday. Trading was active. The ticker tape lagged.

Prices were higher from the opening. Some big blocks changed hands.

Gains outnumbered losers by well over 2 to 1. The Dow Jones industrial average posted a gain of about 5 points — its best in many sessions.

Blue chips and glamor stocks advanced together. Gains of about 2 points were made by Du Pont, IBM, Control Data, RCA, Occidental Petroleum and Fairchild Camera.

Quotations by Wood, Walker & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 62 Wall Street, New York City; branch office, 52 Main Street, Lowell S. Brooks, manager.

Apple Harvest Requires 885 Workers Here

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson has announced that he has been informed by State Industrial Commissioner M. P. Catherwood, that the state is taking steps to insure area growers that they will have enough help with this year's apple harvest.

Assemblyman Wilson said that the State Labor Department has certified to the U. S. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz that 1,185 foreign workers will be needed in the Hudson and Champlain Valleys for the 1967 apple harvest.

He added that of the total number of foreign workers required in the state, 885 are being requested to assist the apple growers of the Hudson Valley, mostly in Dutchess and Ulster Counties.

The steps are being initiated, Wilson said, because state recruitment programs have failed to secure the desired number of workers this year.

List $1,300 Loot

An inventory taken after a Monday night burglary at the Home Delivery News Service, 7 Railroad Avenue, disclosed that office equipment valued at $1,300 had been stolen, according to William Johnson, owner of the business. Johnson said the intruders took two adding machines, a typewriter, copy machine, battery charger and a check protector. The place was entered after a window in an overhead door was smashed.

No Violation, DA Says On Logan Complaint

District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca has informed John W. Logan, district representative for Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, that in his opinion Larry Swars, manager of radio station WKNY did not violate Article 250 of the Revised Penal Law of the State of New York.

Logan revealed Tuesday that he had filed formal charges against the radio station and its manager alleging illegal and improper taping of conversations of persons who speak to Swars on the telephone at the station.

Resnick's representative said he had filed copies of the charges with the district attorney, the FCC, New York Telephone Co., and the State Public Service Commission.

In his reply to Logan, Torraccia said, "assuming that the allegations alleged in your letter are correct, there is in my opinion no violation of Article 250 (offenses against the right to privacy - eavesdropping) of the Revised Penal Law of the State of New York."

Torraccia told Logan that unless he has other evidence, the district attorney is closing his file at this time.

Fire Near Ellenville Damages Zalkin Hotel

Extensive damage was caused by an early morning fire today at the Zalkin Hotel, Greenfield Park, according to Ellenville State Police, who reported the kitchen, office and casino at the summer resort were involved in the flames.

Other fires reported in Ellenville yesterday included a minor fire at the Whipple Home, Greenfield Road; a car fire at Ulster Heights; a brush blaze at Oak Ridge and a heater fire at the residence of 4 Catherine Street, according to police records.

appointment of City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl to the agency on a conflict of interest basis. Riehl refuted this today, citing the State General Municipal Law which states he can serve both as a city official and urban renewal agency member. However, his term on the board expires on the same date as his term as treasurer, Dec. 31 of this year. Mayor Garraghan had appointed Riehl to serve on the agency until June 30, 1972. Riehl is also running for county legislator from Kingston. If elected, he will occupy only that post, according to state law.

Another controversy arose around a proposed dike from Murphy Street to the overpass behind Kingston Plaza. The Army Corps of Engineers plan to build the $800,000 dike to control flooding of the Esopus Creek.

Alderman John Machione (R-12th Ward) objected for a variety of reasons. First, he said that he, as a member of the Common Council Urban Renewal Committee, had not been informed of the decision of the full committee to recommend participation by the city in the project.

Cites Pump Station
The committee said the city's participation would only involve a minimum of upkeep. Machione maintained that the city would have to build a pumping station.

This morning, City Engineer Thomas Wickman said the city's main responsibility for the dike would be "cutting the grass." Speaking of the pumping station, Wickman said present plans call for a ponding area behind Kingston Plaza for excess flood waters. If Kingston Plaza wants to build in that area they will have to provide a pumping station to compensate for the pond, according to Wickman.

Machione also questioned just who owned the land along Murphy Street to be deeded to the Corps of Engineers. Ward Tongue, urban renewal agency executive director, said this morning that the land is privately owned at present, but that the agency would probably have title to it by the time the Corps of Engineers is ready to build.

Machione said this morning that his main complaint was that everything about urban renewal had suddenly become a "rush job."

He cited the instance of the city's selling a parcel of land at 62-64 Ann Street to the agency for $1,500.

Seen As Eyesore
The land was described by Alderman Joseph Epstein (D-Sixth Ward) as an "eyesore, a worthless piece of property and a health hazard." Epstein said the city was lucky to get rid of it for $1,500.

Commenting on that statement, Machione said, "That's an example of the new look in urban renewal. Two months ago Eric Hemphill (former executive director for KURA) couldn't get that measure through this council."

Alderman Sinsabaugh strongly disagreed with Epstein, stating the city shouldn't sell the parcel for a "measly $1,500."

The measure passed, 11-2, with Alderman William G. Davis (L-13th Ward) voting with Sinsabaugh.

In other action, the Council approved revenue anticipation bonds for a total of $280,000, payment for roadwork at the Broadway Underpass for $8,910 and the codification of city laws for $14,000.

The Aldermen also approved the purchase of two snow fighting trucks to replace a pair over 20 years old for $63,522. The trucks were purchased from the Syracuse Truck Corp. of Syracuse.

A variety of traffic ordinances were passed which included a flashing red light at Smith Avenue and Downs Street and a stop sign at Prince and Grand Streets. Also 15-minute parking on Downs at Smith Avenue, Greenkill Avenue at Prospect Street and Lucas Avenue at Washington Avenue. No parking was passed for Green and Pearl Streets from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.

The rezoning petition to allow Byrne Chevrolet an access to Prospect Street was withdrawn.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market mounted a vigorous rally early Wednesday. Trading was active. The ticker tape lagged.

Prices were higher from the opening. Some big blocks changed hands.

Gains outnumbered losers by well over 2 to 1. The Dow Jones industrial average posted a gain of about 5 points — its best in many sessions.

Blue chips and glamor stocks advanced together.

Gains of about 2 points were made by du Pont, IBM, Control Data, RCA, Occidental Petroleum and Fairchild Camera.

Q) "I have a large savings account. In view of rising prices and taxes, should I leave it all there or invest in good bonds?" J.W.

A) I think you misunderstand the nature of bond investment. This type of security offers good yield and relative stability. But bonds are fixed as to income and unless they are convertible into common they cannot rise in value sufficiently to offset inflation, and they offer you no greater protection in this respect than your savings account. If you wish to protect your dollars from further devaluation, you should invest a portion of them in sound stocks or well situated real estate which can enhance your capital over a period of time.

Wants Shield of Plastic

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of a second incident this summer in the public galleries of Congress, two House Democrats say they are picking up considerable support for their proposal to enclose the House chamber with a shield of shatterproof plastic.

Reps. Andrew Jacobs Jr. of Indiana and Ken W. Hechler of West Virginia said their proposal would make it possible for the public to understand the proceedings better as well as increase security.

Most members they have talked to like the idea, Jacobs said, while only a few feel "it would be misinterpreted."

Under their proposal, the galleries would be enclosed by the plastic shield and the House proceedings piped in to visitors by loudspeaker, along with an explanation of what they mean.

The latest incident took place Monday when five demonstrators showered leaflets on the Senate chamber to demand an end to the Vietnam war. The five were arrested, and Senate Republican whip Thomas H. Kuchel of California called it "a mild, mini-attempt at intimidation."

Last month, demonstrators invaded the House gallery after adjournment one day to protest recent defeat of a rat control bill. The group was expelled, eight were arrested and the next day several members denounced the protestors.

But except for the stationing of a few additional policemen, no steps have been taken to improve Capitol security. House leaders have tried to discourage the Jacobs-Hechler proposal on grounds it might make the public think congressmen are cowards.

Jacobs estimated the job could be done for $100,000 and that the enclosure could be designed in such a way as to "add to stateliness of the chamber."

The shatterproof plastic, only five-sixteenths of an inch thick and lightweight, could deflect a 22-caliber bullet fired at a distance of 19 feet, he said.

Rochester Schedules Budget Hearing Nov. 2

A public hearing and vote on the Rochester Town budget will take place Nov. 2. The preliminary budget will be presented Oct. 3 at a regular meeting of the town board.

Approval of a 30 mile speed limit for the Sheldon development was given last Thursday when the board met for its September session.

At that time Mrs. Helen Jenkins was named dog enumerator following a motion made by Justice Abram Smith and seconded by Councilman Morris Sims.

Road conditions on Rt. 32 subject of a complaint by a resident, will be inspected by Sims and the matter is to be considered at a meeting of the highway department Sept. 21.

A public hearing on a parking ordinance was held but no action was taken.

A map of the new Queens estate, approved by the Ulster County Health Department, will be presented to the Planning Board.

It was announced that conference on natural beauty to be held at State University College at New Paltz will be attended by Mrs. Martha Egan and Mrs. Helen Schoonmaker.

Supervisor Franklyn Kelder proclaimed the week of Sept. 17 as Constitution Week and Sept. 17 as Citizenship Day.

War Locomotive Seized Again

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The General, famed Civil War locomotive stolen by Union soldiers in Georgia, was seized again early today en route back to the spot where the 1862 heist took place.

The General figured in the Great Locomotive Chase from Kennesaw to Ringgold, Ga., just south of here, in a daring but ill-fated move to destroy bridges and track by a group known as "Andrews' Raiders."

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, which now owns the antique, was hauling it by flatcar through Chattanooga to be presented to Georgia and enshrined in Kennesaw.

The deed to the General was scheduled to be presented to Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox in special ceremonies in Georgia Thursday.

But the L&N, and possibly the State of Georgia, reckoned with out "Kelley's Raiders," a band of city officials led by Mayor Ralph Kelley, and including city commissioners and police officers.

Armed with a court order, they struck swiftly at 2 a.m. as the General was being pulled through the L&N's Wauhatchie Yards at the foot of Lookout Mountain here.

Chattanooga considers the General — which was housed for years in the city's Union Station — as the original Chattanooga Choo-Choo.

Kelley ordered all L&N crossings in the city blocked to prevent the train from going through.

After about two hours of haggling between local officials and railroaders under the glare of the yard lights, the L&N agreed to move the engine to a siding pending further litigation.

Farm Labor Crew Chief Held on Assault Charge

A 41-year-old farm laborer crew chief was arrested Monday afternoon by Highland State Police and charged with a second degree assault, accused of hitting a farm worker on the leg with the butt of a loaded shotgun.

Trooper Edward Pulver reported George Henry Mason, of the Lyons Farm, Milton, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Patrick Mataraza, Town of Marlboro. The charge was reduced to third degree assault with consent of the district attorney's office.

Mason pleaded innocent and was released in bail of $500. Hearing was adjourned until 7:30 p. m. today.

According to Trooper Pulver, Mason allegedly accosted Lloyd Davis, a farm worker at the Lyons farm, with a loaded shotgun.

Turnabout Turtle

MOUNT AIRY, N.C. (AP) — Last Feb. 2, Jeff Hemric, 13, of Mount Airy found a turtle near his home, carved his name and address on the shell and turned the turtle loose.

A few days ago, Jeff got a postcard from Ohio, which said: "Dear Jeff: I found a small turtle with your name and address on it heading north on U.S. 35 at Jackson, Ohio. I turned him around. Be on the lookout. Signed, Joe Trippie."

Participation Good in Medicaid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Health Department says that 72.3 per cent of the physicians and 63.9 per cent of the dentists in the state outside of New York City are participating in the state Medicaid program.

That report Tuesday confirmed a preliminary estimate made last week by the department.

The report shows that 8,272 of the 11,439 doctors practicing outside of New York City are participating in the program. For dentists, 4,103 of 6,417 are enlisted in the program for treating those deemed in need.

Rochester Schedules Budget Hearing Nov. 2

A public hearing and vote on the Rochester Town budget will take place Nov. 2. The preliminary budget will be presented Oct. 3 at a regular meeting of the town board.

Approval of a 30 mile speed limit for the Sheldon development was given last Thursday when the board met for its September session.

At that time Mrs. Helen Jenkins was named dog enumerator following a motion made by Justice Abram Smith and seconded by Councilman Morris Sims.

Road conditions on Rt. 32 subject of a complaint by a resident, will be inspected by Sims and the matter is to be considered at a meeting of the highway department Sept. 21.

A public hearing on a parking ordinance was held but no action was taken.

A map of the new Queens estate, approved by the Ulster County Health Department, will be presented to the Planning Board.

It was announced that conference on natural beauty to be held at State University College at New Paltz will be attended by Mrs. Martha Egan and Mrs. Helen Schoonmaker.

Supervisor Franklin Kelder proclaimed the week of Sept. 17 as Constitution Week and Sept. 17 as Citizenship Day.

Participation Good in Medicaid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Health Department says that 72.3 per cent of the physicians and 63.9 per cent of the dentists in the state outside of New York City are participating in the state Medicaid program.

That report Tuesday confirmed a preliminary estimate made last week by the department.

The report shows that 8,272 of the 11,439 doctors practicing outside of New York City are participating in the program. For dentists, 4,103 of 6,417 are enlisted in the program for treating those deemed in need.

War Locomotive Seized Again

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The General, famed Civil War locomotive stolen by Union soldiers in Georgia, was seized again early today en route back to the spot where the 1862 heist took place.

The General figured in the Kennesaw to Ringgold, Ga., just south of here, in a daring but ill-fated move to destroy bridges and track by a group known as "Andrews' Raiders."

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, which now owns the antique, was hauling it by flat-car through Chattanooga to be presented to Georgia and enshrined in Kennesaw.

The deed to the General was scheduled to be presented to Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox in special ceremonies in Georgia Thursday.

But the L&N, and possibly the State of Georgia, reckoned without "Kelley's Raiders," a band of city officials led by Mayor Ralph Kelley, and including city commissioners and police officers.

Armed with a court order, they struck swiftly at 2 a.m. as the General was being pulled through the L&N's Wauhatchie Yards at the foot of Lookout Mountain here.

Chattanooga considers the General — which was housed for years in the city's Union Station — as the original Chattanooga Choo-Choo.

Kelley ordered all L&N crossings in the city blocked to prevent the train from going through.

After about two hours of haggling between local officials and railroaders under the glare of the yard lights, the L&N agreed to move the engine to a siding pending further litigation.

Farm Labor Crew Chief Held on Assault Charge

A 41-year-old farm laborer crew chief was arrested Monday afternoon by Highland State Police and charged with a second degree assault, accused of hitting a farm worker on the leg with the butt of a loaded shotgun.

Trooper Edward Pulver reported George Henry Mason, of the Lyons Farm, Milton, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Patrick Mataraza, Town of Marlboro. The charge was reduced to third degree assault with consent of the district attorney's office.

Mason pleaded innocent and was released in bail of $500. Hearing was adjourned until 7:30 p. m. today.

According to Trooper Pulver, Mason allegedly accosted Lloyd Davis, a farm worker at the Lyons farm, with a loaded shotgun. Authorities said Mason didn't discharge the weapon but allegedly broke it across the legs of Davis.

State Police were notified of the incident and Troopers C. J. Bebensee and Edward Henne investigated and made the arrest.

Turnabout Turtle

MOUNT AIRY, N.C. (AP) — Last Feb. 2, Jeff Hemric, 13, of Mount Airy found a turtle near his home, carved his name and address on the shell and turned the turtle loose.

A few days ago, Jeff got a postcard from Ohio, which said: "Dear Jeff: I found a small turtle with your name and address on it heading north on U.S. 35 at Jackson, Ohio. I turned him around. Be on the lookout. Signed, Joe Trippie."

Our Boys Write From Vietnam

Editor's Note: The Kingston Daily Freeman is privileged to publish letters written to the Ulster County Vietnam's Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 by Kingston area men serving with the armed forces in Vietnam. We hope in this way we can better let our readers know how our boys in service feel.

Corp. Malvin Winnie of the 11th Engineer Battalion, Third Bridge Co., Third Platoon, writes from Vietnam:

"I was promoted to corporal on the first of August. I appreciate the one-year subscription of the Conservationist magazine that you will be sending to me.

"You people don't know how much it means to me to receive from your Ulster County Vietnam Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. 5 the Conservationist, cigarettes and newspapers."

Sp/4 Robert S. Ciarlanti writes from Vietnam:

"I have been receiving your packages regularly and I want you to know how much I appreciate your thoughtfulness, and the great generosity of all the people who are concerned with this wonderful program of yours.

"You don't know how happy it makes us feel to know there are people in our community who spend many hours of their time in this program to help us.

"When I receive a package it is always shared between my buddies and myself in my tent. So on my behalf and the rest of us here, thanks again. We all hope to see you soon."

From Vietnam Donald Van Keuren writes:

"I'd like to express my thanks to you and all the people who took the time to prepare and send these packages to me and all the other guys over here.

"It's a wonder feeling to know people are thinking of us back home. I'm located in the Mekong Delta and the articles you have sent have been very useful and much appreciated. It's hard to get many of the things I'd like and this is where your packages have helped both useful-wise and morale-wise.

"I've only three more months over here and I'm looking forward to coming home. This is just a short letter to let you know how much I appreciate what you people are doing for us. I think I speak for all the rest of the men who are over here also."

Pfc. Gary R. Ballou with the U. S. Army in Vietnam writes:

"I would just like to take time to thank you all for the very much appreciated package I received from your Company this past week. I enjoyed the canned pears and chocolate cookies, but most of all I enjoyed the American music and news I listen to on the radio you sent.

"I'm sure all the men serving in Vietnam from Ulster County are very thankful we have an organization back home like yours. We are all doing our very best for good old Kingston and the U. S. A. and appreciate your efforts to help us."

Jay H. Molyneux pens the following letter to Ulster Hose Co. from Vietnam:

"I thank you very much and all the people who make the packages to servicemen in Vietnam possible. I believe they are appreciated.

"It just makes us feel good to know that hippies and rioters aren't taking over yet.

"The food is especially prized. Fruit is more valuable than money over here. You made my whole recon team happy with the peaches, sardines and sausages. Everything you sent came in handy and is definitely appreciated."

Works Sentence

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Portland judge has sentenced a 19-year-old girl who pleaded guilty to illegal possession of narcotics to work with mental patients at the Oregon State Hospital.

Marla Dawn Martinolitch of Portland was placed on five years probation on the condition that she spend her school vacations helping out in the hospital's psychiatric unit.

UCCC Names Courses, Instructors

Two evening course offerings and three additional staff members have been announced by Ulster County Community College.

A course in American Government will be given Tuesday evenings at the Kingston Classroom Building, 214 West Chestnut Street. Hours will be 7 to 9:40 p. m. starting Sept. 19.

Elementary Russian will be offered for evening students at the Stone Ridge Campus Mondays 7 to 9:40 p. m.

Registration for both courses will be tonight 6 to 9 o'clock at Stone Ridge. Further information may be obtained by contacting the director of community services at the college.

Cricket Hazard

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — Roads were slippery from crickets today after swarms of the insects invaded the Imperial Valley following weekend storms.

The California Highway Patrol warned motorists that crickets, crushed by motor vehicles, had left highways dangerous.

Special road crews were called out Wednesday to clear off roads. Some street lights were turned off in order not to attract the insects.

American Government is a Political Science course which will be an analysis of the American political system with emphasis on the Constitution, the organization and operation of the branches of the government, political parties, and on civil liberties and civil rights. Attention also will be given to state and local government.

The Russian language for beginners will consist of intensive practice in reading and writing. The course will be tailored to the needs of the students. Emphasis will be on reading and the development of speech patterns and conversation.

In addition, the course will provide an appreciation of the customs, traditions, and culture of the Russian speaking people.

Doctorate Study

The teacher for the course will be Mrs. Freda Casner, who lives in Poughkeepsie. She has a bachelor's degree from the City College of New York and a master's degree in Russian at Vassar College. She presently is a candidate for a PhD Degree at the New York University.

Mrs. Casner studied and traveled in Russia in 1962 under a federal grant. She studied Russian at San Francisco State University under a National Defense Education Act grant.

Three new full-time faculty members have been added to the Social Science Division at the college for the 1967-68 academic year. Dr. George B. Erbstein, college president, announced today.

The three are Louis Amaru, an assistant professor of social science; Edward P. Nadel, an assistant professor of economics; and Mrs. Rita Jackaway, an instructor of psychology.

Boston Native

A native of Boston, Amaru taught American History and Social Science from 1963 to 1965 at the State College, Jersey City, N. J., and taught American History and Western Civilization from 1965 to 1967 at Springfield College in Massachusetts.

Amaru has a BS Degree from the State College, Salem, Mass., and a MA Degree from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. He also has taken courses in American History at the University of Massachusetts. He is a member of the American Historical Association and the Organization of American Historians.

Nadel has seven years of college economics teaching experience at Goddard College in Vermont and at the University of Maine. He has BA and MA Degrees from Queens College and expects to receive his PhD Degree next year from the New School for Social Research. He is married and the father of three children.

On School Staff

Mrs. Jackaway, a resident of Richmond Park, Kingston, previously taught developmental psychology at UCCC as a part-time instructor. She also has her studies focused on child development, general psychology at development, and received her MS the School of Nursing at Benedictine Hospital and has served State University of New York as a psychological research assistant at the Board of Regents Research Unit in Kingston. She is married to a local obstetrician and has one child.

Ulster Pageant Set Saturday

In conjunction with the Miss Ulster County Pageant, slated Saturday, 8 o'clock, in the Saugerties High School Auditorium, local merchants will initiate a promotional event.

Balloons, scores of balloons, one out of 10 containing prizes, will be released Saturday throughout the village. The purpose is two-fold—to call attention to the event and to pack the house.

The balloons will hold various prizes donated by Saugerties merchants. Paper discount slips, free installations of Vido-Comm, etc., will be the type of prizes given away.

However, once a balloon containing a prize is located, the finder must present the prize to the store where it is redeemable before closing time on Saturday. They are good for one day only.

Following the pageant, extra balloons that are collected by fives can be turned in to the Area Chamber of Commerce. The collector will receive a ball-point pen for his efforts.

Saugerties police said the collection of extra balloons would help remove litter.

In addition to promoting the pageant, village merchants have donated much of the wearing apparel the contestants will display during the pageant.

London's Dept. Store will furnish the 16 contestants with bathing suits for their revue before the judges.

Fusco to Speak

Joseph A. Fusco, Republican assemblyman from the 86th district, will be the guest speaker at the Saugerties Republican Club Family Picnic on Sunday.

On hand will be local candidates, county candidates and club members. In addition, Hamilton Fish Jr., last year's congressional candidate, is slated to appear.

Fishing Derby Slated Sept. 23

Saturday, Sept. 23, has been set by the Saugerties Jaycees for the annual Fishing Derby. Boys and girls between six and 15 years are eligible to compete for the various prizes.

All fishing will take place along the Esopus Creek adjacent to the Saugerties Municipal Beach. The hours are 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.

Rules governing the contest are: furnish own pole, only still fishing permitted, winners must hook and land catch, fish must be presented to judges immediately after catch, state game rules must be observed, one prize to a person, judges decision final.

Prize categories are as follows: heaviest fish, longest fish, youngest child to catch fish, first legal size fish caught, second heaviest fish and second longest fish.

Registration forms are available at stores displaying derby poster. In event of rain, the derby will take place the following Saturday.

Dartball Loop

Saugerties Dartball League will start the season Monday, Sept. 25, with 12 teams forming the loop. It will play Monday nights until early April.

St. Mary's is the only new team entering the league and will replace Southside Mens' Club in the schedule.

Opening night play is as follows: Cementon at Trinity, Quarryville at Saugerties Contractors, St. Mary's at West Camp, Malden-West Camp Vols at Golden Eagles, Centerville at High Woods, American Legion at Centerville Vols.

St. Mary's will play all home games in the church hall on Cedar Street. All playing rules will be the same as last year.

Slate Listed For Electorate

Town of Saugerties Conservative Party today listed a full slate of candidates for the upcoming elections.

Nominated Saturday night were Peter Williams, incumbent supervisor; William R. Brown, incumbent supt. of highways; Marion Newkirk, incumbent town clerk; Ernest E. Schirmer, incumbent police justice; Edwin E. Olson and Thomas B. Atkins, for town councilmen; and Frank Greimel, for justice of the peace.

Town Chairman Frank Greimel termed the slate "... men who think for themselves." He said the candidates would keep the interests of the entire township uppermost at all times.

Rebekahs Meet

The Rebekahs of West Saugerties met Sept. 7 and turned over to the Odd Fellows money collected during the summer rummage sale.

All noble grands and vice grands are reminded to meet at the IOOF Hall in Saugerties on Saturday, Sept. 16, at 2 p. m.

Rotarians Meet

Seventeen Rotarians and three guests were at the Sept. 5 meeting, conducted at Anton's Restaurant. The guests were Walter Van Wagenen of Woodstock, A. W. Rittenhauser of Nyack and Roy Hassel of New Paltz.

Dartball Practice

West Camp Palatines will hold a dartball practice session Monday, 7:45 p. m., in West Camp Parish Hall. The annual meeting will be held with election of officers.

Teacher's Association

James Chase and Mrs. H. Graham Barkhuff, president and vice president of the Saugerties Teachers Assoc., recently attended a Leadership Workshop at Oswego College.

B. H. RONNENBERG
USAF Specialist

Airman Bruce H. Ronnenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Ronnenberg of 19 Plymouth Avenue, has been selected for technical training at Amarillo AFB, Tex., as a U. S. Air Force personnel specialist. The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. His new school is part of the Air Training Command which conducts hundreds of specialized courses to provide technically trained personnel for the nation's aerospace force. Airman Ronnenberg is a 1966 graduate of Kingston High School.

Mills in Viet

Pfc. Russell J. Mills Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Mills of Tanglewood Road, West Hurley, is now serving in Vietnam.

Pfc. Mills left for this assignment Aug. 27, after spending several days at home. He enlisted in the Army during Feb. of 1967 and took his basic training at Ft. Gordon, Ga. Following basic he was sent to Ft. Holabird, Md., to U. S. Army Intelligence School. He is a graduate of Ontario High School, Class of '64, and attended the two-year college at Potsdam.

Alaska's Katmai National Monument covers 2,697,590 acres.

Blast Opens Rosendale Race for Town Supervisor

The Town of Rosendale supervisor's race is finally off the ground. Less than a day after Village Mayor Joseph S. Reid was nominated by the Democrats to oppose Town Supervisor Gerard DeFelice, the Republican, the issues are already being collected, the battle already being waged.

Reid has claimed that he will formally charge the Republican supervisor with misuse of public funds.

It all started yesterday when Reid noticed that town employee Frank Warren was using a town tractor with a mower attached to cut the grass on the huge field of privately owned Sportsmen's Park.

Reid claims that he then discovered that the Liquor Dealers Association was to hold a clam-bake on the grounds not long after the grass was cut.

District Attorney Joseph Torraca's office was called and Reid said that he would lodge a formal complaint against the town for the unauthorized use of taxpayers' equipment on private property.

Gerard DeFelice, supervisor of the town, said that he had no idea the Liquor Dealers were having their clam-bake but that the Bloomington and Rosendale Fire Companies were having what they call their annual Donkey Baseball game on Wednesday at 8 p. m.

"We always do this for the fire companies," said DeFelice, "and, besides, I can't order the man (Warren) to cut the field. What happened was that a request was made by a town taxpayer, then Superintendent of Highways (George) Bockelman said it was OK," and then the thing was done, or so ordered. Reid seemed to believe that the baseball game was to be held in two or three weeks. Sources close to the Rosendale scene say that this is only round one of the long campaign that is to follow.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former Peyton Place television star Susan Oliver says she planned for two years to fly her light plane from New York to Moscow—but now the Russians say "nyet."

Miss Oliver, who played Ann Howard in the television series, had obtained oral permission from the Soviet government, friends said.

The reason for the reversal was not given.

Blast Opens Rosendale Race for Town Supervisor

The Town of Rosendale supervisor's race is finally off the ground. Less than a day after Village Mayor Joseph S. Reid was nominated by the Democrats to oppose Town Supervisor Gerard DeFelice, the Republican, the issues are already being collected, the battle already being waged.

Reid has claimed that he will formally charge the Republican supervisor with misuse of public funds.

It all started yesterday when Reid noticed that town employee Frank Warren was using a town tractor with a mower attached to cut the grass on the huge field of privately owned Sportsmen's Park.

Reid claims that he then discovered that the Liquor Dealers Association was to hold a clambake on the grounds not long after the grass was cut.

District Attorney Joseph Torraca's office was called and Reid said that he would lodge a formal complaint against the town for the unauthorized use of taxpayers' equipment on private property.

Gerard DeFelice, supervisor of the town, said that he had no idea the Liquor Dealers were having their clambake but that the Bloomington and Rosendale Fire Companies were having what they call their annual Donkey Baseball game on Wednesday at 8 p. m.

"We always do this for the fire companies," said DeFelice, "and, besides, I can't order the man (Warren) to cut the field. What happened was that a request was made by a town taxpayer, then Superintendent of Highways (George) Bockelman

Name Tondreau To New Post at IBM Plant Here

The appointment of Joseph H. Tondreau to Production Control manager has been announced by George W. Tamke, general manager of IBM's Systems Manufacturing plant at Kingston.

In his new position Tondreau will be responsible for the planning, scheduling and control of parts, materials and equipment required to build all products manufactured at IBM Kingston. He is also responsible for coordinating, planning and control activity between SMD Kingston and all other plants in IBM's Systems Manufacturing Division.

Tondreau joined IBM in June 1957 as a field engineering student at Kingston. In early 1958, he was assigned to the SAGE experimental sub-sector at Lexington, Mass., as a systems field engineer. He was promoted to group supervisor at that location in late 1958 and to group manager in early 1960. In 1961, he transferred to the Kingston plant as a department manager in Early SAGE Computer Systems Test.

He served as department manager for various Systems Test departments until his promotion to project manager, Unit and System Test, in October 1964. He was promoted to superintendent, Systems Manufacturing in November 1965, and in July 1967 was appointed New Products manager, a post he has held until his present appointment.

He, his wife Mary, sons Joseph and David, and daughters Deborah, Kathleen and Patricia, reside at 36 Edith Avenue, Saugerties.

JOSEPH TONDREAU

Appoint Baxter Vice President At Brydon Corp.

E. Cordon Baxter, naval architect, designer and engineer for the past 26 years, has been named vice president of engineering for all marine operations of The Brydon Corporation, it was announced today by Donald P. Boehm, executive vice president.

For the past three years, Baxter has been general manager of Rondout Marine Inc., Kingston, the yacht construction, repair, maintenance and marina affiliate of The Brydon Corporation.

He held the same position for 10 years with the Hildebrand Dry Dock Company in Kingston, which was renamed Rondout Marine when it became a part of the Brydon complex in 1965. While with the 112-year-old Hildebrand company, Baxter was in charge of commercial vessel construction and repair and of its U. S. Navy minesweeper building program.

In his new position, Baxter will be responsible for design, engineering and construction phases of operations of The Fibre Glass Boat Corporation, one of the Brydon group of companies, now making fiberglass pleasure craft in Coral Gables, Fla.

Baxter has had extensive experience in large ship construction. From 1948 to 1951 he served as resident inspector for the A. S. Onassis ship building interests at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Baltimore, Maryland, shipyards. Prior to that time he was associated with the United Engineering Company as chief design draftsman for naval projects, including the conversion and modernization of the S. S. Lurline.

During World War II, Baxter served as a naval architect and marine engineer with the U. S. Engineers in the Pacific. His duties during the five year period from 1941 to 1946 included an assignment as port engineer for diesel powered vessels.

Baxter obtained his education in marine engineering and naval architecture at the University of Washington in Seattle and at Reed College in Portland, Oregon. He resides with his wife, the former Elaine Tuttle, of Freeport, L. I., at Port Ewen.

30 Area Bankers to Participate

Francis Kugelman Jr., president of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Institute of Banking, announced today that more than 30 area bankers have enrolled in the 1967-68 educational program of the institute.

The first semester curriculum, which was slated for Sept. 13, will include Principles of Bank

Operations, Bank Letters and Reports, and Financing Business Enterprises, and will be taught by George D. Reisenauer, Donald Germain, and Joseph W. Robertson, respectively. Prior to the scheduled classes on Wednesday evening, a dinner meeting will be held between faculty members and chapter officers, to discuss the educational program. John T. Molloy, vice president and educational director, will preside at the meeting.

The American Institute of Banking, a section of the American Bankers Association, is a national educational organization with membership of over 200,000. The Ulster County Chapter membership is expected to enroll over 60 members for the 1967-68 term.

2 John Hancock Salesmen Named For High Award

New Study Plan For Management Slated by ICS

International Correspondence Schools, known world-wide for its vocational independent study course, has announced the development of a new independent study — classroom method for management training.

It is the first time the 77-year-old firm, which has trained employees for more than 7,000 companies, has ventured into classroom training. The new program is the result of almost five years' development, research and testing.

W. G. Moon, 120 Columbia Street, Sunset Park, Kingston, I.C.S. representative in this area, says the program is designed to let a company closely integrate its own problems, policies and procedures into material prepared and furnished by I.C.S. The program may be used by companies of all sizes to train new managers, or upgrade present ones.

A company receives all educational materials needed to administer and conduct the training.

Management trainees receive "homework" in the form of a series of I.C.S. independent study lessons on Modern Supervisory practices. They're also given classroom notes containing case histories, charts, and management simulation problems.

Further information may be obtained from the local representative.

Views Life in USSR 50 Years After the Revolution

EDITOR'S NOTE — In November the Soviet Union will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. From the start, the Communist regime tried to force the nation's artists to its will. But youth and spirit of rebellion find expression anyway, in underground movements, in Western jazz, in abstract painting, even the twist. And under non-Soviet Communist pressure, the spirit of cultural moderation seems to be growing. This is the first of occasional articles dealing with aspects of life in Russia 50 years after the Revolution.

By HENRY BRADSHAW

MOSCOW (AP) — "It is," says Pravda, voice of the Soviet Communist party, "necessary to help artists to be still more deeply aware of their responsibility for the creation of highly ideological works of genuine art."

"However, this must be done tactfully, carefully and skillfully."

No Contradiction

The Communist party bureaucrats who run the Soviet Union see no contradiction between "highly ideological" and "genuine art." In this country, only those novels, poems, paintings, musical compositions and other forms of art which are deemed to carry a message of glorious communism get the Kremlin's seal of approval: "genuine."

The rest—and there is a rest, despite the party's efforts—varies from merely neutral to art that is in open opposition to the Soviet regime.

Before the Bolshevik Revolution 50 years ago in November, it was art that voiced discontent, especially novels and poetry. Today it is too. As a result, a struggle is constantly going on between the heirs of a tsarist censorship system dating to 1803 and the heirs of intellectual opposition to the totalitarianist state.

The struggle seesaws. Sometimes the liberals find it easier to express themselves truthfully about conditions, sometimes the Stalinist conservatives keep awkward things unsaid in print and new art forms unseen and unheard publicly.

The fact that the liberals are heard at all now means that the Soviet Union has come a long way from the depths of Stalin's cultural controls.

Nothing Tactful

There was nothing tactful, careful or skillful about treatment of artists in the 1930s and '40s.

Some of the best writers and most original theatrical people died in concentration camps. Some were castigated for works that had won acclaim in the West.

Partly the trouble was Stalin's own unsophisticated ideas of culture coupled with his ability to impose his backwoods standards on those around him.

But mostly it was a fear of anything which deviated from the attempt to mold culture into a prop for the regime. The approved style was "Socialist realism," which meant presenting a happy picture of boy loves lathe, girl loves tractor, and everyone loves working for the glory of communism.

There is still nothing tactful today in the way some deviant artists are handled.

Andrei D. Sinyavsky and Yuli M. Daniel, who smuggled abroad stories that satirized the situation here, found this out last year. The authorities unleashed on them a savage attack that resembled Stalin's 1937 purge methods of condemning a man before his trial.

An Improvement

The fact that they got a trial at all, before being shipped off to labor camps, was some improvement. But the fact that they were found guilty of "anti-Soviet" writings showed how limited the improvement had been since Stalin's time.

Their was only the best-publicized case. About the same time they were arrested, Ukrainian regional writers were arrested and some 20 are believed still laboring in camps near Sinyavsky and Daniel.

Moscow youths have been arrested for trying to demonstrate against what they called unconstitutional restrictions on free speech.

The basic question is, what is truth in Soviet art?

Is it the big picture of progress that the Communist party wants art to show, complete with heroic figures? Or is it the little picture of how the Soviet system has affected the individual who is less than heroic, who is perhaps troubled and something less than prosperous in content?

The Soviet Writers' Union, the Kremlin machinery for keeping authors under control, complained about the little truth at its congress last May.

"One of the serious flaws has been a tendency toward belittling the heroic tradition of Soviet literature, its life-asserting vigor, which has been manifested in some works," a union resolution said.

Is Vulnerable

The individual writer is in a vulnerable position. A talented young poet spent months in an arctic labor camp because he did not have a regular job and therefore could be labeled a "social parasite" under a severe law. The bluntly realistic writer on social problems has little chance of getting published.

Some of the most potent new writing is by disillusioned young poets who circulate their work in typewritten copies. There is a well-organized Soviet cultural underground for things that the censors keep out of the public domain.

Painters participate in this underground. Stalin liked simple art that showed clearly recognizable objects, preferably to say realistic things about Soviet Communist ones, and so did Khrushchev. Their tastes have stultified Soviet painting, sculpture and other visual art forms. So has censorship of foreign cultural material that keeps painters especially, plus other Soviet cultural types, cut off from Western trends.

Stage plays have been a major subject of cultural struggle in the last few years. Stalin banned many plays but some have recently been coming back to say realistic things about Soviet bureaucracy and other formerly taboo subjects.

Insanity Ruled In Stabbing of Erie Waitress

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — An all-male jury has returned an innocent by reason of insanity verdict to Glendon Diebold, 42, of Buffalo, accused of the Dec. 8, 1966 fatal stabbing of a waitress with whom, police said, he lived.

The Erie County jury reached its decision late Tuesday after five hours of deliberation. Diebold, charged with first-degree murder in the stabbing of Mrs. Mary Rabah, 23, would be turned over to the commissioner of mental hygiene for placement in a mental institution for a determination of his mental state, Judge Frederick Marshall said. Marshall remanded Diebold, a steel worker and father of four children by an estranged wife, to the Erie County Jail.

The jury heard testimony during the week-long trial that Mrs. Rabah died of multiple stab wounds after she, within Diebold's hearing, telephoned another man and made a date for that night.

Diebold's address was 121 Peabody St.

Truckers Give Advice --- How to Stay Alive on Highways

Two professional truck drivers were asked their formula for successful driving. Their answers to the question may help you to stay alive on the roads this fall.

Donald Hammah, 36, Cincinnati, Ohio and Gerald Lord, 35, nah, who has survived 18 years of traffic carnage was awarded the American Trucking Association's "Safe Driving Citation" for his million-mile fraternity and 1965. Lord, a former police officer, was chosen Lyon Driver of the Year in 1966.

Upstate Marine Dies in Viet; Volunteered

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Marine Lance Cpl. Donald L. Graves, 20, who volunteered to stay six months more in Vietnam instead of returning home last month, is dead from mortar fire near Quang Tri, his parents say.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Graves of Buffalo, said Tuesday that Marine authorities informed them their son was killed last Thursday in Vietnam. He was scheduled to come home last month but volunteered to extend his tour of duty, they said.

Graves enlisted in February 1966 and went to Vietnam six months later in July.

Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers.

The family address is 40 Dart St.

With these credentials, Hammah and Lord are impressively qualified to give advice on how to drive and stay alive.

What are their secrets?

"No secrets," they aver. "Good driving is simply self-discipline and strict adherence to basic rules of the road. The rules have to be learned and practiced every minute you're behind the wheel."

1. There is no such thing as the "right of way." The cemeteries are full of people who thought they had it. The highway is no place to assert your rights.

2. Don't trust anybody or assume anything about people driving or walking. "I thought" causes more accidents than anything else.

3. Know where you're going before you start to drive. Traffic is no place to look for off-ramps, addresses etc. Driving safely needs 100 per cent concentration on the job at hand.

4. Jamming on the brakes is not the answer to every trouble. Panic braking can kill you. Sometimes it's better to think than to brake.

5. Always drive about half a mile ahead of yourself. Anticipate any possible problem not always the villain of an accident. Bad judgment is.

9. Know your own capabilities as a driver and act accordingly. A driver's license is not an accurate indication of skill and discipline.

10. Always give yourself more clearance than you think you need in any passing situation. Your judgment and your eyesight are not infallible. And if they were, maybe the other guy's are not.

11. Always drive city streets as if children were there—whether you see them or not.

12. Make your driving skills automatic. That takes concentration and practice. Driving a freeway at 60 miles an hour is no place to say "what do I do now?"

Whitney Case Figure Nabbed For Extortion

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. (AP) — A man from Amityville, Long Island, was indicted Tuesday on charges of attempted grand larceny and attempted extortion in connection with the $781,800 Whitney jewel theft last month.

A Saratoga County grand jury returned the indictment against Frank C. Barnes, 43, who is accused of having made telephone calls to Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney in an effort to obtain $35,000 for information leading to the jewelry.

Barnes was being held in the county jail. He is to be arraigned Monday before Justice Willard Best of State Supreme Court.

The jewels were taken Aug. 2 from the Whitney's summer estate in Saratoga Springs, where the Whitneys were staying for the thoroughbred horse racing at Saratoga Race Track.

Barnes, who operated a gasoline station, disclaims any knowledge of the whereabouts of the jewels. He was arrested Aug. 12 in a telephone booth in Queens.

Police report no progress in their search for the jewels.

Eastern GOP Moderates Playing Three-Man Waiting Game

By JACK BELL, AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Republican moderates are playing a cautious three-man parlay for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination as they await further soundings on the performance of Michigan Gov. George Romney.

Disappointed by Romney's sometimes erratic course on major issues such as Vietnam, influential individuals in the Eastern power structure are keeping lines open so they could transfer their allegiance speedily to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller or Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., an influential member of this group, said in an interview that nobody is giving up on Romney at this point. But he conceded that the Michigan governor still has to prove he can arouse the kind of public support needed to win presidential primaries and go into the 1968 convention as a leading contender.

Most of the moderates think Romney's statement that he was "brainwashed" by Johnson Administration officials on a 1965 visit to Vietnam was a blow-over blooper.

Rockefeller said in New York Tuesday it was too early to tell whether it had affected Romney's chances for the nomination. But he observed that the governor "has gone on the offensive."

In a New York speech Tuesday, Richard M. Nixon alluded to the brainwashing issue as he declared he had no complaint about the briefings he received during his nine visits to Vietnam. This, however, was the extent of his comment.

On the conservative side of the Republican spectrum, California Gov. Ronald Reagan told a Sacramento news conference that perhaps Romney had "expressed a concern that all Americans have about foreign policy."

Reagan, who advocated Tuesday a sharp escalation to win the war as quickly as possible, was less charitable about Romney's previous statement that the United States made a mistake in getting involved in Vietnam. He said it is "pretty tragic if we begin arguing about that" after years of fighting.

The California governor said he is "just not interested" in becoming a vice presidential candidate on a ticket headed by Rockefeller. Such a ticket has been discussed widely among moderates as a possibility if Romney stumbles into more political thickets.

In the moderate camp, there is the feeling that Romney is too ebullient and that, as one supporter put it: "He talks in public like we talk in private."

Because of this some of his backers fear he may be creating the kind of confusing image Barry Goldwater presented in 1964.

The Michigan governor has been advised by his friends to lay down a statement of his position on each major issue and stick to it. They got him to outline his views on Vietnam in a Hartford, Conn., speech last April but he clouded this up with conflicting statements in the months that followed.

As an indication he may be taking this advice to heart, Romney tried to get back to his Hartford stance at a news conference here last week when he explained that in saying he was "brainwashed" he was referring to an "LBJ snow job" and not the usual meaning.

His moderate supporters think these endeavors, he would just avoid off-the-cuff observations on important issues.

Generally, his backers think Romney may surprise his critics in next spring's presidential primaries. They regard his home contacts with the voters, his handshaking ability and his nonstop campaigning as major assets.

They would be happy if, in these endeavors, he would just avoid off-the-cuff observations on important issues.

KERHONKSON, N.Y. (AP) —

Morris J. Zweig, an attorney from Albany, is the new president of the State Association of Magistrates, succeeding Charles R. Newman of Arcade.

Zweig was elected Tuesday at the magistrates' meeting, which began Sunday and ends today.

Term's Origin

The term, "stuck up," to denote someone who believes himself to be very important, was obtained from the peacock, who sticks up his colorful tail to emphasize his importance.

The sessions are being held in the Granit Hotel at Accord.

Eugene W. Salisbury, 36, of Buffalo, was chosen magistrate of the year by the more than 400 delegates attending the association's meeting.

Salisbury has been active in a statewide judicial conference training program. He was graduated from the University of Buffalo and the Buffalo Law School.

Elected vice presidents were: Harold W. Hayward of Elmira, Oliver McGraw of Moravia, Gilbert Denton of Alden and J. Webb L. Sheehy of Irondequoit.

James Lamb of Nassau, J. Boyd Hensen of White Plains and Harold Lieberman of Hudson were named to the association's executive committee.

Earlier Tuesday, the magistrates heard the district attorney of Tompkins County call for legislation to cope with the problem of "friendly distribution" of marijuana, LSD and other illegal drugs.

Richard B. Thaler proposed that distribution of drugs between friends without a profit motive should be the subject of such legislation.

He suggested that the law stipulate that such distribution when it does not involve the more dangerous and addictive drugs like heroin and cocaine should be handled in such a way that youths be found guilty of no criminal record, Thaler said.

"This way, they would have a 60-day sentence in a local jail, which might help to straighten the kid out and act as a deterrent to other kids," Thaler asserted.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Seven

utilities in New York State plan to build a $3-million control center near here, designed to help avert an electrical power failure similar to the Northeast's big blackout in November 1965.

The decision to build the center was announced Tuesday by a spokesman for the seven-member companies of the New York Power Pool, formed early in 1966 after the blackout.

Communication circuits will link the center with power-dispatching headquarters of each utility. They are Consolidated Edison in New York City, Niagara Mohawk in Syracuse, New York State Electric & Gas in Binghamton, Central Hudson in Poughkeepsie, Long Island Lighting in Hicksville, Orange and Rockland in Middletown, and Rochester Gas and Electric in Rochester.

The firms serve 98 per cent of the state's electricity users. Other consumers are served by small municipal or private companies.

John R. Vogel Jr., 43, of Poughkeepsie, who has been a superintendent for Central Hudson, has been named acting manager for the center, to be known as the New York Power Pool Energy Control Center.

The center is to be built at McCormack Corners, near Route 20 and just west of here.

One of the center's functions will be to provide an immediate statewide analysis of electric generation, customer demand and reserve capacity, so that additional power can be routed for emergencies.

In addition, the computerized pool will assist the utilities in determining the location, size, timing and required transmission for new generating units.

Under terms of the arrangement, each of the participating firms will remain responsible for maintaining adequate electric generating capacity and transmission within its own service area.

An announcement made today by Central Hudson President Lelan F. Sillin Jr. said Central Hudson is one of seven companies which form the New York Power Pool and serve 98 per cent of the state's electric customers. The Power Pool was formed in July 1966 to obtain optimum reliability of service and efficiency for the benefit of customers in the respective electric system areas.

Vogel, who resides at 123 Cavo Drive, Poughkeepsie, with his wife and two children, holds BEE and MEE degrees from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He also is a registered professional Engineer in New York State.

At Central Hudson, Vogel is responsible for the general supervision of the operation and control of the electric and gas transmission systems; scheduling the production, purchase and sale of electric energy and gas; and planning for future power supplies to meet system requirements. He represents Central Hudson in a number of industry activities and is a former Chairman of the Operation Committee of the New York Power Pool.

Vogel has begun recruiting a staff for the Energy Control Center.

The Energy Control Center will direct the electric power generation and transmission of more than 19 million kilowatts throughout New York State. Scheduled for operation late in 1968, the center will be one of the largest in the country in terms of generating capacity under its direction. The adjacent Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland pool (PJM) at that time will have a total New England capacity will be more than 11 million kilowatts.

At the Energy Control Center, a state-wide picture of electric generation, customer demand and reserve capacity will be kept continuously up to the minute, so that in an emergency additional amounts of power can be routed immediately to the area where it is needed.

Plans are being made for construction of a building to house the center and its equipment. The total cost of the center and the high speed communications links between it and member companies of the Pool is expected to be more than $3 million, which will be shared by the companies.

Communication circuits will link the New York Power Pool Energy Control Center with the power dispatching headquarters of each of the seven utilities: Con Edison in New York City; Central Hudson's in Poughkeepsie; Long Island Lighting Company's in Hicksville; New York State Electric and Gas Corporation's in Binghamton; Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation's in Syracuse; Orange and Rockland Utilities, Inc. in Middletown; and Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation's in Rochester.

In addition, communication circuits between the Pool, the Power Authority of the State of New York (PASNY) and neighboring pools in Pennsylvania, New England and Ontario, Canada, will be established to provide closer coordination of electric power operations throughout the northeast region.

Status reports on power output, customer requirements and other data will be made continuously by each company to the center over the high speed communications circuits. A completely computerized arrangement there will permit the control center to supervise continuously the "loading" of generating and transmission systems to insure reliability of service and to direct generation by each system to meet the normal and emergency needs of all customers most efficiently.

Under the New York Power Pool arrangement, each of the companies continues to be fully responsible for maintaining adequate electric generating capacity and transmission facilities within its own service area.

However, the Pool operation will enable the companies to mutually determine the best location, size, timing and required transmission for new generating units. Fewer sites should be required and the companies will be able to build larger and more efficient generating units, thus reducing capital costs with attendant savings to the electric customers in the state.

Presidential Riot Report

Committee Asks for Riot Team

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's representative during the Detroit riot in July recommends a special riot-busting team go into action whenever the federal government intervenes in civil disorders.

The nine-member group would handle problems ranging from quelling the riot to stopping the spread of rumors.

The recommendations were made by Cyrus R. Vance, a former deputy secretary of defense dispatched to Detroit by the President when the riot broke out. His 65-page report was submitted last week to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and made public Tuesday.

As that report was being issued, the House Education and Labor Committee released a report in which committee investigators said anti-poverty workers contributed to the unrest leading to the July riot in Newark, N.J. But the workers weren't criticized because, the report said, whether they acted properly "depends on one's interpretation."

The report said workers from the United Community Corp.,

Newark's independent anti-poverty group, participated in protest demonstrations in the racially tense city.

"Whether this was a proper role for such personnel depends upon one's interpretation," the House report said.

"Whatever the intention, the facts concerning the role of UCC personnel in publicizing and organizing a police brutality mass rally . . . the evening of July 13 did significantly contribute to the volatile climate which prevailed."

The Vance report, based on the Detroit experience, suggested members of the proposed riot-busting squad include:

1. A special representative of the President or defense secretary to quarterback all federal activities in the riot area.

2. A senior Justice Department spokesman "to act as alter ego of the special representative" and to field legal questions.

3. A military commander with staff to direct Army troops or federalized National Guardsmen.

4. The assistant attorney general of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division.

5. The director of the Community Relations Service.

6. A senior public affairs officer to hold news conferences and briefings in an effort to hold down rumors.

7. A representative of the Bureau of the Budget to tackle requests for economic and social assistance to the stricken city.

8. A military aide to run interference for the man in charge of the federal team.

9. "At least one individual who is familiar with the city."

Reagan Political Tour Shapes Up as Hawkish

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Ronald Reagan is getting ready for his first nationwide political tour as a full-fledged hawk on Vietnam and closer than ever to campaigning actively for the Republican presidential nomination.

Less than three weeks before his speechmaking trip through Illinois, South Carolina and Wisconsin, Reagan made his toughest statement so far on the war, asking for a sharp escalation.

"I don't think the full technological power of the United States is being used," Reagan told a news conference Tuesday.

He said he didn't think nuclear weapons are needed to win but insisted "the enemy should be frightened that we might use them."

The eagerness with which the first-term governor tackled questions on Vietnam increased speculation that he might actively seek the nomination. Officially, he insists he's only interested in being California's favorite son.

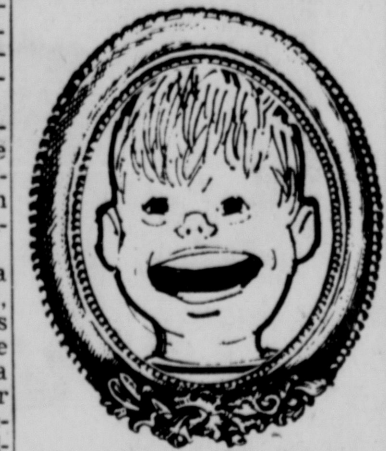

Asked if Reagan would discuss Vietnam on the three-state trip starting Sept. 29, his communications director, Lyn Nofziger, said he would "mention it."

The tour billed in part as a fund-raiser for GOP candidates, will provide the first grassroots reaction in other states to the former actor who led California Republicans to victory last year with an almost million-vote victory over Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

It also might give a strong hint as to whether Reagan will be able to chip away at some of the strength of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, an undeclared candidate for the nomination. Reagan's advisers say the governor's big chance for the nomination will come if Nixon runs into trouble and some of his supporters begin looking for another candidate.

Reagan will be in Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 30, in a state where his name will be on the April 2 presidential primary ballot. As in the Oregon and Nebraska primaries, Reagan could remove his name only by swearing he does not intend to be a presidential candidate. Reagan has said he won't do that, but will not actively campaign in those primaries.

Reagan told the news conference he would not accept second place on a Republican ticket headed by New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

16 Cited by College Exam Board

Sixteen graduates of Kingston High School, class of 1967, have been recognized by the College Entrance Examinations Board for their achievement in examinations in biology, chemistry, English and mathematics.

They are: Carol Breslin, Maria Carollo, Ann Carro, Paul Rodden, Frank Johnson and Helen Nagy, biology; Madeline Kaplan, Donna Legg, mathematics; David Krause, Marjorie Spiege and Nancy Sweeney, English; Jeanne Penrose, chemistry.

Double recognition went to George Jones, chemistry, mathematics; Melinda Rosenthal, biology and English; Lawrence Scanlon, biology and English; Joyce Yaple, biology and English.

All 16 students are among those who have participated in the advanced program of Kingston Schools Consolidated. From sixth grade on, students who show exceptional ability in one or more academic areas are grouped in classes to give them opportunity to do the most challenging work of which they are capable.

The major value of the advanced program is the expansion of limits toward which each student may strive; recognition of achievement by the college is but one concrete example of the benefits of the program.

DOUBLE RECOGNITION — Dan Allen, principal of Kingston High School, congratulates three students who achieved double recognition by the College Entrance Examination Board for achievement on advanced placement examinations. Convention Weighs Move On State Welfare Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A determined Democratic majority closed in today on preliminary approval of a provision that would set up a Constitutional requirement for the state to take over all local welfare costs in ten years.

Originally, the action had been slated for Tuesday, and Constitutional Convention President Anthony J. Travia said after a party conference that the Democrats had votes enough to achieve their will.

There were several Democratic delegates absent on Tuesday, however, so Travia decided to put off the vote until today.

In other developments Tuesday, delegates gave final approval to an article detailing functions of the Legislature — the third of 12 articles in the remodeled Constitution the delegates hope to present to the voters in the Nov. 7 election.

Delegates are struggling to meet a self-imposed deadline of Sept. 26 for completion of their proposed charter. It must be complete by then if it is to be voted upon in November.

Before passing the legislative article, 148-28, Democrats beat back Republican amendments that could have granted the governor a voice in selection of a commission to realign legislative and congressional districts.

Gov. Rockefeller has sent the convention a special message asking that the chief executive be included in the reapportionment machinery.

As finally approved, the article would provide for a five-member reapportionment committee to be appointed by the legislative leaders and the Court of Appeals. The legislative leaders would have four of the five appointments.

In another development, the long-awaited article on the judiciary was reported to the floor. It combined much of the present constitutional provisions with a few additions sought by court reformers.

Basically, it would provide for increased judicial manpower; a gradual, 10-year - takeover by the state of all court costs; and optional abolishment of justice of the peace courts.

The delegates also virtually completed their work on the proposed article dealing with conservation and the forest preserve.

Since localities now spend about $528 million a year on welfare programs, the first year's cost to the state could be $52.8 million.

Opponents argued that such recognition would breach the forever wild concept and open the area to unlimited camping.

The Democratic proposal on welfare would oblige the state to take over local welfare costs at a rate of 10 per cent a year for 10 years.

Since localities now spend about $528 million a year on welfare programs, the first year's cost to the state could be $52.8 million.

Democrats have argued that state takeover would ease a burden on local property - taxpayers, a major problem in many areas.

Republicans, led by Sen. Earl W. Brydges, oppose the concept on the grounds that the benefits of such a takeover would be felt mostly in New York City and that the increased cost to the state would require a major state tax increase.

S&L Principles Topic of Bank Lecture Series

Deweese W. DeWitt, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, inaugurates a course of instruction on "Savings and Loan Principles," tonight at the Association offices, 235 Fair Street. The course, sponsored by the Capital District Chapter of the American Savings and Loan Institute, will be comprised of a series of 12 lectures by DeWitt, who is an editorial collaborator on the text, "Savings and Loan Principles" by Lawrence V. Conway, director of Publications on the American Savings and Loan Institute.

Scheduled from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. Wednesday evening, they will conclude with a comprehensive true-false examination.

Enrolled are 10 students all of whom are employees of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston and the First Federal Association. This is the 15th consecutive year of local Savings and Loan Association participation in continuing financial education.

The greatest thing since sliced bread.

For two very good reasons. The first is taste. MILLBROOK tastes terrific. Butter it, toast it, French toast it, cinnamon toast it, make sandwiches or use it for bread crumbs — that delicious, hearty MILLBROOK flavor always comes shining through.

The second reason is MILLBROOK is made a special way — without holes. No holes mean our bread stays fresher longer. No holes mean even toasting every time. And no holes mean no mess even when you make the runniest sandwiches.

MILLBROOK enriched MIRACLE-MIX Bread. Great taste. No holes. Two very good reasons to try a loaf today. Look for it in the red and yellow plastic freezer bag.

NEW PALTZ NEWS Central School Faces Increased Enrollment

Frederick C. Dippel, supervising principal has announced that the opening of New Paltz Central School went very smoothly in spite of the large influx of new students. Enrollment in grades K through 12 stands at 1,530, an increase of 105 over last year. Additional new students are anticipated with the opening of the college and the arrival of the full number of migrant workers.

When asked about class size Dippel said "They are much too large in most cases but there is nothing we can do about it until the completion of the new high school next year provides us with the additional classrooms necessary to add another section of the overcrowded grades."

The greatest pinch of space is in the kindergarten where there are 153 children in the five sections causing these sections to run between 30 and 35. A number of other elementary classes are already over 30 in size.

In the high school the physical education classes are running as high as 60 with enrollment in 10th and 11th year mathematics running as high as 35 in a class.

Another problem area is locker space. With no place to add new lockers in many cases, as many as three students are forced to share a locker. Dippel says that in spite of the extra burden and inconvenience caused by this overcrowding the teachers, pupils and parents have been understanding and cooperative, and he feels confident that we will be able to make the best of a poor situation until relief comes next year with the completion of the new building.

CLINTONDALE—Postmaster and Mrs. Norman Rice have returned from a vacation trip to Maine.

At the postponed meeting of Clintondale Grange held Tuesday night the annual election of officers was featured. Fred Eckert was re-elected to the post of master. Others elected were: Fred Schnieder, overseer; Ruth Scribner, lecturer; Alida Smith, steward; Mrs. Fred Schnieder, chaplain; Russell Minard, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Eckert, secretary; Mrs. Raymond Sharp, gate keeper; Mrs. Preston Coy, Ceres; Miss Irene Sicker, Flora; Elizabeth Atkins, Lady Assistant Steward. Members of the executive committee are Irene Sicker, Fred Schnieder and Andrew Montrola. Refreshments were served by Miss Sicker and Mrs. Atkins. The next regular meeting of the Grange will be held at the Grange Hall Monday, Sept. 18.

Private First Class and Mrs. Richard Terpening are the parents of a son, Leslie James, born at St. Francis' Hospital on Sept. 3.

There will be a worship service at the Clintondale Friends Church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning with the Rev. Gerald Sutch occupying the pulpit.

Clintondale Fire Department marched in the fourth division at the parade of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association held in Ellenville on Saturday afternoon.

The annual clambake will be served at McCabe's Hotel Sunday, Sept. 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sutton, residing in this area are invited to attend a luncheon and business meeting of the Association of Former New York State Troopers next Saturday.

The event will take place at the Howard Johnson Restaurant on Rt. 28 off the Thruway Circle.

Nominations for officers will be received at that time, according to Raymond C. Clark, treasurer.

The Clintondale Fire District has advertised for bids for the construction of a new one-story firehouse for Clintondale. The bids will be opened on Sept. 25 at 8 p.m. at the firehouse when they will be publicly opened and read. The new building will contain approximately 4,640 square feet of floor space and will be located on lands now owned by the fire district on which the outgrown firehouse is now located.

At the Clintondale Methodist Church the Rev. Purdy Halstead will hold a service at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

Charles Wickham of Main Street was elected assistant steward of Highland Grange at the meeting held at the Highland Hall on Tuesday night.

Roger Rosenkranz, who is now a certified lay speaker for the Methodist Church will supply the pulpit of the Clinton Corners Community Church for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simpson and family have returned from a camping trip to Schroon Lake in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Freston Coy, Chester

Coy and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckert were recent guests at their camp on Yankee Lake in Sullivan County.

The Clintondale Home Demonstration Unit will hold the first meeting of the fall season on Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Grange Hall, Mill Street. A new name for the unit will be selected by the members at this time and plans made for the fall season.

The ladies of the Clintondale Methodist Church are collecting, sorting and pricing articles to be offered at the annual rummage sales Friday and Saturday, Sept. 22 and 23 and Friday and Saturday, Sept. 29 and 30 at the church.

Robert Smith has returned to the State University College at Stony Brook, Long Island, after spending the summer at his home here.

Several members of Clintondale Fire Department attended the banquet of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association held Thursday night at the Echo Hotel near Ellenville.

Clintondale Grange will hold its annual booster night display at the Grange Hall at a date to be announced later in the month.

Mrs. Myrtle Coy, president of the DUSO Horse Club is general chairman for the rodeo and horse show to be held on Saturday and Sunday at the Ponderosa Ranch, Salt Point Road.

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles says very few drunken drivers in Massachusetts are ever found guilty in the courts and punished.

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said that only about 6,000 of an estimated six or seven million drunken drivers in the state are brought to trial each year.

About one-third of those brought to trial are acquitted, he said.

There are some 3,000 long-distance moving firms authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

BEEKEEPING—Like bees are drawn to honey, so it would seem they have also formed an attachment to the eave of a house at 28 Warren Street. It would also seem that the queen bee is a rather good strategist for should anyone wish to evict her colony, he would certainly have to be a second story man. (Freeman photo by Kruh)INVESTOR FORUM

The social and economic military turmoil in the world is unprecedented. Riots in big cities in America are bloody and costly. Unbalanced budgets in Washington continue to undermine the dollar. And the fruitless war in Vietnam is splitting the beliefs of millions of loyal citizens. This pattern of turmoil is rightly disturbing the thoughts of millions of investors. A distinguished student of history (a professor at a leading university) told me recently that conditions in America remind him of the fall of Rome. He came to see me about his savings. They are rather large and, being an historian and not an economist, he has used institutions that are very well managed as guardians of his wealth.

But this turmoil makes him think twice. And the news coming from every segment of our society causes him to question the advisability of having so many dollars.

Contemporary history disturbs him. Riots have caused millions upon millions of dollars of losses. Repairing the damage will cost billions.

And, despite high taxes, Washington still has unbalanced budgets which are financed by inflationary methods. Every time a billion dollars worth of federal debt is lodged in the commercial banking system, inflation is fostered.

The war in Vietnam is frightfully costly in lives and in money. The whole enterprise is very unpopular in many circles in America.

Every investor in America must learn to live in this world of change.

Last year,
over a quarter million owners
of other low-price cars
were won over to Plymouth.
It started a movement, a momentum,
a beat.

And the Plymouth win-you-over beat goes on.

This is the 1968 Plymouth Fury.
It still looks long and low and wide. Only richer. And much more beautiful.
And the beat goes on.Inside, Fury's options don't have that "added on" look.
The Auto-Pilot is on the turn signal lever.
Air conditioning outlets are part of the instrument panel.
And the beat goes on.Plymouth Fury has the biggest brakes in its class.
And the biggest trunk.
It's also the heaviest.
And the most solid.
And the beat goes on.This is the 1968 GTX.
One in a whole new line of mid-size cars for '68: GTX, Sport Satellite, Belvedere, Road Runner.
We've given them all-new styling for '68.
And the beat goes on.We made our 2-door sedans look like hardtops.
And we created a new low-cost, high-performance car called the Road Runner.
Its horn goes "Beep-Beep!"
And the beat goes on.There are 64 new Plymouths for '68.
Full-size, mid-size, sports cars, wagons and compacts.
We could build a car a minute for an entire year. And never build two exactly alike.

CLINTONDALE NEWS

CLINTONDALE—Postmaster and Mrs. Norman Rice have returned from a vacation trip to Maine.

At the postponed meeting of Clintondale Grange held Tuesday night the annual election of officers was featured. Fred Eckert was re-elected to the post of master. Others elected were: Fred Schnieder, overseer; Ruth Scribner, lecturer; Alida Smith, steward; Mrs. Fred Schnieder, chaplain; Russell Minard, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Eckert, secretary; Mrs. Raymond Sharp, gate keeper; Mrs. Freston Coy, Ceres; Miss Irene Sicker, Flora; Elizabeth Atkins, Lady Assistant Steward. Members of the executive committee are Irene Sicker, Fred Schnieder and Andrew Montrola. Refreshments were served by Miss Sicker and Mrs. Atkins. The next regular meeting of the Grange will be held at the Grange Hall Monday, Sept. 18.

Private First Class and Mrs. Richard Terpening are the parents of a son, Leslie James, born at St. Francis' Hospital on Sept. 3.

There will be a worship service at the Clintondale Friends Church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning with the Rev. Gerald Sutch occupying the pulpit.

Clintondale Fire Department marched in the fourth division at the parade of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association held Thursday night at the Echo Hotel near Ellenville.

Clintondale Grange will hold its annual booster night display at the Grange Hall at a date to be announced later in the month.

Mrs. Myrtle Coy, president of the DUSO Horse Club is general chairman for the rodeo and horse show to be held on Saturday and Sunday at the Ponderosa Ranch, Salt Point Road.

Coy and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckert were recent guests at their camp on Yankee Lake in Sullivan County.

The Clintondale Home Demonstration Unit will hold the first meeting of the fall season on Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Grange Hall, Mill Street. A new name for the unit will be selected by the members at this time and plans made for the fall season.

The ladies of the Clintondale Methodist Church are collecting, sorting and pricing articles to be offered at the annual rummage sales Friday and Saturday, Sept. 22 and 23 and Friday and Saturday, Sept. 29 and 30 at the church.

Robert Smith has returned to the State University College at Stony Brook, Long Island, after spending the summer at his home here.

Several members of Clintondale Fire Department attended the banquet of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association held Thursday night at the Echo Hotel near Ellenville.

Clintondale Grange will hold its annual booster night display at the Grange Hall at a date to be announced later in the month.

Mrs. Myrtle Coy, president of the DUSO Horse Club is general chairman for the rodeo and horse show to be held on Saturday and Sunday at the Ponderosa Ranch, Salt Point Road.

Ex-Troopers Group To Meet Saturday

Former State Troopers, residing in this area are invited to attend a luncheon and business meeting of the Association of Former New York State Troopers next Saturday.

The event will take place at the DUSO Horse Club, 28 off the Thruway Circle.

Nominations for officers will be received at that time, according to Raymond C. Clark, treasurer.

Time to Sober Up

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles says very few drunken drivers in Massachusetts are ever found guilty in the courts and punished.

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said that only about 6,000 of an estimated six or seven million drunken drivers in the state are brought to trial each year.

About one-third of those brought to trial are acquitted, he said.

There are some 3,000 long-distance moving firms authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

BEEKEEPING—Like bees are drawn to honey, so it would seem they have also formed an attachment to the eave of a house at 28 Warren Street. It would also seem that the queen bee is a rather good strategist for should anyone wish to evict her colony, he would certainly have to be a second story man. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

INVESTOR FORUM

The social and economic military turmoil in the world is asked this question: "What should I do with my money?" No answer to this puzzling question can be made without getting down to basic principles. But this column's answer is as follows:

Regardless of the world turmoil, two condition in America can nearly be taken for granted:

1) Hundreds of the leading corporations will continue to turn out the goods and the services required by our 196,000,000 population.

2) These enterprises, through sound manufacturing, financing and merchandising methods will still make money and pay taxes and declare dividends.

I told the college professor-historian to take his life savings of about $60,000 and buy ten common stocks of corporations which serve him and his family daily.

If those enterprises don't make any money, taxes will not be paid, Uncle Sam and Governor Rockefeller will be in financial distress and our economic society will suffer badly.

But don't worry: America's best corporation's will make money, pay taxes and declare dividends. They are the social and economic bulwark of this great country.

THE FORUM

(Q) (a common one) — "In a month, $10,000 worth of bonds are maturing. What stocks should I buy?"

(A) Buy a good oil, automobile, utility, bank and steel stock. (Copr. T-M, 1967 Gen. Fea. Corp.)

Every investor in America must learn to live in this world

Last year,
over a quarter million owners
of other low-price cars
were won over to Plymouth.
It started a movement, a momentum,
a beat.

And the Plymouth win-you-over beat goes on.

This is the 1968 Plymouth Fury. It still looks long and low and wide. Only richer. And much more beautiful. And the beat goes on.

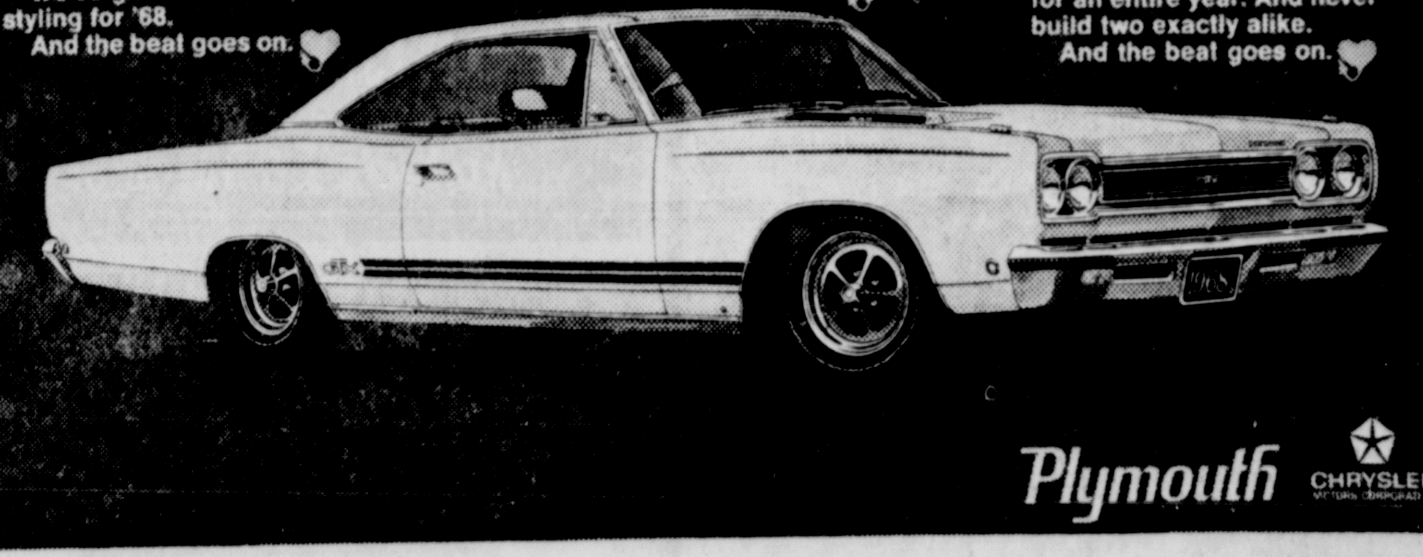

Inside, Fury's options don't have that "added on" look. The Auto-Pilot is on the turn signal lever. Air conditioning outlets are part of the instrument panel. And the beat goes on.

Plymouth Fury has the biggest brakes in its class. And the biggest trunk. It's also the heaviest. And the most solid. And the beat goes on.

This is the 1968 GTX. One in a whole new line of mid-size cars for '68: GTX, Sport Satellite, Satellite, Belvedere, Road Runner. We've given them all-new styling for '68. And the beat goes on.

We made our 2-door sedans look like hardtops. And we created a new low-cost, high-performance car called the Road Runner. Its horn goes "Beep-Beep!" And the beat goes on.

There are 64 new Plymouths for '68. Full-size, mid-size, sports cars, wagons and compacts. We could build a car a minute for an entire year. And never build two exactly alike. And the beat goes on.

Drake-Bigelow Nuptials Announced

MRS. DANIEL E. BIGELOW

Miss Cheryl Lynn Drake, daughter of Mrs. Allan Drake, Hurley, was married Saturday, Sept. 2, to Daniel Edward Bigelow, Lakeview, at St. Joseph's Church.

The Rev. Robert Saccoman of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, celebrated the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. The blessing and benediction was given by the Rev. Harold Schadevall, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church. James Sweeney, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Raymond Crosswell, wore a street length white lace over taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and pompons.

Miss Barbara Byrne, Hurley, was maid of honor. She wore an aqua A-line styled, linen street-length gown and carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and pompons.

William Everhart, Buffalo, was best man.

After the wedding a reception for 50 guests was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crosswell, Russell Road, Hurley.

The bride is a senior at Fredonia State College, Fredonia, N. Y. Her husband will graduate in January from Fredonia State College.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow will reside in Dunkirk.

A 'Tea for Israel' Slated for Thursday

The Kingston State of Israel Bond Committee announced that Mrs. Robert E. Davis, 188 Pearl Street, Kingston, will host a Tea For Israel at her home Thursday at 1 p. m.

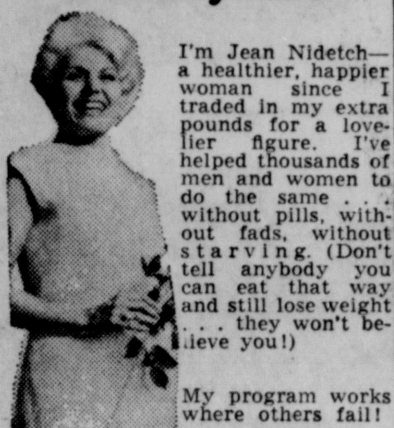

Mrs. Davis, who has invited a large number of women to be her guests, stated, "I am very pleased to cooperate in the important work of aiding the economic development of the State of Israel. The women who will attend this tea will help to plan the acceleration of the sale of State of Israel Bonds in our current drive in the community. Right now, the State of Israel is faced with enormous economic problems as a result of the ravages of the war and the constant necessity for building the land. This work is primarily the responsibility of State of Israel Bonds, and I am pleased, along with many other men and women in the community, to be a part of the program."

Alfred D. Ronder and Herman G. Rafalowsky are general chairmen of the campaign. Mrs. Davis anticipates a large turnout of women from the Kingston Jewish community.

Repertory Theatre Bows to Public; School of Theatre Opens Sept. 16th

Songs, battles, jokes—top entertainment—is what the new non-profit Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre is offering the public these days at the Woodstock Playhouse. The fall season was opened Saturday night with "Oh What A Lovely War," a brilliant musical revue about World War I created by Joan Littlewood's ensemble. The play is scheduled to be given through Sunday, Oct. 1. Reservations may be made at the box office.

The revue is carried through song, dance and mime, news flashes about the events of World War I and fine acting. The undercurrents of a worn-out world are told with bold imagination, authenticity but without nostalgia or bitterness. The production was first given in London and won high critical acclaim and went on to win the Grand Prix at the Theatre des Nations festival in Paris, 1963.

The plot of "Oh What A Lovely War" is impossible to pin down as it is more revue than play. A company of pierrots, casually directed by an MC who occasionally relinquishes his role to play a prop or perform the War Game. The events and moods of the people in England and Europe, before and during the early part of the war, are presented in a series of sketches. The routines are introduced by a flashing news panel showing the current headline.

The scenes are played against a brilliantly effective backdrop of blown up photographs from that era and are strung together by some wonderfully apt songs.

"Oh What A Lovely War" shows, for the first time, the amazement and excitement, the pathos and humor of the catastrophic First World War. The war is seen through the eyes of generals and stalkkeepers, schoolgirls and whores.

The chronology of major events in World War I referred to in the production are extremely interesting. The summary concludes with the fact that "by the end of the war, there had been 60,000,000 men at war of which eight million died and another six million became human wrecks."

The Repertory Theatre's group of Pierrots are Marion Brash, Clint Allmon, Walter Lott, Chet London, Cliff Lipson, Diane Hall, Martha Miller, Tony Ballen, Fred Miller,

Charles C. Welch, Susan Murphy and William Metz. Harold Baldrige, artistic director, directs with scenery and lighting by David F. Segal and costumes by Cornelia Hartmann.

Tickets and reservations for "Oh What A Lovely War," the first play of the Repertory's season, may be obtained by telephoning the box office at the Woodstock Playhouse.

The Repertory company has announced registration for its School of the Theatre will take place on Saturday, Sept. 16 from 10 a.m. to noon, and Sunday, Sept. 17 from 2-4 p.m.

The school is offered to teach children awareness of their mental and physical capabilities and introduce them to the fine arts of the theatre.

Classes are being offered in Basic Speech Development, incorporating interpretation of spoken material; Basic Acting Development, including individual attention to each student's acting problems; and Basic Movement Development, an investigation of the capabilities of the actor's body.

Harold Baldrige, artistic director, will teach these classes with special production sessions given by M. Edgar Rosenblum, executive director. They will be assisted by the professional design and technical staff of the Theatre.

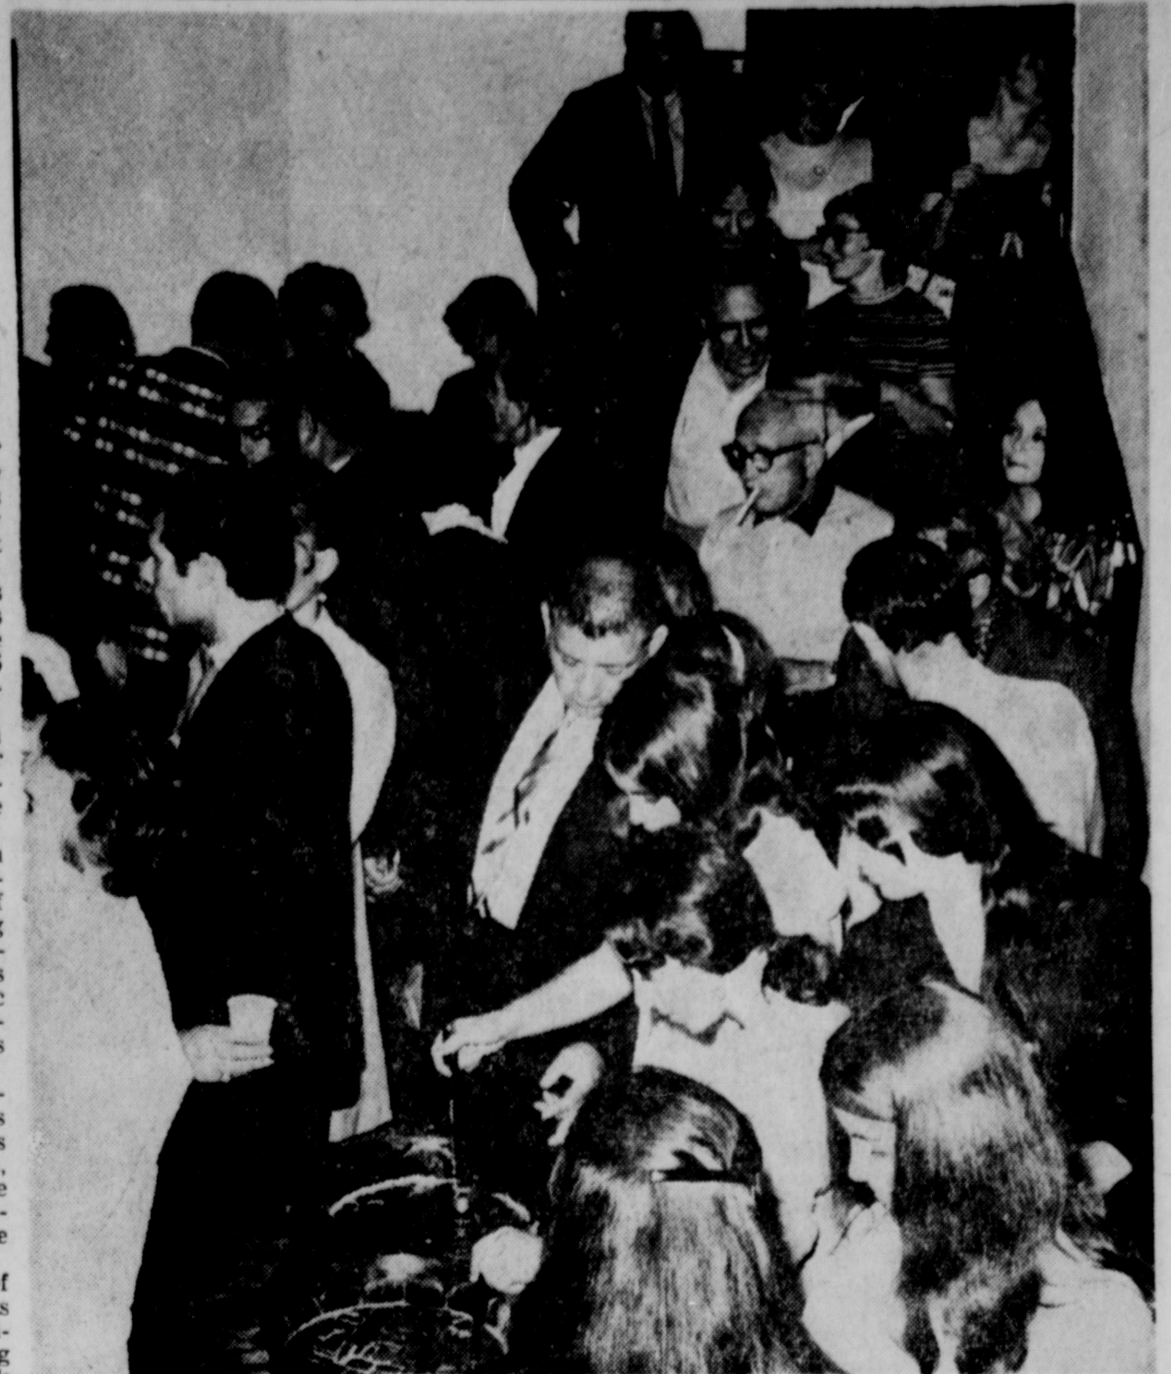

Mr. Baldrige, in his role of director of the school, brings experience as a director, teacher and designer. Besides being director of the Woodstock Playhouse for four seasons he taught and directed for six years at the famous Neighborhood Playhouse in New York. He studied with Sanford Meisner, David Pressman and Martha Graham. Among his many credits, he taught at the Banff School of Fine Arts and headed the Drama Department of the Nelson School of Fine Arts.

The first class will be held at the Woodstock Playhouse on September 23. There will be weekday evening classes for teenagers and adults. Tuition for a 10-week course will be $60 and a three-session course will be $20. Classes will be set up by age group.

HIGH COMEDY SPOT in "Oh What A Lovely War" is delivered by (l-r) Charles C. Welch and Fred Miller. Some of the old songs heard in the production include

"Johnny Jones," "Belgium Put the Kibosh on the Kaiser," "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Rose of Picardy," and "There's A Long, Long Trail." (Van Cort photo)

CAMPAGNE OPENING at Woodstock Playhouse Saturday night brought out a capacity crowd for the brilliant Joan Littlewood production of "Oh What A Lovely War." Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

We get many and varied answers to the request for a solution to the problem of dark marks on dresses caused by the metal strip on kitchen drainboards . . .

This stripping is probably made of aluminum and aluminum is a porous metal. Since it is in the kitchen, it collects carbon and grease, and oxidizes 'till being exposed to the air.

My suggestion to all of you sweet chicka-dees who have this trouble is to first scrub the metal strip vigorously with a soap-filled steel wool pad to remove the imbedded grease and soil.

Then wet a dry rag with pure vinegar and wipe thoroughly to take off all of the soap film. Plain water won't do the job, ladies, you've got to have that vinegar acid. And don't rinse it off.

Many people wrote in that after it was dry, they took clear fingernail polish and painted all the metal stripping along the immediate work area. If you find the tiny brush in the bottle too small, use a water color brush out of the children's paint box.

They all said they no more black marks across their tummy, and it sure saved their clothes. So since all it takes is a bottle of clear nail polish, which most of us already have on hand, why not try it?

Others wrote that they used CLEAR shellac, lacquer, or varnish with good results. If you have some on hand . . . fine.

And many, many thanks to those of you who took the time to write us with your solution. Bless you all.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Don't you love window boxes full of colorful flowers? I have several of them and have found that if I whitewash the inside of these boxes before putting in the soil, it will not only preserve the wooden box, but helps keep insects out.

Mrs. Anderson . . . I know one gal who lines hers with foil!

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Our garage is just long enough for our car with a few inches to spare. My husband nailed some old rubber tires against the garage wall in front of the car.

This not only prevents our going in too far and damaging the wall or the car, but when we ease up against the tires we know we are in far enough to close the door.

A Reader

Dear Heloise: I've found that corkscrew upholstery tacks, used just behind the beading at the top of my sofa slipcover, will keep the cover from slipping down every time someone sits on the couch. I space them about five inches apart all across the back.

These tacks can be purchased at a dime store and are used primarily for holding chair dollies in place, etc.

This trick has saved a lot of frustration and the almost irresistible urge to straighten the cover the moment someone got up from the couch.

Peggy Becker

Dear Heloise: I have imitation tile walls. The other day I could not find a good rag or pad to wax the wall with, so I picked up my old glove pot holder, put it on and waxed away. It worked just beautifully for me.

From now on, I'll always use it for this particular waxing job.

Mrs. Weatherwax

Dear Heloise: I've found another use for nylon net . . . I tie a double piece, about three-quarters of the way up and around the outside of my messy Myna bird's cage because he always had food all over the floor.

This way he can see out and we can see in, yet the net keeps his food in the cage.

Mrs. B. Checchin

Dear Heloise: An old safety razor, with the blade removed, makes an efficient tool for cleaning the brush in my carpet sweeper.

The teeth of the razor do a good job of catching hair, lint and string and pulling it from the brush. I've never found anything better!

Martha Le Coque

Dear Heloise: Here's a quickie . . . I find that if I tie a knot in each corner of my bottom bed sheets they will fit as smoothly as the tailored kind.

I use this method always and love it . . . only takes a moment to untie them for laundering.

Mrs. A.

Voluntary Service Program Announced by Rockefeller

WHO'S WHO might be an appropriate title for this fashion combination by Florentine courtier Domenico Albion shown here against a background of Florence's famed Ponte Vecchio and the Arno River. The male and female models wear leather outfits that are identical even to matching hats, handbags and boots. Albion's collection was shown recently at the Palazzo Serristori in Florence, Italy. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

NEW YORK—A new idea in volunteer government participation received prestigious endorsement today when Governor Rockefeller and Kitty Carlisle Hart, his special consultant to the Women's Unit, announced the names of women who will serve as sponsors of a statewide voluntary service program.

The women met this week with Governor Rockefeller in his New York City office, 22 West 55th Street, and with Mrs. Eunice B. Whitteley of Schenectady, founder and director of Volunteers Tie-Line, the new government information program that has to date attracted 1,340 women in 51 counties.

Sponsors are Mrs. Seymour H. Knox of Buffalo, Mrs. Malcolm A. MacIntyre of Scarsdale, Mrs. Frank Gannett of Rochester, Mrs. Gene Robb of Loudenville, Mrs. James H. Righter of Buffalo, Mrs. Felix J. Aulisi of Amsterdam, Mrs. Alton G. Marshall of Glenmont, Mrs. Robert R. Douglas of Delmar, also Mrs. Preston Davis, Mrs. Cliff Robertson, Mrs. W. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Maurice T. Moore, Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, Mrs. Oscar M. Ruebhausen and Mrs. Jack I. Poses of New York City.

Volunteers Tie-Line is an arm of the Women's Unit of the Office of the Secretary to the Governor, created last March 1 by Governor Rockefeller. Tie-Line was suggested by Mrs. Whitteley as an instrument by which the individual woman—busy with home and family, or career—could maintain communication with her State government and could become more knowledgeable about its functions.

According to Mrs. Whitteley: "Many women, as we know, participate in organizations that have legislative chairmen or newsletters which provide information. However, the vast majority, either because of family demands at home or inaccessibility to organized groups do not have readily available to them legislative or governmental information in a form they may study on subjects that have pertinence for their individual interests and needs."

"With more knowledge, they might be better able to implement local volunteer programs and focus on meeting local problems before they become crucial."

"Most women do not want to be authorities on government, but they do want to be informed enough to support—or reject—those issues and programs which have relevance to their lives. It is to achieve this purpose that Tie-Line exists."

Sponsors of Volunteers Tie-Line will serve as an advisory council to Tie-Line women, Mrs. Whitteley said. Announcement of the formation of Tie-Line was made on April 16 by Mrs. Hart in her capacity as volunteer consultant to the governmental Women's Unit.

Volunteers Tie-Line sponsors are: Mrs. W. Vincent Astor—President of the Vincent Astor Foundation, Trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and of New York University, author of two books.

Mrs. Felix Aulisi—Member of the Century Club of Amsterdam, N. Y.; Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Hospital, Amsterdam City Hospital Puppet Organization and Manor Home Bureau.

Mrs. Preston Davis—Former Trustee of the Taft Memorial Foundation and of Long Island University, former member of the Board of Regents of the National Library of Medicine, and member of the New York State Commission of the World's Fair.

Mrs. Robert Douglas—Member of the Smith College Club, art and antique enthusiast of Delmar, N. Y.; member of Legislative Wives Club.

Mrs. Frank Gannett—Member of the Board of the Gannett Co., Inc.; vice president of the Gannett Newspaper Foundation, chairman of the Board of the Frank Gannett Newspaperboy Scholarships, Inc.; member of the Board of the Planned Parenthood League of Rochester and Monroe County, member of the Board of Regents of the State University of New York, 1947-1964.

Mrs. Seymour Knox—Life member of the Buffalo Fine Arts Academy, member of the Children's Hospital Aid Association, member of the Board of the Hitchcock Foundation, member of the Buffalo Philharmonic Women's Committee.

Mrs. Oswald B. Lord—Former U. S. representative to the UN General Assembly and UN Human Rights Commission, chairman of the Governor's Committee on the Education and Employment of Women, member of the board of Atlantic Council of USA, Atlantic Institute (Paris), Atlantic Treaty Association and People to People.

Mrs. Alton G. Marshall—Member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumni, Panhellenic Alumni, Bethlehem Central School PTA, Bethlehem Lutheran Church Ladies Guild and Altar Guild.

Glamour Returns To Film Capital

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
(for Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Edith Head reports a renaissance of off-screen glamour in Hollywood, once with its Greta Garbos and Joan Crawford, the glamour capital of the world.

"Suddenly the teen-age starlet no longer wears tennis shoes and minishorts," says the sprightly winner of seven Oscars for costume design. "Now it's 'in' to be well dressed."

She had seen one actress barefooted at a formal evening party another at a premiere in blue jeans and sweatshirt and another at a cocktail party in black leather pants, jacket, boots and cap. But that sort of thing, Edith says, is now out.

To honor filmdom's best dressed actors and actresses the Costume Designer's Guild, of which Miss Head is president, holds its second annual awards ball Sept. 29. Proceeds at $100 per person—and last year's event attracted 2,000—benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

In her bungalow office at Universal Studios, Miss Head, whose bangs and horn-rimmed spectacles are almost a Hollywood trademark, was asked if off-screen glamour is dead.

Now the glamour look of Hollywood has become important again. Why? Because of a renaissance of glamour and beauty in many of our new motion pictures for the first time in a decade. Year after year, we've had documentary, stark realism.

Last year's winners of the costume designers' awards for projecting a star image off-screen included: Rex Harrison—"His clothes look casual, elegant but like a part of him," said Miss Head.

George Hamilton—"Accepted as one of the best dressed men in America."

Rosalind Russell—"Famous for wearing very simple, dramatic, elegant clothes. The perfect example of a star who has made a signature to her image by the way she dresses."

"There's such a thing as the 'Roz Russell look' or the 'Merle Oberon look.' They're hard to put into words, but if I came into a room with six or eight dresses on clothes hangers, I'll bet you 100-to-1 I could guess whose they were."

Some actors associated with tough roles and rough dress in films are among the best dressed off screen, Miss Head said, mentioning Steve McQueen.

Among others well dressed off stage she listed Richard Crenna, James Coburn, Clint Eastwood, James Garner, Rock Hudson and Paul Burke.

Actresses: Yvette Mimieux, Barbara Feldon, Candice Bergen, Mia Farrow, Barbara Rush, Donna Reed.

None is necessarily a nominee for this year's designer awards. What do well dressed people have in common?

"For man or woman," said Miss Head, "the secret is to appear so that people say, 'Doesn't so-and-so look well dressed?' not: 'Hey, get a load of that dress' or 'Wow! look at that suit.'"

Voluntary Service Program Announced by Rockefeller

NEW YORK—A new idea in volunteer government participation received prestigious endorsement today when Governor Rockefeller and Kitty Carlisle Hart, his special consultant to the Women's Unit, announced the names of women who will serve as sponsors of a statewide voluntary service program.

The women met this week with Governor Rockefeller in his New York City office, 22 West 55th Street, and with Mrs. Eunice B. Whittlesey of Schenectady, founder and director of Volunteers Tie-Line, the new government information program that has to date attracted 1,340 women in 51 counties.

Sponsors are Mrs. Seymour H. Knox of Buffalo, Mrs. Malcolm A. MacIntyre of Scarsdale, Mrs. Frank Gannett of Rochester, Mrs. Gene Robb of Loudenville, Mrs. James H. Richter of Buffalo, Mrs. Felix J. Aulisi of Amsterdam, Mrs. Alton G. Marshall of Glenmont, Mrs. Robert R. Douglas of Delmar, also Mrs. Preston Davis, Mrs. Cliff Robertson, Mrs. W. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Maurice T. Moore, Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, Mrs. Oscar M. Ruebhausen and Mrs. Jack I. Poses of New York City.

Volunteers Tie-Line is an arm of the Women's Unit of the Office of the Secretary to the Governor, created last March 1 by Governor Rockefeller. Tie-Line was suggested by Mrs. Whittlesey as an instrument by which the individual woman—busy with home and family or career—could maintain communication with her State government and could become more knowledgeable about its functions.

According to Mrs. Whittlesey: "Many women, as we know, participate in organizations that have legislative chairmen or newsletters which provide information. However, the vast majority, either because of family demands at home or inaccessibility to organized groups do not have readily available to them legislative or governmental information in a form they may study on subjects that have pertinence for their individual interests and needs."

"With more knowledge, they might be better able to implement local volunteer programs and focus on meeting local problems before they become crucial."

"Most women do not want to be authorities on government, but they do want to be informed enough to support—or reject—those issues and programs which have relevance to their lives. It is to achieve this purpose that Tie-Line exists."

Sponsors of Volunteers Tie-Line will serve as an advisory council to Tie-Line women, Mrs. Whittlesey said.

Announcement of the formation of Tie-Line was made on April 16 by Mrs. Hart in her capacity as volunteer consultant to the governmental Women's Unit.

Volunteers Tie-Line sponsors are: Mrs. W. Vincent Astor—President of the Vincent Astor Foundation, Trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and of New York University; author of two books.

Mrs. Felix Aulisi—Member of the Century Club of Amsterdam, N. Y.; Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Hospital, Amsterdam City Hospital Puppet Organization and Manor Home Bureau.

Mrs. Preston Davis—Former Trustee of the Taft Memorial Foundation and of Long Island University, former member of the Board of Regents of the National Library of Medicine, and member of the New York State Commission of the World's Fair.

Mrs. Robert Douglas—Member of the Smith College Club, art and antique enthusiast of Delmar, N. Y.; member of Legislative Wives Club.

Mrs. Frank Gannett—Member of the Board of the Gannett Co., Inc.; vice president of the Gannett Newspaper Foundation, chairman of the Board of the Frank Gannett Newspaperboy Scholarships, Inc.; member of the Board of the Planned Parenthood League of Rochester and Monroe County, member of the Board of Regents of the State University of New York, 1947-1964.

Hellenic Women Plans New York Trip

Mrs. Artemis Bliziotis, president, has announced that the first meeting of the fiscal year of the Hellenic Women's Club of St. George's Greek Orthodox Church will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the church hall. All members and prospective members are urged to attend.

On the agenda will be a report of the plans for the bazaar which will be held this November.

President Bliziotis also reports that the trip to New York and the Broadway play "Ilya Darling," is scheduled for Saturday, September 16. Buses will leave the church grounds at 8 a. m. and will leave New York for the return trip home at 8 p. m. Anyone interested in this trip should contact Mrs. Bliziotis.

Personals

Gertrude A. Mowell, 93, resident of the Governor Clinton Hotel, is a patient in the Benedictine Hospital.

Alana Marie Styles Weds Kingston Man, Alfred J. Briody

Mr. and Mrs. Alan F. Styles of Woodstock, N. Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Alana Marie, to Alfred J. Briody, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Briody, Kingston.

The Rev. Father Schmidt, vicar at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock, officiated at the 8 p. m. candlelight nuptial mass on Friday night, Sept. 1, 1967.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briody of Stone Ridge, N. Y., brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were the attendants.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception was given at the Skytop Restaurant, Kingston. The bride and bridegroom visited Niagara Falls and Canada on their wedding trip.

Mrs. Briody is employed by Roland A. Augustine, Inc., insurance agency, while the bridegroom is employed at Schaller's Garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Briody will reside in Woodstock.

KHS Class Plans Reunion

The tenth year reunion planning committee of Kingston High School graduating class of 1958 will hold its second meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the civic room of the Governor Clinton Hotel. Members from the class who are interested in helping are requested to attend.

Softball All Stars Win Over Ellenville, 5 to 2

Crack All-Negro Team

Crusaders Seek Fresh Start Against Larkin's Bombers

"We're going to have to make a fresh start Sunday," said Owner-Coach-Player, chagrined by the Hudson Valley Crusaders' 9-7 loss to the New York Jets.

But getting back on the main track isn't going to be easy for the local semi-pro football which is 1-1 after two 1967 starts.

The massive squad known as the Albany Larkin Bombers will be at Dietz Stadium Sunday at 6:30 p. m. and individually and collectively they spell nothing but trouble for the Crusaders.

The Bombers is an all-Negro outfit recruited from high school stars of recent years at Philip Schuyler High and Albany High School. The team owner and coach is Mitchell Larkin, an Albany businessman who organized the squad two years ago. It has played its games at Bleeker Stadium in Albany.

Huge Football Team

An Albany sportswriter described the Bombers as "one of the biggest teams in semi-pro football."

"They have a huge line anchored by a 300-pound tackle," said the scribe. "Your defense is going to have its hands full against these guys."

Was Coach Everhardt satisfied with the progress of the team?

"No, I can't say I'm satisfied, not after that loss to the Jets. Any time you can recover five fumbles against a team like that you should win."

Did he plan any lineup changes?

"Yes, there'll be a few for the next game and we're hoping that our No. 1 quarterback, Roger Myrick, will be ready to play."

Myrick, star of the Crusaders' 17-6 win over Golden Bears of Stamford in the opener, has been sidelined with the flu. Myrick, a former Beacon High and service football star,

Donkey Baseball Game Scheduled

Rosendale and Bloomington Fire Companies will sponsor a donkey baseball game tonight at 8 p. m. at Sportsmen's Park in Rosendale. The visiting team will be the Buckeye Donkey Ball Inc. of Columbus.

Playing with the fire companies are K. Stoble, R. Ritter, G. Swella, F. Tiano, B. Coudle, C. Auchmoody, Skippy Lent, D. Crookston, R. Markie, L. Auchmoody, E. Reich, R. Ghear, R. Overton, R. LeFera and R. Sherritt.

The contest is for the benefit of the two fire companies.

Five-Run Rally In 5th Inning Wins at Block

Manager Rich Amato of the Kingston softball All Stars glanced at the scoreboard in the fifth inning last night at Block Park and this is what he saw: Ellenville 2, Kingston 0. "We gotta go, go, go," he exhorted his hirelings.

As if by magic, his charges responded with a five-run rally and it was enough to turn back the Ellenville invaders, 5 to 2.

It took a weird mixture of ingredients to pull off the rally. Pat Berardi got a double on a ball that glanced off centerfielder Dick Cotten's glove. Then Charlie Cotten, burly former All-DUSO football star at Newburgh Academy, overran a bunt by Joe Clausi and didn't get back to first in time on Mel Williams' rap to third.

Bob Short singled and then Ronnie Scheffel unloaded a 3-run "single" through the middle. A wild relay to plate by Dick Cotten helped. Joe Hoffman's fly to deep center was long enough to deliver another run.

Hurl Three-Hitter

The Kingston squad, expertly managed by Amato, backed the combined 3-hit pitching of George Norton and Billy Costello with several slick fielding plays. Norton allowed one hit and one run, Costello struck out six, while giving up two hits, one the homer by Cotten. Rich Hoffman, a former Kingston pitcher, who found a paradise in Ellenville, was tagged with the loss. Hoffman's performance, however, was far better than the boxscore would indicate. Half of the eight hits were cheapies.

Scheffel collected two hits, the 3-run single and a triple that ricocheted off the rightfield foul line like a billiard mallet.

'Still Alive,' Says Ed Stanky

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Eddie Stanky's cry of "don't bury us, yet," suddenly sounds more like a plea than a threat.

That's been Stanky's statement every time things have gone bad since mid-August when his Chicago White Sox were knocked out of first place following a two-month tenure.

It sounded a little hollow Tuesday night after Cleveland had pasted the Sox 4-3 and 7-1. The double defeat left the Sox in fourth place, three games behind Minnesota and Boston, the co-leaders, and two games behind Detroit.

With only 16 games to play, that's a lot of territory to cover and even Stanky is beginning to wonder.

"We're swimming to the point of no return," said Stanky, who quickly changed his tune and added, "but we're not committing suicide. They haven't closed the doors."

"I'll admit it's more difficult with three teams ahead of you but remember the 1951 Giants won 16 in a row. And I played on the '51 Giants. No, we're not ready to be buried."

"It's so disappointing after what happened Sunday," lamented Stanky over Chicago's three straight losses following a double shutout triumph against Detroit including Joe Horlen's no-hitter.

Cincinnati's Bats—The New Red Terror

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds may be going down for the count, but they're still swinging from the heels.

While the pennant-bound St. Louis Cardinals continued their National League stretch drive Tuesday night with a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia, the third-place Reds punched out 23 hits and flattened Pittsburgh 15-7 for their fourth straight victory.

"Just getting by, that's all," chuckled Vada Pinson, who cracked three hits, including a two-run homer, in the pitchers' nightmare at Cincinnati.

Despite their hit parade, the Reds still trail the Cardinals by 11 games and are one-half length behind runner-up San Francisco with 16 games to play.

The Giants whipped Los Angeles 4-2; Atlanta edged the New York Mets 4-3 and Houston topped the Chicago Cubs 5-4 in 12 innings in other NL games.

The Reds jumped Pittsburgh ace Bob Veale for four runs and six hits in the first inning, then rocked reliever John Gelner for five runs and six more hits in the next two innings before completing the assault against Billy O'Dell and Dennis Ribant.

Pete Rose hit a three-run homer and scored four times; Tony Perez lashed a single, double and triple, good for four RBIs; Leo Cardenas went 4-for-4; Tommy Helms and Lee May stroked three hits apiece and winning pitcher Don Lee got into the act with a pair of singles.

The Reds' 23 hits fell nine short of the NL record set in 1901 by the New York Giants. The two-team total of 39 hits was 12 less than the nine-inning mark established by the Phillies and Cubs in 1922.

Bob Gibson, making his second start for St. Louis after being sidelined 1½ months with a broken right leg, collaborated with Larry Jaster for a five-hit shutout against the Phillies.

Gibson blanked the Phils for 6 1-3 innings in registering his 12th victory of the season and Jaster pitched hitless ball the rest of the way. Dal Maxvill drove in two runs for the Cards with a double and single.

Ray Sadecki handcuffed the Dodgers on four hits, struck out 12 and didn't allow a runner past first base until the ninth when Wes Parker's double and

Softball All Stars Win Over Ellenville, 5 to 2

CRUSADER LINE STARS include, from the left: Dennis Rice, tackle; Gus Angelo and Perry Smith, guards; and Steve Marioles, tackle. They will be on display Sunday night at Dietz Stadium when the Crusaders meet the Albany Larkin Bombers in the third game of the semi-pro football season.

Crack All-Negro Team

Crusaders Seek Fresh Start Against Larkin's Bombers

"We're going to have to make a fresh start Sunday," said Owner-Captain, chagrined by the Hudson Valley Crusaders' 9-7 loss to the New York Jets.

But getting back on the main track isn't going to be easy for the local semi-pro football which is 1-1 after two 1967 starts.

The massive squad known as the Albany Larkin Bombers will be at Dietz Stadium Sunday at 6:30 p. m. and individually and collectively they spell nothing but trouble for the Crusaders.

The Bombers is an all-Negro outfit recruited from high school stars of recent years at Philip Schuyler High and Albany High School. The team owner and coach is Mitchell Larkin, an Albany businessman who organized the squad two years ago.

It has played its games at Bleeker Stadium in Albany.

Huge Football Team
An Albany sportswriter described the Bombers as "one of the biggest teams in semi-pro football."

"They have a huge line anchored by a 300-pound tackle," said the scribe. "Your defense is going to have its hands full against these guys."

Was Coach Everhardt satisfied with the progress of the team?

"No, I can't say I'm satisfied, not after that loss to the Jets. Any time you can recover five fumbles against a team like that you should win."

Did he plan any lineup changes?

"Yes, there'll be a few for the next game and we're hoping that our No. 1 quarterback, Roger Myrick, will be ready to play."

Myrick, star of the Crusaders' 17-6 win over Golden Bears of Stamford in the opener, has been sidelined with the flu. Myrick, a former Beacon High and service football star.

Donkey Baseball Game Scheduled
Rosendale and Bloomington Fire Companies will sponsor a donkey baseball game tonight at 8 p. m. at Sportsmen's Park in Rosendale. The visiting team will be the Buckeye Donkey Ball Inc. of Columbus.

Playing with the fire companies are K. Strohle, R. Ritter, G. Swehla, F. Tiano, B. Coudle, C. Auchmoedy, Skippy Lent, D. Crookston, R. Markle, L. Auchmoedy, E. Reich, R. Gheer, R. Overton, R. LeFera and R. Sherritt.

The contest is for the benefit of the two fire companies.

Five-Run Rally In 5th Inning Wins at Block

Manager Rich Amato of the Kingston softball All Stars glanced at the scoreboard in the fifth inning last night at Block Park and this is what he saw: Ellenville 2, Kingston 0.

"We gotta go, go, go," he exhorted his hirelings.

As if by magic, his charges responded with a five-run rally and it was enough to turn back the Ellenville invaders, 5 to 2.

It took a weird mixture of ingredients to pull off the rally. Pat Berardi got a double on a ball that glanced off centerfielder Dick Cotten's glove. Then Charlie Cotten, burly former All-DUSO football star at Newburgh Academy, overran a bunt by Joe Clausi and didn't get back to first in time on Mel Williams' rap to third.

Bob Short singled and then Ronnie Scheffel unloaded a 3-run "single" through the middle. A wild relay to plate by Dick Cotten helped. Joe Hoffman's fly to deep center was long enough to deliver another run.

The 1300-odd spectators attracted by the football Crusaders to their first two games at Dietz stadium got us to thinking about the old love affair the park and area sports fans.

That was back in the days when women wore skirts and they put real apples in turnovers. The stadium mazdas shone in all their brilliance and it didn't cost $75 to paint the yardline stripes on the football field.

At least, they tell us that's the asking price in some local quarters these days.

Does anybody know where we could find about a half dozen nice football fields to paint every week?

Speaking of football fields, a thought suddenly occurred to us. In the good old days the national anthem sounded better at Dietz and you were proud to stand up when it was played. These modern "tapes" leave you blushing in embarrassment.

We're getting off the track. This started out as a tribute to the grand old lady known as Dietz Stadium, forgotten and deserted by the professional sports crowd in recent years. She has had her moments . . . plenty of them. Want to hear about a few of them?

LET'S START WITH THE FIRST game ever played at Dietz Stadium and Charlie Neff, a fireballing right hander beat the New York Police. (Yeh, they let the cops play ball in Gotham in those days.)

Whitey Ford, on pass from Fort Monmouth, pitching an exhibition for All Star Kingston team. Whitey threw first ball through local catcher Bill Olen, then proceeded to strike out 18 batters.

Largest baseball crowd ever at Dietz. Easy. The 6,000-plus who saw the Kingston Recs play exhibition with Brooklyn Dodgers in Jock Robins Memorial game. (This needs explaining. Leo Durocher, the Dandy Little Manager, refused to come to what he called a "hick town." Ergo, Durocher is fired by Larry MacPhail, then rehired the next morning. Dixie Walker, the Peeples Chere, led Dodgers to victory.) Bruno Sammartino, currently Mr. Big in wrestling then an obscure preliminary man, waiting for his turn to enter the ring.

LEGENDARY JOSH GIBSON, greatest of all Negro sluggers, slamming batting practice pitch off upper gate booth (on the fly). Longest ball ever hit in Dietz.

Max West, former Boston Braves outfielder, clearing bank in deep right. (Not as long as Gibson's swat.)

Billy Ostrom, the fabled southpaw, shutting out vaunted Brooklyn Bushwicks for 17 consecutive innings.

Long John Woodruff, the Rideout twins and other Olympic stars, doing their stuff in the only major track event ever held at Dietz.

Joe Louis, introduced from a boxing ring and responding with a one word greeting to the crowd: "Lo."

SATCHEL PAIGE, 40 going on 55, leading the bases and whizzing third strike past Tommy Maines.

Unknown Roy Campanella behind the plate for the Negro National League Nashville Stars.

The parade of great Negro National and American League teams in the pre-Jackie Robinson breakthrough: Black Yankees, Brooklyn Royal Giants, Newark Eagles, Philadelphia Stars, Kansas City Monarchs, Baltimore Elite Giants, Cincinnati Buckeyes. All had their moments at Dietz.

The 1947 Kingston Dodgers, finest Class D. ball club in America, winning the North Atlantic League pennant by 17½ games then blowing playoffs to Peekskill.

The uptown lady had a lot of other high moments but these will suffice for the moment.

Chuck Connors, star of TV's "Cowboy in Africa" at first base; Wes Westrum, Mets manager, catching, and Bill Lohrman, ex-Giant-Reds, pitching for the wartime Kingston Recs.

Pick UCLA to Defeat Tennessee in Opener

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember the good, old days of grandpa's era?

Then, we had haircuts for two bits, a steak dinner for 65 cents, the New York Yankees winning the World Series annually—and breathers opening the college football season.

Take a look at these forecasts for the first weekend of football and see how many breathers you can find!!!

UCLA over Tennessee: Two of the nation's best quarterbacks, Gary Beban of the Californians and Dewey Warren of the Volunteers, go on display in the opening game. But the UCLAs have George Farmer to do the pass catching and Rick Purdy to do the plunging.

Texas A&M over Southern Methodist: The Cadets are the mystery team of the Southwest Conference and there even are some who pick them for the title. SMU is the defending champion but lost heavily by graduation. Your television tidbit of the day.

Washington over Nebraska: The Huskies always are tough defensively and this year Coach Jim Owens believes he has the offense to go with it. Nebraska was the winner of the Big Eight title the past four years, but the line-up was shattered by graduation. Frank Patrick, a sophomore, will be at the Cornhusker helm.

Colorado over Baylor: Wilmer Cooks, the Colorado fullback, rated one of the best in the country. This isn't Baylor's year even if the Rev. John Westbrook is their flanker back.

Houston over Florida State: A Friday night affair. The Texas Cougars still have Warren McVea, who averaged 8.8 yards a carry last season.

Southern California over Washington State: The Trojans are rated the best on the Coast, the men of Coach Bert Clark deep among the also rans.

Oklahoma State over Air Force: The Cowpokes are strong on defense while the air-deer targets will be in operation minded Falcons have a veteran all day. Refreshments will be backfield headed by Steve Turner, quarterback. The defense wins.

North Carolina State over North Carolina: The Wolfpack and release 100 pheasants. They has a new backfield while the will be released on Sept. 27. Tar Heels introduce a new and Oct. 4.

Finley, A's Bury Hatchet

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles O. Finley and his Kansas City Athletics' players have buried the hatchet and restored, at least temporarily, the serenity of baseball's player-owner relationship.

The feud ended Tuesday after 20 hours of unprecedented meetings with Commissioner William D. Eckert when the Major League Players' Association dropped its unfair labor practices charges filed against the controversial Finley.

In return, Finley, owner of the A's, agreed not to interfere with the right of his players to air grievances in an orderly manner.

Thus, what started as a test case of the labor-management relationship in baseball, with Finley indirectly representing the major league owners he has long antagonized, ended quietly in compromise.

In a prepared statement, Commissioner Eckert said the parties agreed to settle their differences "by mutual discussion rather than by resorting to news media."

Fear of retaliation had led the A's to request the meeting with Eckert, who adjourned the gathering Monday with the avowed purpose of bringing peace before the situation reached the National Labor Relations Board.

The Players Association, represented by its director, attorney Marvin Miller, had accused Finley of threatening and coercing players in trying to get them to withdraw their complaints.

The commissioner also scheduled for review the suspension by Finley of pitcher Lew Krause. A hearing on that matter was set for Sept. 28.

It was Krause's suspension Aug. 18 for an alleged drinking incident on an airplane that touched off a chain reaction of moves which brought into the open the grievances and left the baseball world agog.

Mrs. Hallenbeck Top Golfer in Class A

Mrs. Gerald Hallenbeck of Catskill Country Club fired a 76 for Class A honors in the weekly Northeastern Women's Golf Association tournament Tuesday at Woodstock Country Club.

The perennial Northeastern Seniors and circuit champion carded nines of 36-40 to lead runnerup Mrs. Harvey Kausel of Albany Country Club by four strokes. Mrs. Hallenbeck had eight pars and a bogey 5 on the second hole in the first nine. Mrs. Kausel took low net honors on 80-11-69.

Two Kingston golfers—Mrs. Prescott Newell of Wiltwyck and Mrs. George Rusk of Twaalfskill—shared second low net honors with 72. They had identical cards of 89-17-72.

Other results: Mrs. Betty Blatner, 43-41-84; Mrs. Millie Chylinski, 44-42-86; Mrs. Emily Mordick, 45-43-88; Mrs. Arlene Spiesman, Wiltwyck, 42-46-88.

Mrs. Eleanor VanDerbeck, 43-46-89; Mrs. Thomas Beck, Wolferts Roost, 48-42-90.

Mrs. George Hoover of Mechanicville led the Class B field at Brookhaven with an 89. Mrs. F. L. Gilmour, Wolferts Roost, carded low net 89-20-69.

RVC Opens Saturday With Veteran Squad

A fast finish last season gave the Rondout Valley football squad a 5-3 record and a second place finish in the always close UCAL chase. Among the wins was an upset decision over the champions from Highland.

Coach John (Chick) Meehan is hopeful that last half momentum will carry over to this season as he preps his Ganders for their opener this Saturday at Tri-Valley.

There are 28 players on the Rondout varsity and several of them earned letters last season. Included is halfback Gordie Taylor, labeled by his coach as perhaps the best in the league. Taylor is a sprinter on the track team so you know he has good speed.

Veteran Backfield

At quarterback, John Meehan Jr. returns. He also has Tom Frazier at fullback and Jim Rowe at halfback, giving the Ganders an all-veteran unit in the backfield.

End Charles George, tackles Al Miller and Fred Schreyer, guard Stan Wager and center Clyde Marshall also saw previous varsity action.

Among the newcomers, Meehan is high on center Keith Gorman, guards John Hall and Larry Baney and quarterback Ken Brush, who figures to see a lot of action as a cornerback on defense.

"This club should do a lot of scoring. It has good running and passing," is the way Meehan describes the Ganders.

The veteran coach sees a wide open race with Highland, Liberty and Oteora in the thick of the battle, along with his squad. If Rondout has an advantage it's because the team meets Oteora and Liberty at home.

Intrepid Is Early Leader in Cup Race

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—Intrepid hasn't nailed down the America's Cup yet.

But no one is likely to start loosening the bolts that secure the old trophy to a shelf in the New York Yacht Club after she outsailed Australia's Dame Pattie Tuesday in just the kind of weather the Aussies love back home Down Under.

Dame Pattie didn't have—and didn't give—any excuse after losing the first race of the best-of-seven series on Rhode Island Sound.

But the Aussies decided to go right back at it today, basing their hopes on a forecast of un-Australian-like light winds. They could have exercised their option not to race today but a forecast of light northerly winds in the morning shifting to 10-15 knot southerlies in the afternoon seemed to be just their mug of beer.

Jock Sturrock, Dame Pattie's skipper, had said before leaving Australia he was hoping for some typical dusty offshore Sydney weather. He got it Tuesday, 22-knot northeasterly winds and choppy 3-foot seas. But it was Intrepid, not Dame Pattie, that jumped in and found the water fine.

Both Sturrock and Bus Moshbacher, Intrepid's crack helmsman, were more intent starting with their boats clear of each other's backwind than they were in foiling one another. Sturrock may have been too intent.

Heading for the line on the starboard tack and leeward of Intrepid, Dame Pattie seemed to be in good position to give Intrepid some turbulent backwind off her sails, but to avoid crossing early, Sturrock had to bear down the line briefly just before the gun, losing any chance he might have had to slow up Moshbacher.

The Dame was across 10 seconds ahead of Intrepid, but the American defender from the New York Yacht Club had her air clear. For a minute or so, it seemed a boat race.

The Australian 12-meter sloop was slowed by a couple of heavy seas, Intrepid moved powerfully through them, and that was about it.

Intrepid led by one minute 51 seconds at the end of the first leg; two minutes 11 seconds after the second, a reach 2:50 after the third, another reach, 4:26 after the fourth; 5:06 after the fifth leg, a beat, and 5:58 at the finish.

In distance her victory margin was about a mile after completing the 24.3-mile triangular course.

The 1300-odd spectators attracted by the football Crusaders to their first two games at Dietz stadium got us to thinking about the old love affair the park and area sports fans.

That was back in the days when women wore skirts and they put real apples in turnovers. The stadium mazdas shone in all their brilliance and it didn't cost $75 to paint the yardline stripes on the football field.

At least, they tell us that's the asking price in some local quarters these days.

Does anybody know where we could find about a half dozen nice football fields to paint every week?

Speaking of football fields, a thought suddenly occurred to us. In the good old days the national anthem sounded better at Dietz and you were proud to stand up when it was played. These modern "tapes" leave you blushing in embarrassment.

We're getting off the track. This started out as a tribute to the grand old lady known as Dietz Stadium, forgotten and deserted by the professional sports crowd in recent years. She has had her moments . . . plenty of them. Want to hear about a few of them?

LET'S START WITH THE FIRST game ever played at Dietz Stadium and Charlie Neff, a fireballing right hander beat the New York Police. (Yeh, they let the cops play ball in Gotham in those days).

Whitey Ford, on pass from Fort Monmouth, pitching an exhibition for All Star Kingston team. Whitey threw first ball through local catcher Bill Olen, then proceeded to strike out 18 batters.

Largest baseball crowd ever at Dietz. Easy. The 6,000-plus who saw the Kingston Reds play exhibition with Brooklyn Dodgers in Jock Robins Memorial game. (This needs explaining. Leo Durocher, the Dandy Little Manager, refused to come to what he called a "hick town." Ergo, Durocher is fired by Larry MacPhail, then rehired the next morning. Dixie Walker, the Peepus Cherche, led Dodgers to victory.) Bruno Sammartino, currently Mr. Big in wrestling than an obscure preliminary man, waiting for his turn to enter the ring.

LEGENDARY JOSH GIBSON, greatest of all Negro sluggers, slamming batting practice pitch off upper gate booth (on the fly). Longest ball ever hit in Dietz.

Max West, former Boston Braves outfielder, clearing bank in deep right. (Not as long as Gibson's swing.)

Billy Ostrom, the fabled southpaw, shutting out vaunted Brooklyn Bushwicks for 17 consecutive innings.

Long John Woodruff, the Rideout twins and other Olympic stars, during their stuff in the only major track event ever held at Dietz.

Joe Louis, introduced from a boxing ring and responding with a one word greeting to the crowd: "Lo."

SATCHEL PAIGE, 40 going on 55, leading the bases and whizzing third strike past Tommy Maines.

King and His Court (5-man team) attracting largest soft-ball crowd in local history.

Unknown Roy Campanella behind the plate for the Negro National League Nashville Stars.

The parade of great Negro National and American League teams in the pre-Jackie Robinson breakthrough: Black Yankees, Brooklyn Royal Giants, Newark Eagles, Philadelphia Stars, Kansas City Monarchs, Baltimore Elite Giants, Cincinnati Buckeyes. All had their moments at Dietz.

Jimmy Piersall's hilarious one-night stands for Fred Davi. Zany, brother, zany!

Zeke Bonura, the first has gazelle, slamming tremendous home runs over the snow fences in the organized baseball era.

The 1947 Kingston Dodgers, finest Class D. ball club in America, winning the North Atlantic League pennant by 17 1/2 games then blowing playoffs to Peekskill.

The uptown lady had a lot of other high moments but these will suffice for the moment.

Chuck Connors, star of TV's "Cowboy in Africa" at first base; Wes Westrum, Mets manager, catching; and Bill Lohman, ex-Giant-Reds, pitching for the wartime Kingston Reds.

Pick UCLA to Defeat Tennessee in Opener

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember the good, old days of grandpa's era?

Then, we had haircuts for two bits, a steak dinner for 65 cents, the New York Yankees winning the World Series annually—and breathers opening the college football season.

Take a look at these forecasts for the first weekend of football and see how many breathers you can find!!!

UCLA over Tennessee: Two of the nation's best quarterbacks, Gary Beban of the Californians and Dewey Warren of the Volunteers, go on display in the opening game. But the UCLA's have George Farmer to do the pass catching and Rick Purdy to do the plunging.

Texas A&M over Southern Methodist: The Cadets are the mystery team of the Southwest Conference and there even are some who pick them for the title. SMU is the defending champion but lost heavily by graduation. Your television tidbit of the day.

Washington over Nebraska: The Huskies always are tough defensively and this year Coach Jim Owens believes he has the offense to go with it. Nebraska was the winner of the Big Eight title the past four years, but the line-up was shattered by graduation. Frank Patrick, a sophomore, will be at the Cornhusker helm.

Colorado over Baylor: Wilmer Cooks, the Colorado footballer, rated one of the best in the country. This isn't Baylor's year even if the Rev. John Westbrook is their flanker back.

Houston over Florida State: A Friday night affair. The Texas Cougars still have Warren McVea, who averaged 8.8 yards a carry last season.

Southern California over Washington State: The Trojans are rated the best on the Coast. The men of Coach Bert Clark deep among the also rans.

Oklahoma State over Air Force: The Cowpokes are strongest on defense while the air-minded Falcons have a veteran all day. Refreshments will be backfield headed by Steve Turner, quarterback. The defense wins.

North Carolina State over North Carolina: The Wolfpack and release 100 pheasants. They has a new backfield while the Tar Heels introduce a new and Oct. 4.

Finley, A's Bury Hatchet

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles O. Finley and his Kansas City Athletics' players have buried the hatchet and restored, at least temporarily, the serenity of baseball's player-owner relationship.

The feud ended Tuesday after 20 hours of unprecedented meetings with Commissioner William D. Eckert when the Major League Player's Association dropped its unfair labor practices charges filed against the controversial Finley.

In return, Finley, owner of the A's, agreed not to interfere with the right of his players to air grievances in an orderly manner.

Thus, what started as a test case of the labor-management relationship in baseball, with Finley indirectly representing the major league owners he has long antagonized, ended quietly in compromise.

In a prepared statement, Commissioner Eckert said the parties agreed to settle future differences "by mutual discussion rather than by resorting to news media."

Fear of retaliation had led the A's to request the meeting with Eckert, who adjourned the gathering Monday with the avowed purpose of bringing peace before the situation reached the National Labor Relations Board.

The Players Association, represented by its director, attorney Marvin Miller, had accused Finley of threatening and coercing players in trying to get them to withdraw their complaints.

The commissioner also scheduled for review the suspension by Finley of pitcher Lew Krausse. A hearing on that matter was set for Sept. 28.

It was Krausse's suspension Aug. 18 for an alleged drinking incident on an airplane that touched off a chain reaction of moves which brought into the open the grievances and left the baseball world agog.

SPINNAKER TROUBLE — The crew of the America's Cup challenger Dame Pattie has trouble getting down their spinnaker causing a temporary loss of pulling power as it falls behind the United States' Intrepid during the first day of the America's Cup race Tuesday. The Americans wound up nearly two thirds of a mile ahead at the finish line. (UPI TELEPHOTO.)

RVC Opens Saturday With Veteran Squad

A fast finish last season gave the Rondout Valley football squad a 5-3 record and a second place finish in the always close UCAL chase. Among the wins was an upset decision over the champions from Highland.

Coach John (Chick) Meehan is hopeful that last half momentum will carry over to this season as he preps his Ganders for their opener this Saturday at Tri-Valley.

There are 28 players on the Rondout varsity and several of them earned letters last season. Included is halfback Gordie Taylor, labeled by his coach as perhaps the best in the league. Taylor is a sprinter on the track team so you know he has good speed.

At quarterback, John Meehan Jr. returns. He also has Tom Frazier at fullback and Jim Rowe at halfback, giving the Ganders an all-veteran unit in the backfield.

MONTICELLO, New York—Coming from dead last, Joseppe captured the featured trot at Monticello Raceway last night in 2:09 for driver Joe Firetti—the five year old's fourth triumph in six outings.

A rank outsider in the minds of the wagering fans, Joseppe returned $20.40 for $2 in the short six-horse field.

Pete Lutman had led the field from the start to the top of the stretch with Peppermint Red, who tired badly and finished out. Smoky Fire was second and Runnymede Gallon third.

Dan Cappello brought home longshot Florence A. in the second race, combined with Chloe Barmin winning the opener. The 4-8 daily double was $141.00.

A pair of favorites combined for a 4-6 perfecta of $21.60 in the third race, Vinn Hanover winning handily for John DeMore, and Red Breeze second.

Cookie Gilchrist

Lou Saban

GENERAL COMMENT—If the Broncos ever are going to straighten out their organization, Lou Saban is the man to do it. He's positive, if nothing else, and he doesn't hesitate to get rid of people he doesn't want. It'll be interesting.

OFFENSE—Last year's surprise, Max Chobanian, has been derelicted. Taxi squad grad Scotty Glacken will get a look, but hunch choice is Mallon Kent, another cab squadder from Buffalo. Rating—D.

RECEIVING—Lou professes to be happy with setup of Al Denison, Bob Scarpitto in wide spots, with Bob Hadrick in reserve, and rookie Tom Beer at tight end. But what if Beer doesn't cut it? Only other choice is ex-Chief Tommy Brooker, who is mostly a placekicker. Rating—B.

RUNNING—If they can muster any kind of blocking up front, this'll be strong suit of Broncos. Cookie Gilchrist reported in shape. Charley Mitchell, a speedster, probably won't hold off super-rookie Floyd Little. And for swinging duty at all spots, there's Wendell Hayes. Rating—A.

LINE—Trying to figure out the eventual setup is like filling in crossword puzzle. Pretty safe bet Ernie Park, ex-Miami, will be at one guard, holdover Bob Breitenstein at tackle. But it's guesswork from there, with couple of rookies, George Goeddeke, Mike Current figuring some place. Rating—C.

KICKING—Scarpitto is premier punter, especially in mile high atmosphere. Brooker is established placekicker. No worries. Rating—A.

DEFENSE—The bodies are moving in and out so fast, it's doubtful even Saban recognizes half of them. Tackle Dave Costa, end Bill Keating offer some semblance of stability. Only the equipment manager could guess at who the others will be. Rating—C.

LINEBACKERS—Decimated by trades and injuries. None of last year's starters any longer available. The middle job already mapped out for Pete Duranko, who was a tackle at Notre Dame. No telling who the corner men might be. Look for trades or last-minute pickups. Rating—D+.

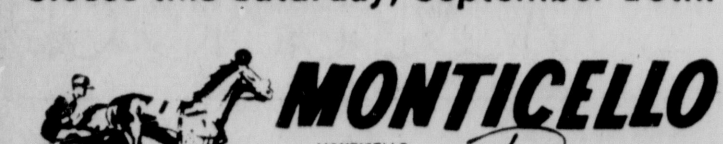

SECONDARY—Same fluid situation on defense pertains here, too. Goldie Sellers, a rookie who flashed infrequently last year, could make it at a corner job. Ex-cager Lonnie Wright has the quickness to be a safety. Saban picked up a couple of guys from his Buffalo days, Glenn Glass and Gene Sykes. Rating—C.

SUMMARY—If you think the offense is nebulous, you ought to see the defense. Broncos' largest expenditure right now is in travel fare for guys leaving and arriving. The cry, as has been habitual in the Rockies, is "Patience!" PREDICTION—Last in West.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

By Hal Sharp

FIRE PREVENTION

ALWAYS BREAK A BURNED MATCH IN TWO BEFORE TOSING IT AWAY. THUS, YOU ARE MAKING SURE IT IS OUT.

DON'T SMOKE IN FORBIDDEN AREAS OR FORESTS OR ANYWHERE FROM CAMP WHEN THE WOODS ARE TINDER DRY.

CLEAR THE GROUND FOR SEVERAL FEET AROUND YOUR CAMPFIRE BEFORE YOU BUILD ONE. KEEP THE FIRE SMALL AND UNDER CONTROL AT ALL TIMES AND NEVER LEAVE IT UNATTENDED AT ANY TIME.

PUT WATER AND/OR DIRT ON A FIRE WHENEVER LEAVING CAMP.

American Football League teams listed 29 exhibition games this season, 16 of them with NFL clubs.

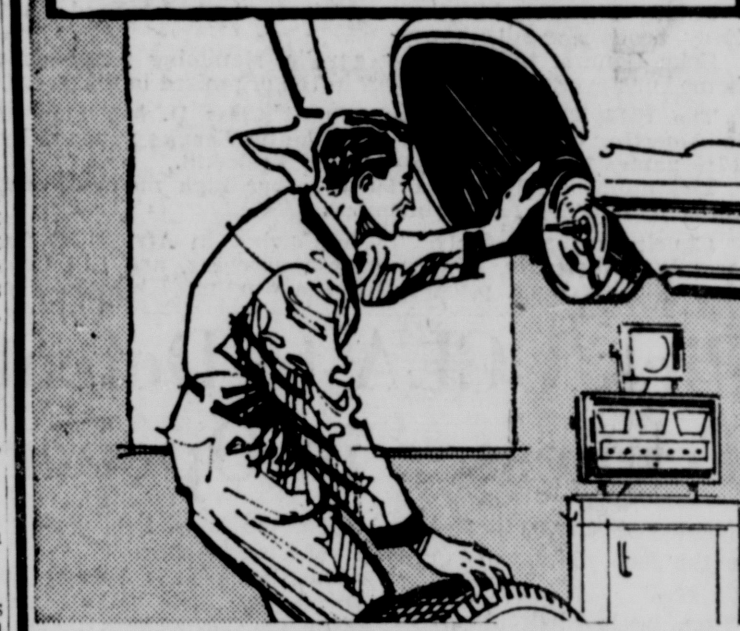

Sport Shorts

Southern Methodist started the football season with an 83-man squad.

South Africa has three Henning brothers who golf. Harold and Allan Henning are playing in the United States this year.

Nazarenes Set Revival Series

Revival services will begin with the Singing Brands at the New Paltz Church of the Nazarene on Route 32 North, Thursday night, Sept. 14 and continue through Sept. 24.

The special workers, the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Brand, nationally known evangelists, have recently completed one million miles of travel through the United States and Canada in evangelistic work in churches, conventions, TV and radio broadcasts.

The Rev. Br. Brand studied voice for opera before his conversion, receiving diplomas from The European School of Music and The Perfect Voice Institute under Professors D. Baxter and J. Feuchtinger. Besides being a speaker, the Rev. Mr. Brand is a talented harpist soloist. He has done radio work on many radio stations and also had radio programs daily in his home town of Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Brand, who travels with her husband, is an accomplished musician, playing the organ, vibraphone, guitar, two sets of bells, and the accordion. Mrs. Brand spent seven years in the theater previous to her conversion. She not only does solo work on the instruments, but also accompanies the Rev. Mr. Brand.

SINGING BRANDS

Brand's solos as well as doing many duet numbers with him.

The Rev. Mr. Brand has been ordained for 27 years, during which time he also served as pastor besides his years in evangelism.

The services will be held nightly at 7:30 and on Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. The public is invited to attend all of these services, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. C. W. Lindeman.

AT THE FAIR — Lynda Bird Johnson tests her strength as she tries "to ring the bell" with a sledge hammer at an old-fashioned country fair given on the South Lawn of the White House yesterday by President and Mrs. Johnson for the children and grandchildren of Washington officialdom. Caucuses Name Candidates In Eight County Townships

A wrapup of town caucus results show that the both major political parties had a penchant for nominating full states with only the Democrats of Marlborough failing to come up with any slate at all.

Denning
Denning's Democrats nominated a number of Republican incumbents, amongst them being Supervisor Harold Van Aken, Tax Collector Susie DePew, and four year Assessor Harold Dymond.

Wawarsing
Wawarsing GOPers nominated Frank W. Harkin for supervisor, Dorothy F. Chase for clerk, Clifton Marl for highway superintendent, and present constable Jerome Elkin for councilman.

Regular Democrat Raymond M. Cole Jr. will run for superintendent of highways, along with Bradley Houghtaling for the two year assessor post; John V. Higgins for justice of the peace, Paul Cypert for councilman for years and Charles R. Van Aken Jr., for councilman, two years.

The Republicans put up Harold Van Aken for supervisor again, Lottie Burton for clerk, Susie DePew for collector, Benjamin Conklin for superintendent of highways, Harold Dymond for assessor, four years, and William Rolfs for four year assessor.

Incumbent Justice of the Peace Harry Bailey was renominated along with Councilman Warren Cole. Richard Dickerman was nominated for the other councilman post.

Marlboro
Marlboro's Democrats chose incumbent Supervisor Michael J. Canosa to run again along with Clerk James H. Woodward, whom the Republicans also nominated.

Rochester
Rocco Benevento will try for superintendent of highways (justice of the peace) and Patrick Mataraza (justice of the peace). Raymond P. Wenz will make the four year assessor run and Joseph Porpiglia will go for the two year slot.

Shandaken
The Democrats of Shandaken refused to endorse any Republican and, instead, fielded an entire slate of candidates for the town's highest offices.

Nash
Nash E. Dunham will run for supervisor, Allan Hagadorn for clerk, Lindsay R. Hoyt for tax collector, Clarence Kurtz for superintendent of highways, Tony Krenn for the four year assessor post and Beverly Duffy Dutcher for the two year position.

Paul E. Herdman will seek the full justice of the peace slot and Mary Whitefield will make the run for councilman.

Lloyd
Lloyd Democrats, enjoying a position few Democrats in Ulster County enjoy, put up the town's five top officers to run again under the Democratic flag.

Incumbents nominated were Supervisor Thomas J. Shay Jr., Clerk Vincent J. Gaffney, Superintendent of Highways Peter Anella, four year Assessor Cos A. Trapani and two year Assessor William E. Knapp.

Joseph E. Pavero will run for justice of the peace, and Albert Lester will make the dash for the councilman post.

Wawarsing

Wawarsing GOPers nominated Frank W. Harkin for supervisor, Dorothy F. Chase for clerk, Clifton Marl for highway superintendent, and present constable Jerome Elkin for councilman.

The Republicans renominated incumbents Herbert Poppel (justice of the peace) and W. Delois Craft (councilman).

Town of Kingston

In the Town of Kingston, the Democrats nominated William Gertz for supervisor, Alvena Barton for clerk, Marvin Burton for superintendent of highways, James Barton for assessor, and Ray Hulsair and Joseph Deciano for councilmen.

Kingston Republicans nominated Donald F. Patton who will attempt to fill the post that Douglas V. Dye left to run for county legislator, Edward W. Seche Jr. nominated for clerk, incumbent Hazel Burton was renominated to make the run for tax collector, Thomas Malone was nominated to run for superintendent of highways, incumbent assessor Joseph A. Carcamo was picked to run for the two year post, and Carl Schueringer along with Leo Stauble were given the nod to run for four year councilmen.

Hardenbergh

The GOP of Hardenbergh kept pretty much to the line of winners they had last time. Supervisor Bowman H. Owen got the return nod, along with Clerk Millicent Buerge, Tax Collector Vivian Armstrong, Superintendent of Highways Robert Barnhart, four year Assessor Hugh Barnhart and two year Assessor Evan O. Todd.

Markus Buerge was nominated for the post of justice of the peace and Larry Baker was chosen to make the race for four year Councilman.

The Hardenbergh Democrats gave the top post nomination to Robert E. Helt with Alice E. Nichols running for town clerk. Lyman H. Todd will try for superintendent of Highways.

Charles Delameter got the go ahead to run for the two year assessor post and Louis L. Sciala will run for the four year slot. Kenneth Simpson was nominated for justice of the peace and Joseph Mami was given the councilman nod.

Marlboro

Marlboro GOP nominated Ralph Lofaro for supervisor and incumbent Democratic Clerk James H. Woodward.

Nominated also was incumbents Albert Troutman (sup-tendent of highways), Michael Pagano (justice of the peace) and Patrick Mataraza (justice of the peace). Raymond P. Wenz will make the four year assessor run and Joseph Porpiglia will go for the two year slot.

Marlboro's Democrats chose incumbent Supervisor Michael J. Canosa to run again along with Clerk James H. Woodward, whom the Republicans also nominated.

Rocco Benevento will try for superintendent of highways while Miles J. Doyle will go for assessor, four years, and Bruno J. Ronkewicz will try for assessor, two years. Both Edmund W. Baxter and John P. Gallagher were chosen to run for justices of the peace.

Rochester

The Rochester GOP renominated their three top officeholders: Supervisor Franklin S. Kelder, Clerk Eileen R. Baker, who also serves as tax collector, and Superintendent of Highways Richard T. Gray.

Harrison A. Brown will go for the four year assessor position and Aaron Bell will try for the two year post. Harold Lipton is justice of the peace candidate and Russell J. Kortright is the candidate for councilman.

Rochester's Democrats picked Martin Shuster to run for supervisor, Howard Terwilliger for superintendent of highways, and Sam Waruch to try for the four year assessor slot.

The Dems also renominated their winning officeholders: two year Assessor Harold F. Bush, Justice of the Peace Raymond Lawrence and Councilman Morris Sims.

Shandaken

The Democrats of Shandaken refused to endorse any Republican and, instead, fielded an entire slate of candidates for the town's highest offices.

Nash E. Dunham will run for supervisor, Allan Hagadorn for clerk, Lindsay R. Hoyt for tax collector, Clarence Kurtz for superintendent of highways, Tony Krenn for the four year assessor post and Beverly Duffy Dutcher for the two year position.

Paul E. Herdman will seek the full justice of the peace slot and Mary Whitefield will make the run for councilman.

Lloyd

Lloyd Democrats, enjoying a position few Democrats in Ulster County enjoy, put up the town's five top officers to run again under the Democratic flag.

Incumbents nominated were Supervisor Thomas J. Shay Jr., Clerk Vincent J. Gaffney, Superintendent of Highways Peter Anella, four year Assessor Cos A. Trapani and two year Assessor William E. Knapp.

Joseph E. Pavero will run for justice of the peace, and Albert Lester will make the dash for the councilman post.

Dear Abby

Thanks Is Enough

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: I am a girl in my early twenties who works in an office with several older women.

The older women carry their lunches and eat them at their desks. I prefer to go out for lunch every day to get away from the office for a change of scenery. I don't do anything special. I just walk around for the exercise and window shop. My problem is that several of the women in the office ask me to stop at the department store, which is just around the corner, or the drug store, next door, to pick up something for them. It's no trouble for me, and I enjoy doing these errands as it gives me something to do.

When I get back to the office I always find money on my desk of having done these errands. What should we do? They Abby, I do not like taking their money, but they insist. How can I have even gone so far as to say that in the future I will not do their errands for them if they insist on paying me, but when I come back, there is always money on my desk. What should I do? Sign me.

DEAR ABBY: We live in a "good" neighborhood, very "well-to-do" and influential family. I who, on very warm days, per-enjoy doing these errands as it gives me something to do.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder just how many people wrote in to tell you that your Spanish was beautiful. But why did you reply in Spanish to a reader who wrote to you from Brazil?

In Brazil they speak Portuguese, not Spanish. If it makes you feel any better, 99 out of 100 Americans make the same mistake.

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, Sept. 14, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Emphasis on obtaining what you require. This is accomplished if you seek aid of friends. Let others help you. This promotes good will. Could be day for fulfillment of wishes.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Stress on accomplishment. Follow through on obligations. Later you can relax at social affair. Contacts made today could prove essential to career. Express yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Communications, messages, ability to get key people spotlighted. Don't attempt to go it alone. Check sources. Read and write. Be in touch with important person.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The more you talk, the more you learn. Communicate. Let others know you possess opinions. Some today appear to be antagonistic. You win if charming but firm.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Listen, observe. Make necessary concessions, adjustments. Don't argue with family members. Know that the most important thing is to be true to yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis on ability to work with material available. Don't wander too far afield. Recognize limitations. Avoid self-deception. Face reality. Then you are on road to progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Favorable lunar aspect points to romance, creative endeavors, constructive changes. Much pressure indicated. But you are able to cope with it. Keep promises made to children.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent today on home strength which comes from being on familiar ground. Don't permit others to pull you away. Some want you to be weak. Know this. Keep your guard high.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stress today on new contacts, the manner in which you express yourself. Be versatile. Highlight sense of humor. Don't be mired down by tradition. Instead, be daring, unique.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Find out what's going on, coming in. Plug up loopholes. Avoid needless waste. Check budget. Contact accountant if necessary. Be fully aware in financial matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Cycle continues high. Circumstances appear to turn in your favor. Trust your own judgement. Others may not see situation with your perception. State views. Be forthright.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Check details connected with club, special group activity. Some have expressed confidence in you. Don't let them down. Be especially considerate of person confined to hospital, home.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, have deep need to communicate and express yourself. Could excel as journalist, author, teacher, photographer. New activity is stressed now and fresh contacts pay dividends.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for AQUARIUS, PISCES. Special word to GEMINI: news concerning journey appears imminent. (Copr. T.M. 1967, Gen. Fea. Corp.)

Good Play Wins Tough Contract

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

East and West hold 22 high card points and nine spades today. North and South hold only high card points and eight hearts, but North and South each have a singleton and the king of diamonds is placed favorably for them so that a club opening lead will hold West to seven tricks in any spade contract while there is no defense that will beat South at four hearts if South plays perfectly.

When this hand was played in the Summer National championships in Montreal, Ad (Mrs. John) Simon of St. Louis managed to get a top score that helped her to win the Leventritt pairs. She bid four hearts and then brought home the contract against the toughest defense.

West opened the three of trumps and dummy's nine held the trick. Ad wanted to ruff a spade or two in dummy but had no way to get to her hand to do so she played a club from dummy trick two. She did not lead out dummy's ace of spades first because she wanted to keep that ace for awhile in case the defense continued to lead trumps. They did all right. East hopped up with the ace of clubs and led a trump to his partner's ace. A third trump lead left Ad in dummy with no trumps there and only two in her own hand, but they were enough. She led a club and ruffed it. Then she took the diamond finesse successfully. A third club was ruffed by her last trump. Then she ran off the rest of the diamonds, making sure to win the last diamond in dummy. After that she led a fourth club. East held that trick with the jack but that was the third and last trick for his side because he had to lead a spade to dummy's ace and the last club had been established for the 10th trick.

Says Jerry Lewis Arrived

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Jerry Lewis who makes funny movies that have big box office appeal—not the Jerry Lewis of some recent, unhappy television experiences—arrived on the small screens Tuesday night.

The comedian's new NBC show, if the premiere is a sample of things to come, will have him clowning as various characters in assorted sketches.

First we saw Jerry dressed in starched, pleated skirt dancing with what looked like a band of Greek soldiers. Then he was a shy bumbling dope trying to make friends with a gang of smooth, rude sophisticates.

As a ticket clerk for Anxious Airlines, he sported a mustache and a blacked-out front tooth which looked funny although not much else was very humorous about the sketch.

Then he was the midnight cleaning man sitting in the board chairman's seat at a conference table and pretending to be lord of all he surveyed. Finally there was an over-long sketch with guest star Lynn Redgrave in which he played a buck-toothed myopic marriage expert on his honeymoon—and almost anybody could have written the comedy lines in that one.

Between the sketches were some songs by Sonny and Cher and a delightful production number by the Baja Marimba Band and some dancers.

For one not devoted to Lewis' grotesque comedy style, these interludes were the more enjoyable moments of the hour.

Bob Finkel, who produces the new series, has a nice easy hand with variety shows—three superior Andy Williams Shows of recent seasons were his—and it is apparently his plan to confine Lewis to his broad comedy characters. The series bids fair to become popular with the young crowd.

"N. Y. P. D.," ABC's new police series, is another of those so-called "realistic" shows about hard-working tired cops. It is working a field already pretty well plowed by both "Dragnet" and "Felony Squad."

The excitement was built on Tuesday's show by having two cases breaking at once with Hooks in the middle. One involved questioning a suspect in a fur robbery and the other involved protection for a stool pigeon pursued by his enemies.

The innovation of the series—and it adds a false note—is giving voice to the thoughts of Detective Jeff Ward—Hooks character—as he mulls over his cases.

It is a pretty fair show of its kind—although "Hawk," one of last season's early disasters in the ratings, had a more stimulating quality in stories built around the same New York base.

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Every city in America should have a man like Walter Marshall.

You know, the kind of guy who forgets about accumulating money and turns to the thankless jobs that put a city on wheels; the guy whose personality gets into the foundations of a town.

Zestful Man

Walter Marshall is a chunky, zestful little man who finds more than 24 hours in a day. He isn't a mayor or a civic club president, although he could be, and he could be well-to-do from his livelihood, which is selling advertising in Helena.

But many years ago, Walter decided how much time he would give to making money, and how much to nonpaying work. The nonpaying variety turned out to be more fun. He wears a half-tie that looks like it was dunked in soup and had to be cut off. He has a gravelly voice, and, yes, sometimes he bugs people. But he gets the job done, any job, wherever the town can use him.

Walter took charge of a decaying old brewery on Helena's Last Chance Gulch and, with the help of his teacher wife, Doris, turned it into one of the finest summer theaters in the Northwest.

He built a stage, an auditorium and dormitories for the actors. Then he stumped the city for support and signed college talent from all over the country. The result is standing room only virtually every night of the summer. Walter and Doris are always in the wings, though there is no cash in it for them.

Drove JFK

When John F. Kennedy came to Helena campaigning in 1960, Walter had the job of driving him back to the airport. "You've got to see our theater, Jack," he said, and promptly drove there.

Kennedy enjoyed the tour, glancing impatiently at his watch, but what he didn't enjoy were Walter's two large dogs which rode with them in the station wagon.

Seems the dogs liked the senator and spent most of the trip licking the back of his neck.

A couple of years later, Kennedy came back as president. When he stepped off the plane he spotted Walter in the welcoming committee and said:

"Hello, Walter. Do you still have those damned dogs?"

The Montana Centennial Commission sent a special train around the country to promote the state. Walter went, of course. They wound up in Washington, needing a big splash to get the promotion going. Every one else was trying to figure an angle when up to the depot drove Walter with a fleet of black limousines hauling two cases of champagne and virtually every secretary in the White House.

On Committee

An appreciation dinner was scheduled in Washington for Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. Walter was on the committee.

They needed a good toastmaster. "I'll call Huntley and Brinkley," said Walter.

As reconstructed many times on long Montana winter evenings, the conversation went like this:

"Hello, Chet? This is Walter Marshall in Helena. We're giving a dinner for Mike Mansfield in Washington and you're the toastmaster. You can't make it? What time CAN you make it Okay, that's only an hour late. I'll get Brinkley to sub for you until you get there."

"Hello, David? This is Walter Marshall in Helena. Chet wants to know if you can sub for him for an hour at this dinner for Mike Mansfield. You can't? Good, see you there."

Brinkley put on the first half of the show and Huntley, the second. It was beautiful.

A year later, State Sen. Tom Judge of Helena was in Washington and was introduced to Brinkley.

Brinkley frowned pensively. "Helena, Montana," he said. "Oh, yes, Say, who the hell is Walter Marshall?"

Brinkley frowned pensively. "Helena, Montana," he said. "Oh, yes, Say, who the hell is Walter Marshall?"

Freight House Fire
DUNKIRK, N.Y. (AP) — Firemen sought to determine the cause today of a fire which gutted a one-story Erie-Lackawanna Railroad freight house, now used as a warehouse for dairy equipment.

The freight house, built in 1851, is owned by the railroad and leased to Bentley & Renckens Dairy of Dunkirk for storage of milk cartons and other equipment, officials said.

There was no immediate damage estimate, they said.

The frame building is on Lakeshore Drive East.
